In General Demand.

Significant of the consumption of champagne in this country is the quick appreciation of wine perfection which keeps Moet & Chandon champagne at the head of the list of importations into the United States. Last year there were brought into the port of New York 99,387 cases of Moet & Chandon champagne, which amount is over 50 per cent greater than the importations of the brand second on the list, as shown in the customs house statistics. Moet & Chandon "White Seal," vintage 1900, is selected for service almost exclusively at prominent functions, and the large reserves of this grand wine serves to maintain the popular demand for it.

NEGROES' HOMES ATTACKED BY AN ENRAGED OHIO MOB

Shooting of a Railroader Arouses Whites in Springfield.

TROOPS ARE CALLED

Mayor Hurries Prisoner Away and Makes Request for Two Companies of Militia.

SOUND GENERAL FIRE ALARM

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

SPRINGFIELD, O., Feb. 28.—(1:30 a. m.)—Since 8 o'clock last night this city has been the scene of mob disorder, the outcome of feeling over the probable fatal shooting yesterday morning of Railroad Brakeman M. M. Davis by Preston Ladd and Edward Dean, negroes, both of whom have been placed under arrest here and, because of threatened lynching, hurried under cover of darkness tonight by the authorities to Dayton, where they are now safely lodged in jail.

When the mob learned that the prisoners had been taken from the city it went to that part of town known as the "jungle," inhabited by negroes, and began to burn and loot dwelling houses and saloons. At least six dwellings were burned and the contents of one saloon looted. A force of 75 members of local military companies are guarding the scene where the mob holds sway.

A general fire alarm was sounded. The sounding of the gong served to fill the streets with people and the feeling in the crowds was tense.

Police Sergeant Injured.

The mob entered Kempler's saloon in East Columbia street and looted it. Kempler and his wife fled, leaving their three little children asleep in a room over the saloon. The building was riddled with bullets and stones and it was only by the hardest efforts of police and firemen that a way was forced through the mob and the children rescued.

After the pillaging of the saloon drunkenness was an added feature of the riot.

At 11 o'clock members of the mob broke through a cordon of police and set fire to a house in the "jungles" which was quickly burned down.

Sergeant Creager, who had charge of the squad of police, was hit on the head with a brick and seriously wounded.

The police lost control of the situation about midnight, when six more houses were fired by the mob. To increase the difficulties of the local officers, the Springfield militiamen responded to the extent of but six men. Later this force was recruited to about 75 and succeeded in forcing back the crowd to some extent.

Just as the troops arrived one more building was fired and no efforts were made to save it.

Saved from Sure Death.

The efforts of the police and firemen and the guardsmen are now directed solely to forcing the rioters back and saving the property outside of the doomed square.

The authorities believe the two negroes were saved from being lynched only by their removal from the city. Early this morning Sheriff Almoney had wired Gov. Pattison for all available troops, and to hold others in readiness for possible call today.

The authorities say that the scenes are similar to those which ended in the lynching of Richard Dixon, a negro, in this city two years ago.

DAYTON, O., Feb. 28.—Companies G and K of the Third regiment of this city have been ordered to Springfield and will leave by the first train.

EVADES MANY QUESTIONS.

William Nelson Cromwell and Senator Morgan Clash During Hearing on Panama Canal.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—William Nelson Cromwell and Senator Morgan measured legal minds all day before the senate committee on interoceanic canals and in a drawn battle adjourned until tomorrow. Mr. Morgan pursued the witness relentlessly concerning his relations with the Panama Canal Company, asking many skillful questions, which were as skillfully evaded.

Mr. Cromwell drew a line between his actions since the transfer of the canal property to the United States, and before the transfer, and declined positively to answer any questions concerning the earlier period. At the close of the day, Mr. Morgan had brought out a scheme for the Americanization of the Panama Canal Company, which promised to furnish the subject for an interesting examination.

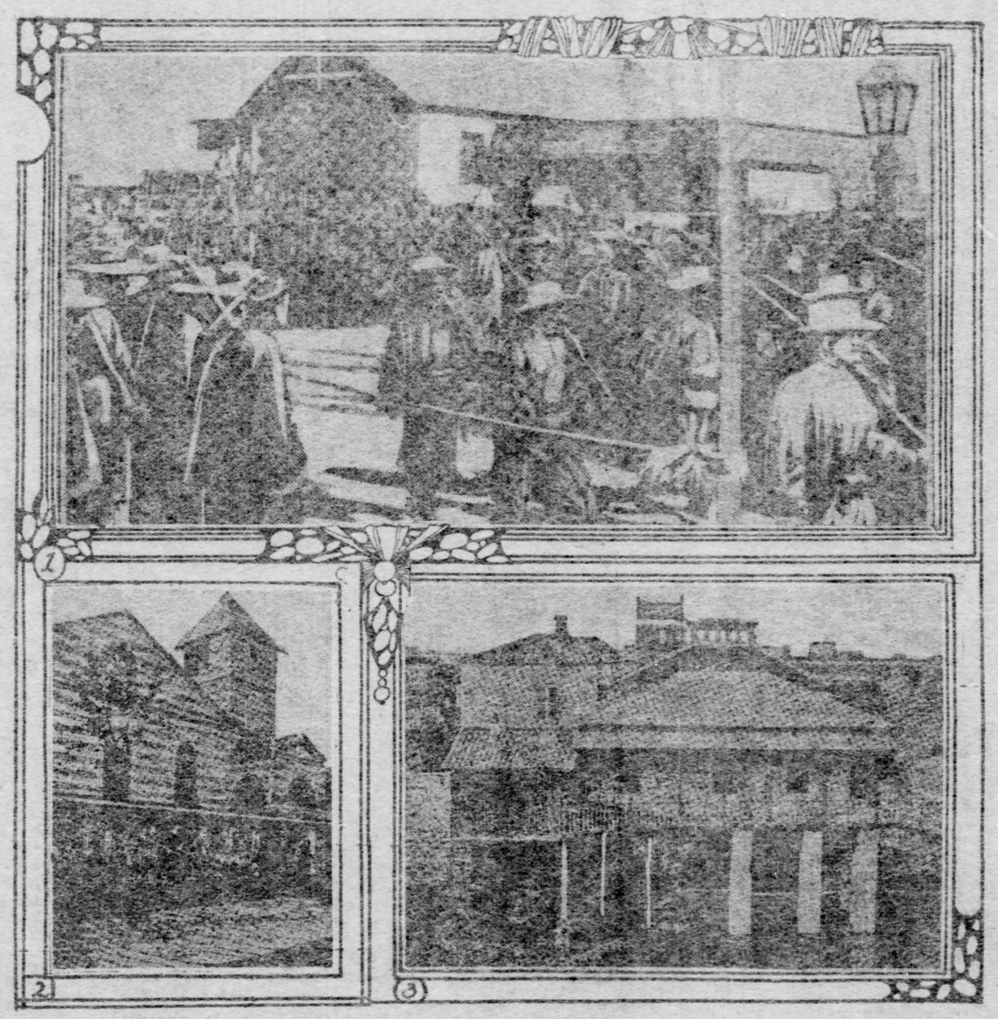
DISCOVERED AGAIN.

John D. Rockefeller Located at His Country Home in Pocantico, New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Henry Wollman, special representative of Attorney General Hadley of Missouri, settles the question of the whereabouts of John D. Rockefeller, head of the Standard Oil Company, for whom the subpoena servers have been diligently searching for weeks. Mr. Rockefeller is snugly hidden in his country home at Pocantico, N. Y.

Mr. Wollman said that Mr. Rockefeller took advantage of the law preventing the service of subpoenas on Sunday and attended church. Ignorance of the fact that Mr. Rockefeller had free passageway from his home into Fifty-third street through the home of his son-in-law, directly back of his own, was the reason the subpoena servers failed to perform their duty.

CHINESE TROOPS AND DESTROYED CHAPELS AT NAN-CHANG



1—A detail of the reorganized army of China. 2—Chapel just outside the gate of Nan-Chang, destroyed by rioters. 3—This chapel was in the busiest street of Nan-Chang. It was looted and burned.

BLOWN TO ATOMS BY A TERRIFIC EXPLOSION

Nitro-Glycerin Lets Go Killing Oil Well Driller—Also Causes Much Damage.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MARIETTA, O., Feb. 27.—By an explosion of 320 quarts of nitro-glycerin stored in a magazine two miles back of Williamstown, W. Va., H. B. Kerr, an oil well shooter of Salem, W. Va., was blown to atoms this afternoon. Not a vestige of the magazine was left. Two horses were blown into shreds, and the pieces were found 800 feet away imbedded in a part of the nitro-glycerin wagon.

The residence of John Russell, 1,000 feet away, was jarred from its foundations and every window broken. Other residences were damaged. One building a quarter of a mile away was wrecked and a 6-year-old girl was struck by flying glass and her head cut.

Trees were uprooted and hurled 50 feet away, while nearly every window in Williamstown was broken. Kerr was 30 years old and unmarried.

SUES MR. CARNEGIE.

W. D. Sloane and Daughter Claim He is Violating Agreement Over the Sale of Property.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—William D. Sloane and his daughter, Mrs. Florence Adele Burden, have begun action to prevent Andrew Carnegie from completing the sale of a piece of property on the north side of Ninety-first street, with a frontage of 47 feet, just east of Fifth avenue, adjoining on the west the handsome dwelling owned by Mrs. Burden.

Mrs. Burden declares if the sale is perfected and Lloyd S. Bruce, the purchaser, is permitted to erect the house he has in contemplation, her home will be destroyed, and the light and air she is entitled to will be interfered with. It was agreed five years ago, Mrs. Burden says, that in consideration of a sale agreement, Mr. Carnegie agreed that he would sell the corner plot to only a single purchaser, who would agree to erect one costly private dwelling.

NEW SKULL IS FORMING.

Hard Substance Is Expected to Fill the Holes in an Injured Man's Head.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Nature is slowly but surely supplying James H. Elliott with a new skull to take the place of the part of his head which was torn off in an accident at the postoffice last June. A hard substance that in time is expected to fill in the three holes in his skull, through which the pulsations of his brain are plainly discernible, is forming.

On June 15 he was struck on the head with a pneumatic tube carrier. It tore away several inches of skull, broke his nose and fractured his jaw. He was unconscious for 38 days.

BALFOUR WINS SEAT.

Former Premier Sick When Returns Are Received, but His Sister Thanks Voters for Him.

LONDON, Feb. 27.—Arthur J. Balfour, the former premier, was today elected to the house of commons for the city of London by a majority of 11,340 over his Liberal-Free Trade opponent, Thomas Gibson Bowles.

Mr. Balfour, who is not well, was unable to appear at the Guild hall, where the votes were counted, but was represented by Miss Balfour, who in a speech thanked the electors on behalf of her brother.

GUARDS ARE SENT TO PROTECT BARN FROM FIRE BUGS

Washington County Farmer Is Warned by a Letter from Unknown Persons.

[Special Telegram to The Gazette.]

MIDWAY, Pa., Feb. 27.—On top of a post in an infrequented corner of Richard Donaldson's orchard is a small package which throughout the afternoon has been carefully watched from a distance through field glasses by men with rifles at hand. Tonight the armed guards, hidden, but close to the post, are continuing their vigil. This morning Mr. Donaldson, who is a wealthy retired land owner, living near the outskirts of the borough, received this communication through the postoffice:

Sir—You will leave on the post in the northeast corner of your orchard $500 in money today before 2 o'clock. If the money is not there by 2 o'clock we will burn your barn, and will continue burning as fast as you can build them.

The letter, which was written in an unknown hand on ordinary note paper, was unsigned and bore no stamp. It was dropped into an empty receiving box at the postoffice along with a penny to pay for the stamp.

Postmaster E. C. Donaldson did not notice the person who deposited the letter, and does not recognize the handwriting, which is apparently that of an educated person. Donaldson was excited by the receipt of the letter, and on the advice of friends placed a package as bait on the post designated. He also set guards to watch the package besides stationing men near the barn, whose destruction is threatened.

Donaldson lives on the farm with his wife and daughter. It is understood that sentinels will be on guard for an indefinite length of time, and Donaldson hopes to capture the writer of the letter.

MOB PELTS GENDARMES.

Separation of Church and State Causes Serious Disturbances—Fifteen Are Wounded.

LE PUY, FRANCE, Feb. 27.—Serious disturbances occurred today during the taking of the inventory of a village church near Saugues, department of Haute-Loire. An enormous crowd armed with sticks and stones surrounded the gendarmes, many of whom were beaten or pelted with heavy stones.

The gendarmes, in order to extricate themselves, fired their revolvers, wounding 15 of the manifestants, two of whom were mortally hurt. The officer commanding the gendarmes and the government commissioner, were both badly injured by the rioters. The gendarmes retired with difficulty.

UPSET MOTHER'S PLANS.

Prominent Avalon Girl of 19 Spurns Trip to Mexico and Hurriedly Weds Missouri Banker.

LOS ANGELES, CAL., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Had the plans of her mother been carried out Alba Calvin, of Avalon, a suburb of Pittsburgh, would be speeding to Mexico instead of planning her wedding tour. Miss Calvin consented to a hurried marriage to E. W. Kimble, a banker and lawyer of Carrollton, Mo. After the ceremony Kimble and his bride dashed in an automobile to the hotel in which her mother is staying, and braved parental indignation.

Mrs. Calvin succumbed, but reiterated to her daughter that she might have waited until age had sobered her judgment. The bride is 19 and an heiress. The groom is 32.

Chief Engineer Will Retire.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—W. H. Brown, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania railroad, will be retired tomorrow under the provisions of the pension plan, after 41 years' active service with the company, more than 32 of which have virtually been in the capacity of chief engineer.

SHIP CANAL BILL IS PASSED BY THE HOUSE

Measure for Local Waterway Goes Through Lower Branch by Vote of 196 to 81.

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—By a vote of 196 to 81 the bill introduced by Representative Dalzell to incorporate the Lake Erie & Ohio River Ship Canal Company was passed by the house today. It was evident from previous votes that there would be plenty of support to insure the passage of the bill, but the Democrats today insisted upon a roll call. For four years this bill has been pending before congress, being introduced each congress by Mr. Dalzell. It was reported favorably by the committee on railways and canals, but some strong influences have been working to prevent its passage.

Now that it has passed the house, the question is what chance has it in the senate. It is probable that Senator Penrose will do all in his power to secure its passage as he has stated that he was in favor of it, and that if Mr Dalzell would get it through the house he would undertake to secure its passage through the senate. It is not known how Senator Knox stands on the proposition. However, if the Pittsburgh people who are interested in the ship canal want to insure its enactment into law at this session, they will have to get very active in its behalf.

Should the Democrats of the senate take the stand that the house Democrats did and decide that it was bad policy for the government to grant national charters, there will be little chance of the bill becoming a law. Mr. Dalzell said today:

"It behooves the people of Pittsburgh who are interested in this bill to come down here and get to work. If effective work is done in explaining it to senators those chances will be greatly enhanced."

COMBINE BOILER WORKS.

Ohio Concern and New Jersey Company to Form New $15,000,000 Corporation.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—The two largest manufacturers of water tube boilers in the country are understood to have arranged to consolidate. They are the Babcock & Wilcox Company, Bayonne, N. J., and the Stirling Consolidated Boiler Company, Mansfield, O., and Barberton, O.

The Stirling company was incorporated in October to succeed the Stirling Company and the Aultman & Taylor Machinery Company. The capital is $4,875,000. Parties interested in the Diamond Match Company of Akron, O., control big interests in the big company. It is proposed to incorporate a new company with a capital of $15,000,000.

MONSIGNOR FITZMAURICE DIES AT ATLANTIC CITY

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Feb. 27.—Monsignor James J. Fitzmaurice, rector of St. Michael's Roman Catholic church, Philadelphia, a brother of Bishop Fitzmaurice of Erie, and one of the best-known clergymen in Pennsylvania, died here tonight after a protracted illness.

Successful Test of Submarine.

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—About 500 miles was covered in 40 hours by the submarine torpedo boat Shark in her endurance tests. The boat was run on the surface eight hours a day for five days under the power of her gasoline engines. Not the slightest accident befell the boat or her machinery.

SUICIDE STARTS FATAL ATTACK ON CHINESE MISSIONS

Outbreak Causes Apprehensive Feeling in Pekin.

EMPRESS IN DANGER

Shoe Cast at Her—American Missionaries Reach Place of Safety.

BATTLESHIPS ARE PREPARING

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

PEKIN, Feb. 27.—The sub-prefect of Nanshang, who had a bad reputation among foreigners since the Boxer troubles, invited the missionaries to a banquet. After the banquet the sub-prefect withdrew and attempted to commit suicide. This act, in Chinese eyes, necessitated vengeance and led to the massacre.

The feeling in Pekin is apprehensive owing to the fact that a Chinese shoe was thrown at the dowager empress while she was walking in the palace garden. The miscreant has not been discovered.

American Consul General Rodgers telegraphs from Shanghai that the 14 American missionaries who fled from Nanchang all reached Kiukiang in safety. The gunboat El Cano is proceeding from Nanking to the scene.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 27.—The survivors of the massacre of missionaries at Nanchang arrived at Kiukiang. The French cruiser Descartes and the American gunboat Quiros sailed today for Kiukiang. It is understood that the British sloop Clio and the gunboat Teal are already there.

MANILA, Feb. 27.—The battleship Ohio, flagship of the American fleet on the Asiatic station, sailed for Hongkong, where she will dock and rush repairs so as to be prepared for possible exigencies.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Dr. H. K. Carroll of the Methodist Missionary society announced today that he had received from Bishop Bashford, at Shanghai, the following cablegram:

"James, Charles and families; Lewis, Howe, Osborn, Kahn, Newby, Hughes all reached Kiukiang safe. Property unburned. Trouble due French Catholics' fatal quarrel with magistrate."

MANILA, Feb. 27.—A leading American firm received the following telegram from Canton:

"The boycott has greatly encouraged the anti-foreign feeling. Teachers, reformers, agitators and the native newspapers now have the power of that association behind them. In the perfecture of Chang-Chow, near Amoy, recent outrages against foreign church procedure approved by Pekin has strengthened the revolutionary forces, who are now eager to try conclusions with the government. In a portion of China, between the Yangtaze valley and the Hongkong district, a dangerous anti-foreign feeling exists, which is likely to break out at any moment. The federal troops are preparing against the impending outbreak."

FOLLOWS FRIEND TO GRAVE

Aged Miss Martha B. Douglass Dies One Day After Mrs. Eliza Passavant.

One day after the death of her old friend, Mrs. Eliza Passavant, Miss Martha B. Douglass died yesterday of paralysis at the home of L. F. Daume in East McKeesport. Miss Douglass was 81 years old.

When the war of the rebellion broke out Miss Douglass, who was well acquainted with the late Rev. Dr. W. A. Passavant and his wife, who died on Monday at Zelienople, was requested to go as a nurse to the army. She served with the Army of the Potomac throughout the entire struggle. After the war she came to Pittsburgh and was a nurse at the Passavant hospital, founded by Dr. Passavant, leaving the institution when the sisterhood now there assumed full charge.

Until her health failed, Miss Douglass continued as a nurse. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Amelia Pearce of Latrobe, and a brother, Henry Douglass of Freedom. Miss Douglass was born in Zelienople, and her body has been taken there for burial.

SECURES THIRD DIVORCE.

Venango County Man Has Had Many Matrimonial Adventures.

FRANKLIN, PA., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—William Grunden of Franklin today got his third divorce in Venango county. He secured his first in 1884 after living with his wife 30 years. He got his second in 1900, having lived with his wife less than a year. He married his third wife in 1900 and lived with her only two weeks.

Desertion was the basis of the last divorce. Grunden got his two last wives through advertising. He is soon to marry again.

FIRE THREATENS TO DESTROY A VILLAGE

POTTSVILLE, PA., Feb. 27.—A fire that threatens to destroy the village is burning at Cumbola, near here. The village has 250 houses and 2,500 inhabitants. Aid has been summoned from surrounding towns. The inhabitants of the village are panic-stricken and many have fled to the hills. Extreme cold weather prevails.

NEW POSTOFFICE FOR THIS CITY IS TO BE URGED

Local Business Men Will Appear Before Congressional Committee.

TO BE HEARD TODAY

Will Ask Enactment of the Burke Bill Appropriating $3,000,000.

HARD FIGHT FOR MEASURE

Special Telegram From
L. W. STRAYER, Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—A hearing will be given tomorrow by the house committee on public buildings and grounds to the Pittsburgh congressmen on the bill introduced by Representative James Francis Burke providing for an appropriation of $3,000,000 for a public building at Pittsburgh. It will be but a few minutes in duration, as the committee will on that same day hear committees from Toledo, Chicago and other cities, but it will give the Pittsburgh members an opportunity to present their case and show the need of a new postoffice for Pittsburgh.

At the same time a formal invitation will be extended to the committee to go to Pittsburgh, hold hearings and examine into the need of a new building. It is not known whether or not the invitation will be accepted.

Today Representatives Burke, Dalzell and Barchfeld called upon Mr. Bartholdt, chairman of the committee, and talked with him about the proposition. Mr. Bartholdt said he would be pleased to go to Pittsburgh, and said he would talk with the other members of the committee on the subject. In some manner Mr. Bartholdt got the idea there was no great need of a new building at present, and that the people were not insistent upon having one. This idea the Pittsburgh congressmen endeavored to change and if there is any such lingering doubt in the minds of other members of the committee it will be satisfied tomorrow when Messrs. Burke and Dalzell present the claims of their city.

Have a Hard Task.

The congressmen realize that they have an almost impossible task before them to secure the appropriation at this session. They are aware that the sum asked for is so large that to grant it would mean passing by a number of smaller requests. But they will keep working, satisfied that, even though they do not get the appropriation this session, they will have started the movement that will next year or the next give Pittsburgh the postal facilities that it needs.

The estimate of the treasury department of the cost of a site for a new building run from $1,250,000 to $2,300,000, and the Pittsburgh members would be satisfied this year with an appropriation of the minimum estimate for a site. This would provide for beginning the work by inaugurating condemnation proceedings for the acquirement of the desired property, which will require several years. And in the meantime there would be opportunity for getting from congress the necessary appropriation for the construction of the building.

If the movement to have Pittsburgh included in the public building bill is unsuccessful it will not be abandoned. It is quite probable that a provision for it will be inserted in the senate, or at least an effort in that direction will be made. Senator Knox has expressed himself as in favor of a new building for Pittsburgh, and it is believed he will use his influence to get through an appropriation for it. Senator Penrose will also willingly help.

Mayor Hays Advised.

Representative Burke was in communication this evening with Mayor Hays regarding the invitation to the committee, and he informed the mayor that the matter would be attended to tomorrow.

Representative Burke was tendered a high honor for a new member by the house today. While the house was in committee of the whole considering the military appropriation bill it became necessary for the committee to rise to receive a message from the senate. Mr. Burke was called to the chair, and as speaker pro tempore he received the message.

BEAM FALLS ON THREE.

Workmen Are Badly Hurt and Taken to McKeesport Hospital.

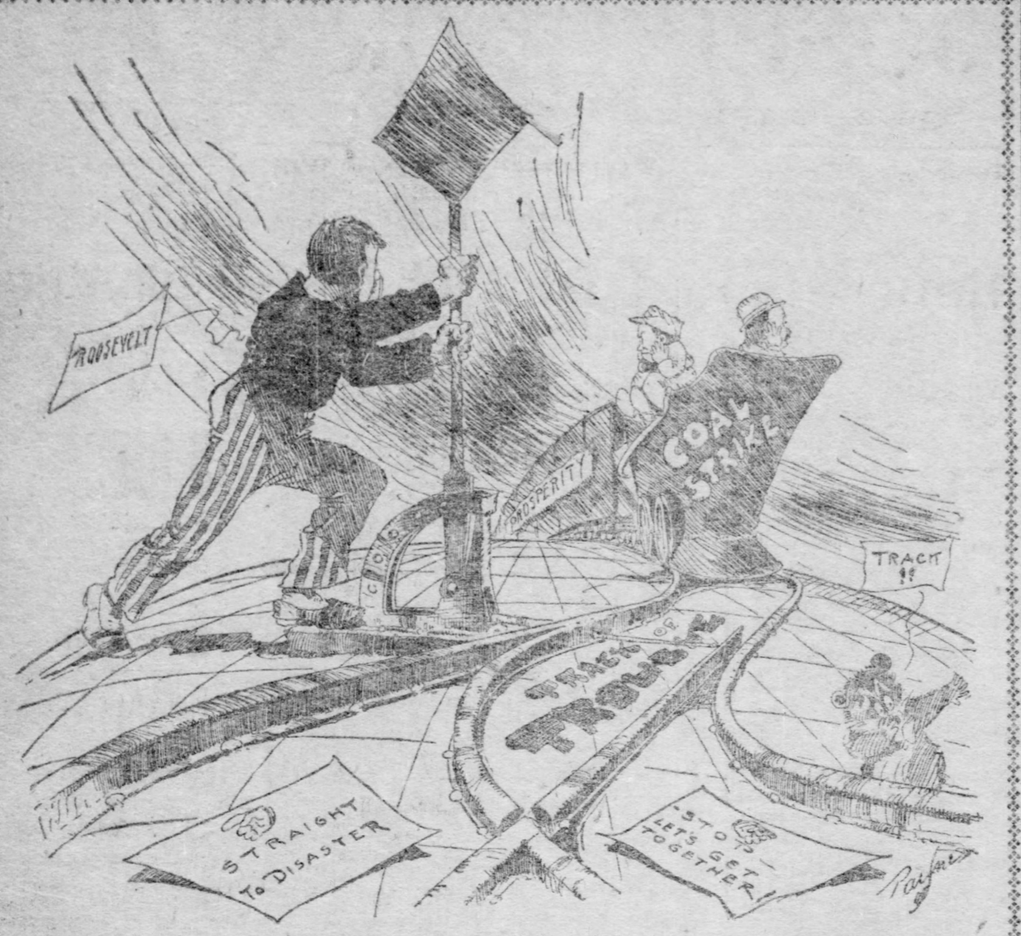
Three men were seriously injured by the falling of a steel beam at the Monongahela blast furnace of the National Tube Company in McKeesport last night. They are: William Wohl, aged 20, of Duquesne; Adel Gladstone, aged 24, and George Schenk, aged 22. All three were taken to the McKeesport hospital, where they will recover. They were helping to hoist a large steel beam when the chain which held it slipped and the beam struck them.

Gallay Gets Seven Years.

PARIS, Feb. 27.—Special Cable.)—Jean Gallay, a defaulting clerk of the Comptoir D'Escompte, who fled in a yacht to Brazil with Mme. Merelli and was brought back from Bahia, was convicted today. Judge Bertulus sentenced him to seven years imprisonment. His companion, Mme. Merelli, was acquitted.

Many Killed in Southern Mine.

BIRMINGHAM, ALA., Feb. 7.—Six men were killed and 12 so badly injured that most of them will probably die before morning in an explosion in Little Cahaba mine No. 2 at Piper, Ala., this afternoon. The mine is owned by the Little Cahaba Coal Company. Piper is about 60 miles south of Birmingham.



Never Asleep at the Switch.

OPERATORS ARE NOT IN ACCORD

Dissension is Expected at Conference Called for Today to Consider Advance.

DISRUPTION IS PREDICTED

Considerable dissension is anticipated at the conference of the bituminous coal operators to be held in the board room of the Pittsburgh Coal Company this morning in answer to a call issued by Francis L. Robbins upon his return to the city yesterday morning.

Upon his arrival here Mr. Robbins found a letter from President Roosevelt awaiting him, similar to that sent by the President to John Mitchell, urging the operators and miners to make another effort to adjust their differences and, if possible, avoid the threatened strike. Because of these letters, and because of the series of conferences held between Mr. Robbins and other bituminous coal operators with President Mitchell in New York recently, the conference of the operators was called.

It is generally conceded that the proposition to grant the miners a 5.5 per cent advance will be laid before the bituminous operators of the four states in the interstate agreement. This proposition, or any proposition for an advance, will be strongly opposed by at least a minority of the operators, and some of them were free in expressing their opinions yesterday that if the advance is recommended by a majority vote, it will be the death knell of the interstate agreement.

One Operators Point of View.

Said one operator yesterday: "Why should unbearable burdens be saddled upon us by the United States Steel Corporation and Wall street interests because they are enjoying the high-tide of prosperity and want to continue to enjoy it at our expense. The coal trade is in anything but a prosperous condition, and the current prices of coal are barely above the profit point. The steel interests have no right to dictate what we should do, or intimate what we must do. They have no right to assume that they can force our hands against ourselves and cripple our interests for their personal gain. The bituminous operators are in no position to grant a nadvance. The offer was made in the Indianapolis joint conference by Mr. Robbins, to permit a committee of the miners to investigate our books and judge for themselves if we are able to meet an advance. With these selfish interests demanding that we sacrifice our interest for their gain, the coal operators are placed in a very embarrassing position, and it looks as if the miners have us on the run and are in position to ask for any sized advanced they might choose."

This expression was voiced by an operator of one of the larger independent interests and the same position is being taken by many of the smaller independent interests. However, at least two of the largest independent interests are known to be favorably disposed toward the plan to be submitted this morning and it is believed they will lend sufficient strength to the principal interest, the Pittsburgh Coal Company, in carrying the day.

May Adopt Open Shop.

So adverse are some of the operators toward granting an advance at this time, that it was said in some quarters yesterday, in the event that the operators by majority vote decide upon an increase, several of the now independent unionized mines will adopt the open-shop policy after April 1.

Some speculation is rife as to who will represent the Pittsburgh district of miners at the national conference which has been recalled to meet in Indianapolis on March 15, because of the fact that the national officers have recognized that President Patrick Dolan and Vice President Uriah Bellingham have been regularly deposed. Dolan still claims the right to attend the coming conference, but the special committee of three appointed by National President John Mitchell "to take charge of the affairs of the district" will, no doubt, represent the local district. These committeemen are members of the national executive board, and will also be compelled to attend the conference for that reason, and it is believed President Mitchell will recognize them as delegates and refuse to seat Dolan. The latter declares he will attend the convention and vote, and if he carries out his program, a portion of the legal fight now on in the local district might be transfered to Indianapolis, should he make a firm demand to be recognized and seated.

TWO MORE WOMEN GET PLACES IN CARNEGIE SCHOOL FOR WOMEN

Miss Catherine L. Mongan. Miss Julia Harding.

The Carnegie technical schools announce the appointment in the Margaret Morrison Carnegie school for women, of Miss Julia Harding of this city, as instructor in current topics, in the preparatory classes which open next Monday and which will prepare students for the regular technical. Also the appointment of Catherine L. Mongan of Monticello, N. Y., in the schools for women, as instructor in physiology and hygiene. Miss Mongan was educated in the public and high schools of Monticello, and later was graduated from the Toronto technical school of Toronto, Ont. Miss Mongan since her graduation has been in demonstration work in connection with the Women's Institute of Ontario, which is affiliated with the Farmers' Institute of Ontario.

Miss Harding is a native of Pittsburgh and a member of one of the oldest and best known families of this city. She is vice regent of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and president of the Twentieth Century club.

OFFERS OF GERMANY NOT WELL REGEIVED

French Position Said to Be One Where No More Concessions Can Be Made.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

LONDON, Feb. 27.—The report from Berlin that Germany has expressed her willingness to make concession on the Moroccan situation if France will yield something on the announcement from St. Petersburg that Russia is using her influence at Berlin to prevent a rupture have given a ray of hope that the conference might still succeed. These hopes are not strong.

An official today said it is difficult to see what further France can concede. France should control the finance and police of Morocco.

ALGECIRAS, SPAIN, Feb. 27.—French official do not look favorably upon the Berlin report that Germany will make concessions if France will yield something. The French say it will be time enough for Germany to act for further French concessions when Germany has responded to those already made.

Sidi Mohammed el Mokhri, the second Moroccan delegate, has caused considerable excitement by the disclosure that concessions for harbor improvements at Casablanca and Saffi, two leading Atlantic ports of Morocco, were given to the Cruesot company (French) at the same time that the Germans secured a concession for harbor improvements at Tangier.

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—The Sued Deutsche Reichs correspondence of Karlsruhe, the purveyor of Chancellor von Buelow's views on foreign politics, maintains a much more hopeful attitude relative to the Algeciras conference than the latest utterances of the French press.

TANGIER, MOROCCO, Feb. 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan of New York has arrived here.

SUSPEND ANTHRACITE CONFERENCE FOR TIME

Settlement of Bituminous Mine Situation to Be Fixed Before Eastern Operators Decide.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Pending a settlement of the controversy between the soft coal operators and miners, in which President Roosevelt has taken a hand, the negotiations with the anthracite operators have apparently been suspended. No meeting between the anthracite operators' sub-committee and the miners' sub-committee will take place tomorrow, as announced, and no other date of meeting has been arranged.

It is believed by the operators that President Mitchell probably will allow the anthracite question to await a settlement of the bituminous controversy, and that his demands may be affected by the settlement in the soft coal field.

Mitchell said he did not expect to have any further conferences with the soft coal opertors.

Asked regarding the probable effect of President Roosevelt's letter he said: "It would be more speculation for me to say anything now. It remains for the miners' convention to make the final decision."

HEART FAILS AS MORPHINE WORKS

Johnstown Draughtsman Dies from Over-Doses of Bromides and Dangerous Drugs.

SUICIDE OF YOUNG WOMAN

Lindsay DeB. Little, aged 35, of 747 Somerset street, Johnstown, died at the Homeopathic hospital at 8 o'clock last night from overdoses of morphine and bromide. He was a draughtsman and was employed by the Cambria Steel Company at Johnstown. His body will be cared for by his mother-in-law, Mrs. John Powell, of 208 Hemlock street, Allegheny.

Lindsay had been in the city about a week and had been drinking some. Last Saturday he went to the Duquesne hotel. He remained in his room Saturday and Sunday. He was ill most of the time. Yesterday morning about 7 o'clock he packed his grip and left the hotel. About one hour later he returned, saying he felt too weak to travel, and engaged his room again. Shortly after 7 o'clock last night a porter notified the hotel clerk that Little was very weak.

Manager C. H. Douglass went to Little's room and found him alarmingly ill. Little said he thought he could eat some broth, and Manager Douglass left the room to order it for him. When the porter returned with the broth he found Little had fallen over the edge of the bed and was deathly sick.

Manager Douglass was again notified and he summoned Dr. W. H. McKelvey, who suggested that the patient be sent to the Homeopathic hospital. When Little reached the hospital his heart action was very bad and he died at 8 o'clock. It was first thought that Little committed suicide, but his relatives deny this. Little was married five years ago and his wife died three years later. He is survived by a boy three years old, who lives with Mrs. Powell.

Margaret Young, whose home is said to be at Altoona, committed suicide last evening at 710 Watson street by taking carbolic acid. She and a young man named Elmer Rainey occupied two rooms there and were known as husband and wife. The woman was about 30 years of age; Rainey is aged 24. He is a driver employed by the E. E. Rieck Company, milk dealers on Forbes street. Other people in the house last night said the woman was scolding about Rainey not coming home to supper soon enough, just before she took the acid. Officer W. R. Reynolds was told she had taken poison and when he went to the house found Rainey there. He sent the woman to the Homeopathic hospital, where she died at 6 o'clock, and Rainey was sent to Central station. He was excited and confused and unable to tell just what caused the woman to take the poison, and Police Inspector R. H. Robinson ordered him locked up to await the coroner's action.

Eugene Sullivan of Woods Run, Allegheny, was taken to St. Joseph's hospital yesterday afternoon suffering from pneumonia. Shortly after his arrival at the hospital he grew rapidly worse and died at 7 o'clock last evening.

Albert Sonricker, aged 19, of Main street, Coraopolis, was asphyxiated by benzine fumes at the works of the Canfield Oil Company, Coraopolis, early yesterday morning. He was in charge of the benzine filter at the plant, and it is supposed he was overcome and fell into the benzine vat. He was found lying in about six inches of the fluid.

E. B. Ayers, aged 37, of Glassport, a brakeman, was killed on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad early yesterday morning. He had been working for 48 hours when he was sent back to flag a train. Sitting down on the tracks, he fell asleep. The train he was to flag ran over him. The engineer stopped his train or he would have crashed into the train ahead of him.

The coroner's jury rendered a verdict of accidental death in the case of Michael McMorris, a negro, who died at the West Penn hospital on January 18, from being run over by an automobile in the Grant boulevard. At the time of the accident the police said the auto was owned by A. C. Nieman of Stratford avenue, East End. John Hickson, aged 13, of 582 Grant boulevard, testified to witnessing the accident and said the machine that ran over McMorris was No. 2,356, which is the number of Nieman's machine. He said the chauffer was alone and did not stop after striking the negro. B. D. Winchel, Nieman's chauffer, testified that it was not his employer's machine, and that he did not run over McMorris. The jury took the view that Hickman might have been mistaken in the number of the machine, as it was dark when the accident occurred.

Charles Snow, aged 42, of 13 Liberty street, Allegheny, died at his home last night from a fractured skull received in a fall in Market street yesterday morning. Snow went home after the accident and last night became ill. A physician was summoned, but when he arrived Snow had become unconscious and died soon after.

PATRICK WITNESSES ARE LOSING THEIR CHARACTER

One Admits Pen Record While Another Is Said to Have Sought Fee.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Joseph Jordan, one of the Texas witnesses for Albert T. Patrick, convicted murderer, confessed that he committed perjury on the witness stand, according to an announcement by District Attorney Jerome to Recorder Goff. The charge was made on Jordan's denial on the stand that he had served a term of imprisonment at Huntsville, Tex.

Judge A. R. Bailey of Texas, the lawyer who prepared the affidavits of the Texan witnesses, and accompanied them north, was next called. Mr. Jerome asked Judge Bailey whether he knew R. J. Quimby. The witness said Quimby talked to him.

"He said he would make an affidavit if he was paid $200. I told him that I didn't transact that kind of an affidavit. I said his expenses would be paid if he traveled to New York, but that was all. He said he could get $500 from the other side if he wrote up to you" (meaning Mr. Jerome).

Judge Bailey said he had heard that Fayette Lee, one of the witnesses whom he had expected to bring from Texas, has been locked up on a charge of burglary.

BRINGING ELBERT BACK.

The Man Who Escaped from Dixmont Several Years Ago Does Not Appear Insane Now.

James Elbert, who escaped from the Dixmont insane asylum several years ago and who was arrested at Chicago a week ago, was brought to this city last night by Detective George W. Cole and Policeman James McIntyre. Elbert escaped from Dixmont in 1899. He had been sentenced seven years to the Western penitentiary for cutting Detective Cole, Policeman McIntyre and Inspector James W. McEvoy, at the Penn avenue station house in 1897.

After being at the penitentiary for a time it was thought Elbert had become insane and an examination was made of his metal condition following which he was transfered to Dixmont. He was there but a few months when he escaped. The police were of the opinion at the time that Elbert shamed insanity. He had his freedom for almost seven years.

The man went to Chicago and engaged in the fruit business. Last week he attempted to kill his partner and was arrested. The Chicago police then learned his identity and notified the detective bureau of this city.

Detective Cole and Policeman McIntyre said their prisoner seemed to be in full possession of his mental faculties while they were bringing him here. Elbert will be turned over to the court to be disposed of this morning.

SHIP IN GREAT PERIL.

Ashore in 50-Mile Gale and Life Savers Compelled to Leave Her to Her Fate.

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 27.—An unknown four-masted schooner was driven ashore in a blinding snowstorm one mile off Cape Henry late this afternoon. During the evening the wind, blowing nearly 50 miles an hour, made it impossible to launch a surf boat and efforts by life savers to shoot a line to the ship were unsuccessful on account of her distance from shore.

Her condition tonight was perilous. From indications early this evening it will be impossible to make another effort to reach her before daybreak.

COLD SPELL YESTERDAY CAUSES LOCAL FIRES

None Are Serious, Although One Man Has His Hands Cut by Falling Glass.

The cold weather of yesterday was the cause of a few fires in the afternoon and evening. None of them was very costly and no serious injuries were sustained in connection with the blazes.

Shortly after 8 o'clock last night fire was discovered in the rear room of a building occupied by E. Sadowsky & Son, tailors, at 3605 Butler street. Before it was extinguished the fire and water did $2,500 worth of damage, fully covered by insurance. The fire started in a rear room on the first floor and spread to the front room, then to the second floor. The origin of the fire was not known.

E. Sadowsky, Jr., discovered the blaze, and in trying to force a front window on the first floor was painfully cut by falling glass.

The accidental dropping of a match in a bureau drawer by Mrs. James W. Irwin of 161 Forty-second street, caused an alarm of fire early last evening. The damage was confined to the dresser and its contents. The damage was $50.

A small fire in a house in course of erection in Ruth street last night was extinguished after $25 damage had been done.

While thawing a frozen water pipe last evening Tony Pamot of 3 Smithton avenue, Allegheny, set fire to the woodwork, but the damage was slight.

A small fire in the barber shop of A. G. Westman, 15 Sycamore street, yesterday afternoon did damage estimated at $50.

Fire broke out in the store room of the Forty-eighth street roundhouse of the Allegheny Valley railroad at midnight and destroyed about $500 worth of supplies. The contents of the store room, composed of oils and tools, were burned up, but the building was saved by the firemen.

BURGLARS BUSY AGAIN.

Attack an Allegheny Man and Enter Two Houses in McDonald.

Burglars entered the house of James Deforest, 1823 Magnolia street, Allegheny, on Monday night. Mr. Deforest's family was asleep, and he returned home in time to meet the intruders. They attacked him, and he tried to hold one of the men, despite the blood streaming down his face. The men, who were negroes, got away without taking anything.

Robbers got into the house of S. D. Jones, Lincoln avenue, McDonald, early yesterday morning, going through the bathroom window, and met Howard Jones, Mr. Jones' son, returning from a reception. Young Jones tackled the burglars and got the revolver of one of them. They fled, Jones forgetting to shoot at them. Two men later entered the house of R. J. Crooks of McDonald and cut the telephone wires, but fled on upsetting a chair, which awakened the household.

Gay Crowds in New Orleans.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 27.—Perfect weather marked the annual carnival celebration today and enormous crowds witnessed the annual pageant of his majesty Rex. Promiscuous masking was general. The climax came tonight with the pageant of the "mystic krewe of Comus," which drew into the streets the greatest throng ever witnessing a carnival here. A brilliant ball at the French opera house followed. At the carnival palace Rex selected for his queen Adrienne Lawrence. At midnight they proceeded to the French opera house.

MASONS CLOSE CONVENTION.

Grand Council Elects Officers and Chooses Erie for the Next Meeting.

NEW CASTLE, PA., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Officers for the coming year were elected at the grand council meeting of Royal and Select Master Masons of Pennsylvania, which closed here this afternoon. At the close a banquet was attended by more than 200 Masons. Charles W. Wolfertz of Allentown, the newly elected grand master, presided as toastmaster. Erie was chosen as the next place of meeting on the third Tuesday of next January.

FIGHT TO PREVENT CUT OF CITY WATER RATES

The fight for a reduction of water rates will be renewed in select council this evening at 7:30 o'clock, at a special meeting called yesterday. The administration is expected to take a hand in the proceedings tonight to prevent a reduction of the water rates and the Monongahela Water Company is also interested in preventing a reduction, because a cut in the city rates means a compulsory cut in the rates on the South Side.

No Wabash Refunding Bonds.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—George J. Gould was authority for a statement this afternoon that the Wabash is not preparing to issue refunding bonds or other securities to replace the debenture A and B bonds of the company. The question of the claims of debenture bondholders had been receiving his attention. The committee, of which Henry Evans is chairman, resumed negotiations with legal representatives of the Wabash, partially discontinued last fall.

Endeavorers to Hold a Rally.

There will be addresses on "Lookout," "Prayer Meeting," "Missionary and Christian Citizenship Work," after which there will be a social.

Misses Diamond in Barber Shop.

Edward Shields, a barber, was arrested last evening in his shop in Cherry alley, near Third avenue, on a charge of larceny made by Thomas Meehan of Twenty-seventh street, before Magistrate Kirby. Meehan got shaved in the shop last Monday and after leaving the place missed his diamond scarf pin. He believes Shields took it.

ANGELUS PIANO

Angelus piano looks just like any other good upright piano. But it contains a genuine Angelus built inside out of sight. You can play the piano by means of the regular keyboard or you can insert a roll of any music you want to play, and by means of the Angelus get from your piano music such as is possible only with an Angelus or a great artist.

The Angelus is the simplest, the easiest operated, the most durable player in the world. It has the famous PHRASING LEVER emphasis and melody device, and the diaphragm pneumatics. No other player has these things.

The Angelus piano costs a little more than any other self-playing piano, but there's a sound reason for its higher cost.

Twenty-Four Members-Elect of Common Council Attend the Republican Caucus.

LEADERS CLAIM A MAJORITY

Twenty-four members of the new common council of Pittsburgh, representing 23½ votes, attended a caucus of the Republican members-elect of the body last night at the Republican headquarters in Grant street, and nominated William Brand of the Seventeenth ward for president.

The common council that will assemble for organization on the first Monday in April will consist of 53 votes or 56 members. There will be four members from the Fortieth ward, formerly the borough of Esplen, who will be given one vote. The Thirty-ninth ward, formerly Elliott borough, has now two representatives, each receiving one-half of a vote, but one of those members will drop out on April 1, leaving F. E. Clinton, the remaining member, to cast a whole vote.

Twenty-seven will constitute a majority of the new common council. The members present at the Republican caucus last night represented 44½ votes less than a majority, but William Brand, the nominee for president, claims the caucus heard from eight other members who have pledged themselves to vote for the caucus nominee. Mr. Brand claims the Republicans will have 34 of the 53 votes of the common council for the presidency.

The following is a list of the members of the new common council whom the Republicans claimed were present at last night's caucus: J. C. Wasson, Charles Gulland, N. F. Savage, W. G. Liggett, D. K. Barton, George F. Cromiller, William Brand, Charles Ross, Louis Hirsch, F. E. Clinton, A. V. Simon, Edward Shevlin, J. A. Marohn, Thomas Burke, Jr., Samuel Frankel, W. H. Melaney, Edward McBride, Jacob Soffel, Jr., H. B. Miller, John A. Bergmann, O. C. Sutherland, L. J. Dietrich, Harry Lennix.

Messrs. Sutherland and Dietrich are from the Fortieth ward, which is represented in common council by four members. The two members present at the caucus together represent one-half of a vote.

Besides the 23½ votes at the caucus, Mr. Brand said he had heard from the following other members who, he said, had agreed to support the caucus nominee: John F. Klein, First ward; M. J. Hooper, Sixth ward; William Schreiber, Eleventh; T. F. Moran, Fourteenth; Hugh Ferguson, Seventeenth; John Werner, Nineteenth; F. C. Blessing, Twenty-third, and F. A. Gould, Thirty-fifth ward. Mr. Gould of the Thirty-fifth ward was reported ill with appendicitis. Mr. Moran, it was stated, worked at night and Mr. Ferguson of the Seventeenth ward, it was at first stated, was out of town, but Mr. Brand later claimed Mr. Ferguson had called him up by telephone.

The other members-elect of common classed as Republicans who were not accounted for are W. D. Stockdale of the Second ward, G. J. Anderson of the Fourth and John F. Semmelrock of the Twenty-sixth.

The caucus was called to order by William A. Martin of the Sixteenth ward. Louis Hirsch of the Twentieth ward was made chairman of the caucus. H. B. Miller of the Eighteenth ward nominated William Brand for president of common council. There were no other nominations. Mr. Brand was declared the nominee of the Republicans and the caucus adjourned to meet again at the call of the chairman. The members present signed the pledge to vote for Mr. Brand.

Conceding that M. Brand will have the eight absent votes claimed to have been accounted for last night, he will have just 30½ votes, or 3½ votes more than a majority, if they are all present to cast their ballots on the first Monday of April.

It was stated last night that the Republican members-elect of select council would probably hold their caucus the last of the present week. No action was taken last night in regard to the city clerkships. W. C. Gearing, former assistant city clerk, was at the headquarters soliciting votes. Mr. Gearing is a candidate for city clerk against E. J. Martin and H. W. Minnemeyer.

SON OF KAISER IS WEDDED IN BERLIN

Imposing Ceremonial Marks the Union of Eitel-Fritz and Duchess Sophie.

[SPECIAL CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Feb. 27.—Duchess Sophie Charlotte of Oldenburg, daughter of the reigning grand duke of Oldenburg by his first marriage with Princess Elizabeth of Prussia, and Prince Eitel Frederick, the second son of the emperor and empress, were married at 5 o'clock this afternoon in the chapel of the palace by the court chaplain, Dr. Dryander. Rain was falling on the chapel dome, but the inside was lighted by hundreds of candles, showing the delicate costumes and uniforms of about 500 persons belonging to the royal families of Germany or the principal nobility. Ambassador Tower and Mrs. Tower were present.

The civil ceremony had previously taken place in the presence of the imperial family alone, in the electors chamber, while the other guests were gathering in chapel.

The empress placed the princess' crown of green velvet and diamonds, and a wreath of fresh myrtle, on the head of the princess. Her majesty, who also wore a wreath of myrtle, and the bride were both dressed in pearl-white silk. The train of the bride, four yards in length, was embroidered with silver roses.

The Duchess Sophie, with pages bearing her train, entered the chapel on the arm of Prince Eitel, and he changed at the altar from her left to her right. They were followed by the emperor and the grand duchess of Oldenburg, the empress and the grand duke of Oldenburg and others of the two families. The emperor and all the congregation except the bridal pair joined in the hymn.

The responses of the princess and prince were clearly and even loudly spoken. Dr. Dryander gave the prince a large Bible which he had difficulty in holding under his arm, and the emperor, the empress, the grand duke and the grand duchess kissed both the bride and groom. Dr. Dryander kissed the bride's hand and shook that of the prince.

The "torch dance," an immemorial German custom, began at 8. Instead of torches, candles three feet tall were held aloft by 12 lackeys. The bride took the emperor and all the princes, according to precedence, around the apartment, and Prince Eitel escorted the empress and all the other ladies.

In Memoriam.

The board of fire underwriters of Allegheny county, Pennsylvania, at a meeting held yesterday for the purpose of paying their respects to the memory of the late George M. Alexander, one of its members, adopted the following minute:

We have heard with profound sorrow of the death of George M. Alexander.

After a long and painful illness he has crossed the dark river and is now at rest. The sad event that removed him from our midst took place at his home in Frankstown avenue, East End, Pittsburgh, Sunday midnight, February 25, 1906.

In the death of George M. Alexander this association loses one of its oldest and most valued members. His sound judgment and large experience in insurance practices made him a valued and accepted councilor. His uniform courtesy and genial disposition made his companionship acceptable to all with whom he came in contact. He was upright and honorable in all his dealings with his fellow-men.

With his stricken family, we shall miss his pleasant smile, his hearty greeting, his genial presence, and with them, we shall long grieve over their and our loss. With his friends we rejoice at his attainment to the award to those of whom it is said, "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Hand-Painted Novelty Dress Woolens.

Imported solely by us as a special compliment to the women of Greater Pittsburg.

Indescribable in print, but we may say they are exact replicas of the materials in fashionable gowns worn recently at the Cecil, Carlton and Claridge social events in London, where rich dressing was pre-eminent.

All the designs are done by hand, and the colors and shadings are incomparably beautiful, and assimilate the new color combinations in ribbons and millinery.

Two-tone combinations in 47-inch wide silk-and-wool Chiffon Eolienne, in pearl gray, cream, champagne, elite and green, with hand-painted figures in contrasting shades. Something new and entirely out of the ordinary, $3.50 a yard.

New Laces and New Embroideries.

The time is drawing near—indeed many women are using the present—for making their Summer dresses. The idea is a good one. Just now more time, more thought, more attention to details can be given the work. This is true not only of professional dressmakers, but also of women who do their own sewing. Taking this view of the matter we call attention to our new lines of embroideries and laces.

First of Embroideries.

New Matched Sets,
New Japanese Embroidery,
New English Eyelet Embroidery,
New Cluny and Batiste Effects,
New Corset Cover Embroideries,
New 27 and 45-inch lace combination Flouncings and Skirtings,
New tucked and lace Allovers,
New Beadings and Insertions,
Widths from ½ inch up to 45 inches.
Prices from 5c a yard up to $10.00.

So much for generalizing, now, if you please, attention to a trio of specials.

SPECIAL—22-inch Swiss and Nainsook Allover Embroidery, blind work and English eyelet effects, worth $1.50 and $2.00, special, a yard.....$1.00

SPECIAL—Cambric, Swiss and Nainsook Flouncing and Trimmed Embroidery, in strips of 4½ yards—5 to 10 inches wide—worth per strip, $1.75, $2.00, $2.25, special, per strip of 4½ yards.....$1.35

SPECIAL—French Val. Laces and Insertions—½ to 1 inch wide—assorted patterns, worth 75c and 85c a dozen yards, our special price for a dozen yards, 50c.

Paris-Made Petticoats of Mohair.

We hasten to tell women that yesterday there arrived from Paris a fine collection of black Mohair Petticoats, illustrating very forcibly what Paris women consider stylish petticoats, and also showing that they go in for material of durability. Further detail—

Paris Mohair Petticoats, deep flounce, with 5 small tucks and yak lace for trimming, $4.00 each.
Paris Mohair Petticoats, deep umbrella flounce with three clusters of tucks, small tucked ruffles, $5.00.
Paris Mohair Petticoats, deep flounce with space tucking and one row of yak lace, $5.00.
Paris Mohair Petticoats, fine quality, deep umbrella flounce, with three clusters of five tucks, small ruffle finished with fine tucks, $6.00.

Then we have other Mohair Petticoats, which came over with the collection, at $7.00, $7.25 and on up to $9.75.

Fancy Needlework From Europe.

Our Art Needlework Department, brave in stamped and tinted goods, in newest designs from abroad and home, calls to the attention of all women interested in the feminine pastime of embroidering the collection of both stamped and finished pieces to be found here. Among which the following just over from Europe are submitted:

A lot of beautifully embroidered Pillow Slips, on a fine quality of lawn, embroidered in white French Embroidery and finished with hemstitched ruffling, buttonholes—$3.00 and $5.00 goods—importing them direct enables us to sell them for the special prices of $1.00, $1.25, $1.50 each.

Stamped White Linen Baby Pillows, finished with ruffling and buttons and buttonholes, stamped, for shadow embroidery and already made up, 50c each.

Stamped Linen Dresser and Bureau Scarfs, three different lengths, newest designs for eyelet French embroidery, stamped on best quality of white linen—18x45 inches, $1.00; 18x54 inches, $1.25; 18x63 inches, $1.50.

Reminders From the Housefurnishing Department.

This section of the West Basement, if housewives only knew it, has every convenience and requisite for the kitchen and for helping along every sort of household labor. Household utilities collect there in vast quantities, and there must needs be variety, for no section of the store is busier than this same household section of West Basement. Just a brief mention of some things at random:

Brass Umbrella Stands, new designs, practical, don't break, $2.75, $3.75, $4.50, $8.00 and up to $14.00.
Wrought Iron Umbrella Stands, substantial and serviceable, $1.00, $1.25, $1.75.
Hygienic Water Filters, fit on any ordinary faucet, packed with charcoal and gravel, easy to clean, our special price, 25c each.
Stone Crock Filters, natural stone filters, $1.75 and up to $6.50.
Aqua Pura Filters, the only filters on the market that is open at top and bottom, no place for foul water to accumulate, positively purifies the water, filters at the rate of 30 gallons an hour, hundreds installed in Pittsburgh homes; our price $7.50.

Women's New Spring Hats, $5.00.

It is a common household remark that hats coming from the Joseph Horne Co. millinery section possess character, style and beauty.

It is of little concern to us what the price of the hat is, that hat, regardless of its price, must possess the trio of essentials mentioned above.

This special line of new Spring Hats that we will offer for $5.00 commend themselves to us with such force that we have no hesitancy in saying they are the peer of many $10.00 hats that will be seen later.

Paris models having arrived quite early replicas have been made and they are very true to what the French modistes have designed.

They are handsome hats, made on wire frames, different styles and materials. Sailors, toques and turbans, in black, black and white, navy, queens' gray, old rose, mouse, Alice blue and brown. Each hat is totally different from its neighbor and each is suitable for street and dress wear.

Dear Sir: How About a Dressy Overcoat?

You'll notice that we say a dressy overcoat. Now, there are good overcoats, fine overcoats in fact, the very best overcoats, that are not at all dressy. They are not built for dressiness. When the temperature is dancing around zero, and below, dressiness is not the question, comfort is the only thing to be thought of. So, real heavy overcoats are never looked upon as dressy garments. It is the medium weight overcoats, and the light weight overcoats, that add to the good looks of a good dresser.

These overcoats, which are priced below, are the kind that will be appreciated for moderate temperature, a temperature that is neither too cold nor too near the warm part of the thermometer, overcoats for a crisp day, when the temperature is sort of nippy. The prices on this special line of overcoats begin at $16.50 and end at $23.50. At $13.50 and $15.00 there is a choice of different kinds of overcoats.

$20.00 Overcoats reduced to the special price of $13.50
$22.50 Overcoats reduced to the special price of $15.00
$25.00 Overcoats reduced to the special price of $16.50
$28.00 Overcoats reduced to the special price of $18.00
$35.00 Overcoats reduced to the special price of $23.50

AN ORDINANCE—Granting Henry Phipps the right to lay steam pipes, water pipes and wires beneath the surface on Rebecca street, First ward, between School street and Rodgers street, and prescribing conditions therefor.

Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the select and common councils of the city of Allegheny, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That Henry Phipps is hereby granted permission to lay steam pipes, water pipes and wires beneath the surface on Rebecca street, First ward, between School street and Rodgers street, for the purpose of conveying steam, water and electricity from one portion of his property to another. Said work to be done in accordance with the laws and ordinances of the city of Allegheny and of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania, and under the control and supervision of the department of public works.

Sec. 2. That so much of any ordinance as may conflict with or be supplied by the foregoing, be and the same is hereby repealed.

Ordained and enacted into a law in councils this 15th day of February, A. D. 1906.

Wednesday, February 28, 1906.

Mayor Hays, looking over the wholesale authorization of free baths, asserted: "Council must be crazy." Mayhap the mayor is a good judge. We are not disposed, however, to accept his view. Surface indications point more particularly to the conclusion that council is unclean. The wondrous perception of the need of baths, i. e. appropriations for baths, can hardly be regarded as an insane impulse.

Much public interest will attach to the conference of operators of bituminous coal mines, to be held in this city today. The conference is the result of President Roosevelt's plea for another effort to secure agreement on the scale for the year. The decision of the operators will have an important bearing on the proposed recalled national convention and what may be accomplished by it. The hope is general it may be favorable.

By a vote of 196 to 86 the Ohio River and Lake Erie canal incorporation act passed the house of representatives, the opposition being chiefly on the Democratic side. Credit for this result is largely due to John Dalzell, who has striven long and earnestly in behalf of the measure. The bill must now run the gauntlet of the senate, where it is apt to meet the hostility of the wordy Morgan and some other senators who have little love for practical canal work. Its fate is yet in doubt.

Berlin's festivities over the emperor's silver wedding anniversary and the marriage of his second son were concluded yesterday. The ceremony which united Prince Eitel Frederick and Duchess Sophie Charlotte was attended by representatives of nearly every royal family in Europe. A prominent characteristic of Emperor William was displayed at the wedding banquet when he delivered a little homily on the subject of matrimony to the young couple. The emperor delights in preaching, but the example of his own happy wedded life proves that he practices as well.

Sound advice which, if followed, may prevent many serious disappointments, is contained in the report of the United States consul general at London on the estates in chancery to which Americans are urged to lay claim. In the first place, no one should send a preliminary fee to a London solicitor with whom he is unacquainted. In the second place, most of these chancery practitioners are frauds and the advertised estates are myths. Mythical estates in Holland, Spain and other countries are also employed to tempt dollars from American pockets. Only the other day the "Metzger estate" fraud was exposed by the United States minister at The Hague.

As had been anticipated, Mr. Balfour, former premier, was elected yesterday to represent the London City constituency in parliament, defeating his Liberal free trade opponent by a decisive majority. His return is hailed as a fortunate omen for his party which, greatly outnumbered, feels the need for his fighting services as well as his counsel. Owing to Mr. Balfour's temporary indisposition, occasioned by the fatigues of the campaign, a unique incident was provided in the appearance of his sister at the Guild hall to thank the electors for their support of her brother. Though without the suffrage, women play a by no means unimportant part in British politics.

It is notable the most alarming reports about conditions in China come from Shanghai and Manila. There is no panic about the American legation in Pekin, or the various consulates. The disturbance at Nanchang is explained as a riot resulting from the belief a Chinese magistrate had been stabbed by a missionary—hardly a worse exhibition than a sometime Chinese massacre in the American northwest. There is a certain unrest accompanying the awakening in China, but no imminent danger of an explosion. Good American policy will prepare to meet possible emergencies while hope may continue that nothing will happen to demand the dispatch of gunboats and soldiers. Preparedness is always a good thing.

Alarmed by the increasing number of suicides each year, the Swiss government invites suggestions on how to cope with the evil. While France at the present time appears to have the highest percentage of any European country, 239 per million inhabitants, Switzerland is not far behind with 225. The Swiss are, in the main, a prosperous, industrious and contented people, with no great capital like Paris to swell the number of suicides. Germany's percentage is 206, Great Britain's 89 and Holland's only 56. Many years ago England tried the expedient of an ignominious burial for the bodies of suicides. There was an immediate reduction in the number of self-destroyers. The modern Swiss might not be so easily influenced.

Arrest on Suspicion.

Pittsburgh police were again in court yesterday on the issue of the arrest of "suspicious persons." They may be called to answer as defendants, instead of appearing as prosecutors, the court clearly indicating they exceeded their powers and authority. Time and again the county courts have expounded the law on this subject and warned the police authorities of the limitations to their power to deprive citizens of their liberty on this vague charge.

It may be the next administration will introduce reform in this particular and have patrolling officers fully instructed. At least this is hoped for. Fine discrimination ought to be displayed by arresting officers in seizing persons without the authority of a warrant, or without "view" of specific offense. It may be admitted dangerous characters can sometimes be restrained by arrest on "suspicion," but in most cases specific charges can and should be lodged against offenders. The "suspicion" charge ought never to be made without absolute certainty that the prisoner ought to be locked up to secure the public safety. It should not be used, as it is, as ground for the arrest of any person who happens to be obnoxious merely to the arresting officer, or his superior.

William Scott.

There are few men who can leave this world saying: "God bless my friends; I have no enemies." William Scott, who died yesterday morning, was one of them. A lawyer of rare ability and a scholar of high attainments, he was, above and beyond all, the very type and model of a Christian gentleman, and in the minds of those who knew him well and loved him best, the gentle attributes of his heart will long outlive the recollection of his many professional triumphs.

Samuel P. Langley.

Though not a native of this city Pittsburgh has always claimed Prof. Samuel P. Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian institution, as its own. It was here he did the work that brought him prominence in the scientific world between the years 1867 and 1887. Those 20 years were filled with painstaking research and arduous labor. Mr. Langley's studies of the sun, while director of the Allegheny Observatory, contributed a large portion of the sum of human knowledge concerning the central orb of our system. During the same time Prof. Langley worked out the adaptation of observatory time to commercial uses, now so generally used.

On the death of Prof. Joseph C. Henry, Dr. Langley was chosen for the head of the Smithsonian institution, where, in addition to deciding what useful information should be disseminated to the people, under the terms of Smithson's bequest, he carried on valuable original research. Prof. Langley's name stands very high in the world of science and has reflected credit on this scene of his activities.

Enforcement of Laws.

We publish in another column two communications provoked by a recent editorial criticising Dr. Dixon's enforcement of the vaccination act to the detriment of compulsory education. One correspondent commends the attitude of The Gazette, but goes farther, condemning vaccination itself and Dr. Dixon for other acts, though responsibility for some, at least, belongs elsewhere. Dr. Dixon did not make the laws under which his department operates and he will probably suggest amendments to be made by the next legislature. Registrars' fees should be paid by the state, but Dr. Dixon has no authority to have them so paid. The law is defective.

Touching the letter of "Health Physician" we may say he states the case correctly concerning the anti-vaccinationists in Great Britain—they are fighting for abolition of vaccination, not satisfied with escaping the compulsory process. On the point of the Pennsylvania laws, however, he wholly misconceives the situation. The compulsory school law was passed before the vaccination law. It is in general terms, applies to every child between the ages of eight and sixteen years and the justice of its purpose is not disputed. The vaccination law is not compulsory, but provides that no child shall be permitted to attend school unless "successfully vaccinated." Its penalties are imposed on principals and teachers, not on parents. It is in direct conflict with the prior law and depends for its force—its penalty—on depriving children of the education they should have and which the prior law was intended to secure for them. In short, its punishment is inflicted upon the irresponsible child, not upon the responsible parent. Attorney General Carson has advised Dr. Dixon he cannot enforce the compulsory school law against parents whose children are debarred from attendance by reason of non-compliance with the vaccination law.

The Gazette has not attempted to argue the advantage or disadvantage of vaccination itself. It is well aware it is a case where "doctors disagree" and it is not called on to decide. We have simply said that in construing between two conflicting laws, Dr. Dixon should have given preference to the one first on the statute books, the beneficence of which is almost unanimously conceded. His error is in choosing to enforce the later law, the effect of which is to nullify the former as it applies to a large number of persons who regard the dangers of vaccination greater than its powers of prophylaxis. We would take the same position if the statute commanded the exclusion of all children who had at some time been vaccinated—and with equal justice.

Burden of Immigration.

Nearly 3,000 immigrants reached Pittsburgh yesterday. Fortunately a majority of them passed on to points beyond, that is, fortunately for Pittsburgh. This city has now a surplus of new population to be classed as not desirable. Three new tenement inspectors have just been authorized by select council and we have it on competent authority there ought to be at least 20 more to deal adequately with the situation. These inspectors are needed almost wholly on account of the influx of aliens, the greater part of whom will never qualify as good American citizens. Some of their offspring may.

Pittsburgh is not alone in bearing this burden. It is common to the large centers of population east of the Mississippi river and some west of it. The burden is increasing out of proportion to the resources of cities to bear it. The responsibility rests on congress, which neglects to pass legislation to restrict this turbid stream of humanity poured on our shores by greedy steamship companies, with more or less direct assistance from foreign lands anxious to be rid of a part of their populations.

Congress should act and it should do so promptly. Not only should the undesirables be barred out, but American citizenship should be carefully protected against the addition of an incompetent and even vicious element. There is no time like the present to enact these laws.

Longevity on the Throne.

At the recent meeting of the Hundred Year club in London, it was proposed to elect to honorary membership two royal personages who have manifested interest in the organization's object: King Edward of England and King Oscar of Sweden. The discussion turning upon the longevity of royal rulers, many illustrations were cited to show that "a short life and a merry one" does not generally apply to the occupants of thrones. During a period of unusual activity on the part of anarchists, remarks are frequently made concerning the high rates royal persons must pay for life insurance. The risk of assassination is, of course, ever present, but against it must be set the extraordinary precautions for their health and safety with which monarchs are constantly surrounded. In time of epidemics their isolated position protects them, in great measure. On railroad journeys every safeguard against accident is thrown around members of royalty. It is the rule not only to run the train at reduced speed, but it is preceded by a pilot engine, and every mile of the track is specially guarded. In England, for instance, where fear of plots is reduced to the minimum, the railroads require one week's notice before a member of the royal family is to take a journey, in order that elaborate preparations for his protection and comfort may be made. This is but an illustration of the constant care which encircles the kings and queens of Europe.

While King Edward is 64 years of age, he has been reigning but five years; King Oscar is 76 years old and has been on the throne a third of a century. Francis-Joseph of Austria has reigned 58 years and is 76 years old. The king of Belgium is 70 and has ruled 40 years. The sultan of Turkey has been dodging the assassins for 29 years and is 63 years old. Denmark's late king, who died at 87, reigned 43 years. Queen Victoria reigned 64 years and died at 82. Royalty hardly seems in need of the inspiration to longevity afforded by membership in the Hundred Year club, but will doubtless not decline an honorary election.

A number of Americans in London were prevented from celebrating Washington's birthday, it appears, because they were suffering from the grip. Perhaps they will recover in time for the Fourth of July.

In a few more weeks the great American public will be so elated over baseball it won't care whether football is reformed or made even more fatal than it is now.

A London newspaper, asked by a correspondent for the location of the American town Esopus, says it doesn't know. Most of us have forgotten, too.

Anarchists now threaten to spoil Queen Margherita's automobile spin in America. It would be delightful if she could manage to run over a few of them.

The publication in New York of a popular song entitled "The Umpire Is Everybody's Enemy" presages an interesting season in baseball circles.

President Castro, it is now said, was once a comedian in vaudeville. He couldn't have been any funnier than he is now.

New Orleans may not be such a busy city as some others, but it certainly knows how to have a mighty good time.

Berlin's wedding was a very nice little affair of its kind, but it was hardly in the class with Washington's famous function.

Grave-diggers of Kansas City, who have struck for higher pay, should be induced to bury their grievances.

There is considerable doubt as to the cause of the Chinese outrages, but there is none as to their effect.

Pat Crowe will go upon the stage. His promises of reform were evidently made to be broken.

Today Mr. Balfour feels as elated as if he had just won a golf championship.

Although only a German silver wedding, it was the real thing.

The World's a Stage and We the Players

Gossip of Men and Things on Both Sides of the Gleaming Footlights.

By Charles M. Bregg.

Mr. Fred Schrader, the accomplished critic of the Washington Post, discusses at some length and with great good nature the question of Romeo's inconstancy, apropos of Mr. Sothern's enactment of the role. With considerable loyalty to his sex, Mr. Schrader adduces much argument, including Coleridge's famous citation, in defense of the fickle lover of Rosaline. Mr. Sothern retains with so much clearness and emphasizes with such lackadaisical melancholy the earlier passion of Romeo that I am not surprised that the revival of the discussion has followed his performance.

An otherwise fair-minded young woman said to me last week: "Mr. Sothern gives me an altogether new view of Romeo, and even one that a careful reading of the text does not afford, that of a fickle, headstrong boy, who is something of a Lovelace, 'on with the new before he is off with the old.'" Thus it will be seen that not only in Washington, but in Pittsburgh, the lovelorn Romeo is losing caste on the ground of constancy by this latest revival of his tragic story.

Quoting the Washington lady who expressed unkind views of Romeo, we have this charge:

"What would have happened had he survived Juliet? No sooner off with the old than on with the new, for Romeo! Ah, no. A lover who can moon over Rosaline in the morning and forget her at the sight of Juliet in the evening is a gay Lothario, and nothing better."

Mr. Schrader here introduces Coleridge's testimony, which may as well be added here for the benefit of the Pittsburgh doubters of Romeo's faithfulness. The poet says:

"It would have displeased us if Juliet had been represented as already in love, or as fancying herself so; but no one, I believe, ever experiences any shock at Romeo's forgetting his Rosaline (who had been a mere name for the yearning of his youthful imagination) and rushing into his passion for Juliet. Rosaline was a mere creature of his fancy, and we should remark the boastful positiveness of Romeo in a love of his own making, which is never shown where love is really near the heart."

This argument may sound a little specious, and it is clearly masculine in conception.

White, a later commentator, according to the Schrader argument, probably referred to this note of Coleridge's when he offered the real explanation which prompted Shakespeare to introduce Romeo in the act of deploring to Benvolio the ill favor with which Rosaline requites his love. He said:

"What wonderful psychological knowledge has one of Shakespeare's later critics found in the bringing of Romeo upon the scene enamored of Rosaline, to have this passion supplanted by the purer and tenderer one for Juliet! which, on the contrary, critics of the last century regarded as a great fault in the amorous Veronese's character.

"But the truth, which these critics did not know, is that in his transfer of affection Shakespeare merely followed the novel and the poem to which he went for his plot. There he found the incident of Romeo's earlier love; there he found the old nurse," etc.

But in the text of the play itself we may find assistance in explaining, or at least in palliating, Romeo's sudden change of heart. It is evident that he had been limited in his choice of beauties, and to a boy like him, Rosaline's face may have been the compendium of all female loveliness. For his intimate friend, Benvolio, prompts him to go to the Capulet supper in these words:

At this same ancient feast of Capulet's
Sups the fair Rosaline, whom thou so lov'st,
With all the admired beauties of Verona;
Go thither, and, with unattainted eye,
Compare her face with some that I shall show,
And I will make thee think thy swan a crow.

And when Romeo protests, Benvolio continues:

Tut! you saw her fair, none else being by,
Herself poised with herself in either eye;
But in that crystal scales, let them be weigh'd
Your lady's love against some other maid
That I will show you shining at this feast,
And she shall scant show well that now shows best.

Mr. Schrader concludes the argument in the following excellent defense of the lover:

"The truth was, Romeo had never known the beauties of Verona in sufficient numbers to form an affinity, and Rosaline might as well have been his nurse or his schoolma'am as a maiden seriously rivaling Juliet in natural attractiveness."

Schiller says in "Wallenstein:"

The spirit moves with its allotted spaces;
The mind is narrowed in a narrow sphere.

Romeo was probably a boy of 17, for we know that Juliet was but 14, and at that tender age he could hardly have been the dashing heartbreaker that some of his female detractors would have him appear. So that, while he moved in the narrow sphere illumined solely by the radiance of Rosaline, he was her worshiper, but within wider spaces his spirit moved also, and out of that larger assembly of Verona's lovely flowers which Benvolio revealed to him, Romeo saw only Juliet and chose her for his own."

If the truth be told, Romeo's fickleness is overshadowed by the ill-starred results of the passion which he conceived so suddenly for Juliet. His admiration for Rosaline must have been only of passing moment, or else the good friar would have taken more serious note of it. True, he chides Romeo on that point, but he must have had only the impression that it was worship "at a distance." The luckless ending of this Veronese romance and Romeo's desperate conduct, however, put the seal of passionate earnestness upon Romeo's love for Juliet, whatever may have been his feeling for Rosaline. It is an easy inference that a young man who loved one maiden with a depth and power that drove him to join her in death rather than live without her could not have been by nature and set habit a fickle gwain.

It is this supreme proof of Romeo's love that has hidden to the majority of eyes his earlier idiosyncracy. Rosaline becomes a myth in the deep shadows that love for Juliet finally weaves around the form of the hapless Romeo.

BUSY HEALTH OFFICERS.

A Correspondent Takes a Fling at State Health Department and Law.

To the Editor of The Gazette:—

I desire to commend heartily your editorial on "Dr. Dixon's Error." I am constantly surprised to find so many intelligent opponents to vaccination, yet so little public opposition. Why has the sentiment not crystallized into a stronger movement against this crime, unless it is that, for some reason or other, the support of the public press has been lacking?

You take the stand that Dr. Dixon should keep his hands off the public schools: I will go farther and say there are many things which Dr. Dixon ought, by virtue of his office, to do, which he is not doing, and which will keep him as busy as he wants to be. The whole subject of sanitation and health in this commonwealth is in chaos. The work should be done through the local health boards, and Dr. Dixon, instead of supporting them, has done nothing but endeavor to place additional burdens upon them of making reports to Harrisburg. The whole work of this new state bureau seems to be nothing but vaccination and reports. The local health boards are expected to enforce the state laws. One of these boards, in a small municipality near Pittsburgh, wrote Dr. Dixon pointing this out and asking what were the state laws. Dr. Dixon replied in part: "The law of 1895 is very important; but I have not a copy by me, and it will pay you very well to look this law up." Who should instruct the hundreds of health boards in this commonwealth as to the laws but Dr. Dixon? This is how much help Dr. Dixon gives the local boards, but he expects much from them. He wants a report every week (to keep clerks busy) of communicable diseases, and to make reports as numerous as possible, each month must start a new series of weeks, so that a separate report must be made for the two or three days at the end of each month.

The new law provides for a registrar of vital statistics in each municipality, and vouchsafes the registrar a fee of 25 cents for each report made to Harrisburg, but while the fat salaries of Dr. Dixon and others are paid out of the state treasury, the law provides the 25 cents shall be paid by the county treasurer! The county treasurers have no appropriation for this, and will not pay. Accordingly, registrars are hard to find. In one municipality a man was appointed wholly without his knowledge, and physicians were notified to report to him. He refuses to serve, and as failure to make proper reports is called a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of $10 to $100, he does not want to be "caught with the goods," and accordingly is going to the expense of mailing each report back to the physician from whom it came. I am not that man, nor is he connected with any health board. He is purely a private citizen, and I think it is an outrage that such a burden should be put on him.

Undertakers, being responsible business men (I am not an undertaker), are quite vulnerable to legal oppression. They have always been required to have a "transit permit" to handle a body and the cemetery authorities insist upon the permit. Until the law of 1905 the secretaries of municipal health boards were authorized to issue these permits. Now the registrar of vital statistics is the authorized person. In the case of the municipality above mentioned the secretary of the health board has legal advice that he is not authorized to issue permits and there is no registrar, as the man appointed refuses to serve. If a death occurs in that municipality, how can an undertaker or place of interment be found?

This is one of many things which Dr. Dixon could properly busy himself with.

Not Entitled to Sympathy.

VACCINATION FIRST.

Dr. Dixon's Course Defended by a Health Officer.

To the Editor of The Gazette:

I noticed in an editorial of yesterday a statement that "Great Britain, after 40 years' experience with compulsory vaccination—and two epidemics of smallpox during the same period—has repealed the law." This statement has been very often made. I enclose under separate cover a publication of the English opponents of vaccination which will show that they do not regard the act of 1898 as a repeal. The actual modification was intended to relieve the so-called conscientious objectors from having their children vaccinated. The magistrates are expected to inquire into each case brought before them, and do not excuse those who merely wish to neglect a troublesome duty. The process for escaping the compulsory feature of the act is said to involve a small fee (about 50 cents) so that those who are entitled to gratuitous vaccination are placed at some expense.

Are you right in your contention that an officer should decide not to enforce an act of assembly because there are persons in the community who controvert its benefit? I should hold that it is his duty even if it were against his own opinion. The proper course for those who are opposed to the law is to agitate before the legislature for its repeal. I leave out of account the possible effect of enforcing one law in tempting persons to resist a different law (the compulsory school law).

As the act of 1895 exposes principals to a fine as high as $100 for admitting children without certificates it is obvious that your non-enforcement policy would leave the decision of the question whether children in a given school district are to be vaccinated or not to the principal who is not an expert instead of the health authorities who are, or ought to be.

It would clear the question of compulsory vaccination a good deal if it were remembered that it is (at least in the laws referred to in your editorial) the question whether the state or the parents are to decide whether a child shall be vaccinated. In England the child is three months old, and can't be supposed to have conscientious objections. Certainly as much can be said for school children here.

Finally an officer charged with the duty of preventing smallpox should not withhold the benefit of measures from children because their parents do not believe in the value of his measures. Of course, it is just as possible to protect part of the children at school as to protect nurses in attendance in a smallpox hospital, (and to allow even children attacked by smallpox to resume attendance at school as soon as they can leave their beds); but we who believe in compulsory vaccination believe that it is much kinder to punish parents by small fines than by disease, disfigurement and death of their children. But I close lest I seem to argue the question of the value of vaccination itself.

Breaking It Gently.

On his return from an extended trip abroad an English squire was met at the steamship wharf by his old and trusted butler. Thinking it strange that the old man should have come to meet him the squire asked if there was bad news.

"Yes, sir," replied the butler, "very bad news. The old magpie is dead, sir."

"What did the bird die of?"

"Too much horseflesh, sir."

"Too much horseflesh, John? Where did it get it?"

"The carriage horses, sir."

"What, are they dead, too?"

"Yes, sir. Died from over-exertion drawing water the night of the fire."

"What fire?"

"The mansion, sir."

"You don't mean to say that mansion is burned, John?"

"Yes, sir; it burned the night of the funeral, sir."

"Whose funeral?"

"Your poor mother's, sir."

"What, mother dead, too?"

"Yes, sir; she never held her head up after your poor father died."

"Great Heaven! Father dead as well? I never heard a word of any of these misfortunes. What was the cause of my father's death?"

"Well, sir, it was this way. He received a telegram telling him that the ship had gone down that had the whole of his fortune on board, and the shock of it killed him."

"John, I am entirely ruined!"

"That you are, sir."—Manchester (Eng.) Times.

Had to Obey the Doctor.

Prince Louis of Battenberg, in the course of an interview about the New York policemen accused of drinking aboard the Drake, said with a smile:

"I blame those unknown men no more than I blame a certain teetotaler of Dundee.

"A Dundee physician, because the teetotaler had a red nose, suspected the sincerity of the man's professions.

"So he invited him to dine at a restaurant one night, and ordered champagne with the dinner.

"The teetotaler did not hesitate at all over the champagne. He drank a half-dozen glasses and grew gay and boisterous.

"Then the doctor, feeling that he had him, said gruffly:

"'Well, John hoo does all this square wi' yer tee-total pretensions?'

"The prohibitionist (as you would call him here) laughed and answered:

"'Though I'm a stanch tee-tot'ler, I'm no sic a fule as to refuse what the doctor orders.'"—New York Globe.

Some Point to It.

Tom Smith, secretary of Tammany Hall, and Max Ihmsen, Mr. Hearst's political manager, found themselves together at a private beefsteak dinner the other night. In the course of the dinner Mr. Smith got permission to put this question to Mr. Ihmsen:

"Why is Mr. Hearst like a certain countess?"

Mr. Ihmsen thought a moment and gave it up as a Tammany trick.

"Because each got a bum count," said Mr. Smith. The diners roared and so did Mr. Ihmsen. It was on the vaudeville stage the next night, because one of the guests happened to be in that business.—New York Sun.

In the Wrong Chair.

John Abernathy, who was appointed United States marshal of Oklahoma, by President Roosevelt, came pretty near attending a cabinet meeting unawares. In telling of his trip Abernathy is quoted as saying:

"A man stepped up and asked me what I wanted, and I told him to just tell the President that Abernathy wanted to see him.

"'Is this John Abernathy?' asked another man, and when I said I was, he took me by the arm and led me into another room, where around a fine table were seated a number of fine looking men. He told the men present my name and then he left me standing there.

"Looking around and seeing only one vacant chair, I sat in that. Then the door opened behind me and two powerful hands slapped me on the shoulder, and looking up I recognized President Roosevelt. He grabbed my hand in his and shook it like a brother. Then he laughed and said:

"'John, you're getting up in the world—occupying the President's chair at a cabinet meeting.'

"I started to spring out of that chair, but the President just pushed me back into it and laughed. He then excused himself to the other men and took me to another portion of the White House, where he introduced me to Mrs. Roosevelt."—New York Times.

Something of a Critic.

"Now, that the 'grand old man of the stage,' Sir Henry Irving, has passed away, I notice that anecdotes of his life are rather the order of the day," said E. K. Leonard, of London, Eng., who was at the Louisville Hotel, "and I heard one some years ago which I consider characteristic of the man.

"In producing 'Henry V.' it was necessary for Sir Henry to ride a horse, and, imagine his disgust upon the night the play was to be produced, to discover that the horse which was to fill the part had suddenly 'gone off his feed' and could not act a whit. Irving was in a stew over his difficulties, but finally a stage hand introduced a well-known jobmaster. Job-master? That's English for liveryman.

"'Beggin' your parding, Sir 'Ennery, but hi understands from my friend that it's a 'orse you wants. Now, hi 'ave the very 'orse you needs. The very one which 'as been used by that heminent hactor man, Mister Beerbohm Tree.'

"At the mention of his great rival's name, Sir Henry's eyebrows jumped about two inches.

"'Used by Mr. Tree, eh? And how did he act for Mr. Tree?'

"'E hact putty bad, Sir 'Enery. Hevery time 'e go hon the stage 'e 'eaves a groan,' said the liveryman.

"'Oh, he does, does he?' said Irving. 'Something of a critic, I see.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Died Unanimously.

Representative Adamson of Georgia, while coming to Washington one day not long ago, noticed a crowd around the depot at one of the stations on the Southern down in North Carolina, and poked his head out of the window and asked of a negro:

"Adam, what's the matter here?"

"Jim Johnson's dead, sah," was the answer.

"Somebody shoot him?"

"No, sah; nobody done nuthin' to him; he jis died all to once' unanimously."—Ram's Horn.

CASUAL GLIMPSES AROUND THE CITY

Notes About People and Events in Which Pittsburghers Are Interested.

Probably the quietest bunch of college students that ever passed through Pittsburgh went through last night at 10 o'clock when the special train of the "Volunteer Students," forming the second section of the St. Louis express, pulled out for Knoxville, Tenn. Tomorrow at 3 p. m., the Interdenominational Missionary convention opens in the Tennessee city and the special train contained a delegation of over 300 college men and women from eastern institutions who will join the 3,000 delegates who are pouring into the convention city from all portions of the country. The delegation going through Pittsburgh was composed of earnest young men from Yale, Columbia, University of Pennsylvania, Princeton and women students from Barnard and Bryn Mawr. The Harvard students took another route.

In connection with the recent massacres in the Chinese missions the "Volunteer Students" attracted more than ordinary interest from the fact that they are young college men training for the missionary field, nearly all members of college Y. M. C. A.'s. The curious combination of muscular Christianity was noticed in Union station, for as the special rolled out the strains of "Nearer My God to Thee" could be heard from one coach, while another gave forth the crisp yelp of famous college yells.

"I have good reason to believe," declared E. K. Colton, the international secretary of the Y. M. C. A., "that the present disturbances in China are merely the sporadic outbreaks that we often seen in the sudden and unexplainable increase of crime in one of our cities. Suddenly the agitation starts, crime follows crime in sharp succession, but just as the police are dispairing, a lull comes as sudden as the start.

"Do you know," smiled Mr. Colton, "the husky college men seen here would as soon tackle a Chinese riot as a football center rush. And, mind you, they are not all products of the theological seminaries, either, but are recruited from all departments of the great universities."

Then up spoke Robert R. Galley, a six-foot specimen of muscular Christianity. Mr. Galley, by the way, was the center rush of the Princeton football team of '89. Since those strenuous days he has been a missionary in China, located in Tientsin, and he spoke with conviction of seven years in that field.

"Were those outbreaks serious, it would not abate the work of our missionary convention which is interdenominational in character and world-wide in its aims. Rather they would stimulate, for the missionaries we are sending out nowadays are men of red blood—earnest workers who would rather relish the spice of danger. However, there is none.

"My experience with orientals, which extended through the Japanese war, warrants me in the belief that Japanese influences are not inimical to the church in China. Certainly the Japanese are not in sympathy with the moral idea involved, but welcome the civilizing influence wielded by the foreign missionary."

Among the missionaries with the "Volunteer Students" were Fong Sung, a Chinaman, who will preach Christianity in his native province of Pong-Tsung next fall, and M. Ohol, a high-class Brahmin, who will return to evangelize India.

Pedagogues Banqueted Last Night.

The Pedagogical section of the Academy of Science and Art held its annual banquet last night at the Seventh Avenue hotel and the men prominent in the educational sphere of Pittsburgh held forth on the aims of this association and particularly on the teaching section of it that was largely represented at the banquet. Fifty members of the section attended the banquet together with many of their friends.

Among the speakers were Prof. A. E. Frost, Sc. D., of the Western University of Pennsylvania, who spoke on "Ethical Cooperation," in the course of which he asked the members of the section to interest citizens in this great movement which he fittingly expressed as a "voluntary association for the giving of free lectures and for the promoting of local interest in science and art."

The Rev. Samuel B. McCormick, D. D., LL. D., chancellor of the Western University of Pennsylvania responded to the toast of "Pittsburgh as a Center of Science and Art" and outlined his hopes for the artistic regeneration of the city as expressed, not only in its art galleries and museums, but also in the public parks, railroad terminals and every line of endeavor where the aesthetic should predominate. The Rev. Emil Lewey, Ph. D., principal of East Liberty academy, spoke on "School Ethics." J. B. Hench acted as toastmaster.

A jolly crowd of medicos gathered at the banquet of the Allegheny Valley Medical society at the Hotel Henry last night and to the accompaniment of discourses, whimsical, profound and some agreeably mixed, held their annual reunion.

The toastmaster was Dr. J. G. Alter, and in their turn he proposed the following toasts which were responded to by representative physicians of the Allegheny valley: "The Wheel of Fortune," by W. J. Hall, M. D.; "The Psychology of Adolescence," by R. C. Johnston, M. D. Dr. W. T. English of Pittsburgh spoke on "Somnambulism," and heroically refrained from making any witty references to Philadelphia. The standpoint of the automobile in modern ailments was amply covered by Dr. C. L. Leydle in his response to the toast "Automo-Biliousness," while the concluding address "Unser Frauen und Lieben" was delivered by J. P. Kerr, M. D.

DEATH CALLS FOR A NOTED LAWYER

William Scott, Who Had a Part in Many Celebrated Cases, Passes Away.

WINS HONORS IN MANY WAYS

Attorney William Scott, a member of the well-known law firm of Dalzell, Scott & Gordon, died at his home, 817 Bidwell street, at 3:15 o'clock yesterday morning, aged 50, after an illness of several months, being for a portion of the time under treatment at a Philadelphia hospital. It was recognized while Mr. Scott was at the hospital that he could not recover, and he was brought back to home.

William Scott was known as the Bayard of the Allegheny county bar. His was the highest type of the ethical lawyer, whose brothers in the law revered him as much for his demeanor as a practitioner as for his legal knowledge and acumen in handling the many prominent corporation cases with which he and his firm were connected. His was a corporation practice entirely, railroad cases being a specialty. Nothing Mr. Scott handled was neglected, and the care with which he undertook matters of large moment is partly responsible for his physical collapse. He was an indefatigable worker, had a private library at his home which has few if any equals in this city, and when not found poring over his books and legal papers at his office could be seen in the library of his home working out some problem.

Was a Princeton Man.

Mr. Scott was born May 8, 1850, at Huntingdon, Pa. He was the son of John and Annie E. (Eyster) Scott. After a common school education he was sent to Princeton, from which college he graduated in 1868. He registered as a law student with his father, February 23, 1878, and was admitted October 30, 1878. His first preceptor was his father, but subsequently he studied in the law office of Knox & Reed, and spent his time there preparing for his final examination.

From the first Mr. Scott took up the practice of corporation cases, finally forming a partnership with John Hampton and John Dalzell, under the firm name of Hampton, Dalzell & Scott. Later, in 1887, the firm of Dalzell, Scott & Gordon was formed, his partners being John Dalzell and George B. Gordon. Although John Dalzell withdrew from this firm shortly after being elected to represent this district in congress, William Dalzell, a son of John Dalzell, was afterward taken into the firm, and the name retained as originally formed.

This firm has for many years ranked as one of the leading law firms of Pennsylvania. It handled the immense business of the Pennsylvania railroad and Pennsylvania company for years, until the work was divided, Dalzell, Scott & Gordon representing the Pennsylvania lines west and Patterson, Sterrett & Acheson representing all the lines east.

Handled Many Noted Cases.

Many noted cases have been handled by the firm. Mr. Scott was connected with the suit of H. C. Frick against the Carnegie Steel Company as a member of the firm, assisting the late Richard Dale of Philadelphia and Clarence Burleigh in representing the steel company and Andrew Carnegie, Knox & Reed, as counsel for the company, refusing to take sides because of the intimate relations the firm bore to all parties to the controversy. Representing Mr. Frick was D. T. Watson, John G. Johnston of Philadelphia, and Willis F. McCook. This suit was finally withdrawn and compromised. Millions were at stake, and which side was victorious will probably never be known by the general public.

The firm of Dalzell, Scott & Gordon also represented the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in its controversy with the Western Union Telegraph Company, in which a lease of pole rights granted by the railroad company had expired. Owing to the entrance of the Wabash railroad into this city the Pennsylvania refused to release the pole rights to a Gould concern and ordered the poles removed. The Western Union refused to remove them, and the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, under legal advice, ordered them cut down. It leased the rights to the Postal Telegraph Company. The Western Union filed a bill in equity to restrain the railroad and asked damages. The fight went through all the United States courts and the railroad company was the final winner, its legal contentions being sustained by the highest courts in the land. There is still some litigation pending between the Western Union and the Pennsylvania lines.

Framed Natural Gas Legislation.

During the early days of natural gas much difficulty was experienced in the incorporation of companies, the state not being in a position to grant charters to corporations of that nature. Mr. Scott was one of the attorneys most largely engaged in surmounting this difficulty, and was in large measure responsible for ultimate legislation along the lines desired.

Many test cases involving intricate legal points were submitted to William Scott, and all were given the best of his great legal knowledge and experience, yet throughout it all he fought like a gentleman and was never known to take an unfair advantage of an opponent. His was a reputation second to none for absolute integrity, and so well was he thought of by his fellow practitioners of the state of Pennsylvania that in June, 1899, he was elected president of the State Bar association and served with honor and distinction, his address in taking charge of the seventh annual convention being memorable in the annals of that distinguished body.

As a member of many committees, notably the law reform committee of the State Bar association, Mr. Scott worked hard to codify the laws and bring simplicity out of chaos. His work has resulted in many acts of assembly, presented and passed by the state legislature, which are a credit to the state. Never backward in aiding to raise the high standard of the Allegheny county bar, Mr. Scott served with distinction for several years as an examiner of students, although his time was valuable and the work onerous. When the supreme court decided to admit lawyers only on examination, Mr. Scott was selected, together with Thomas S. Brown, to represent Allegheny county on the board of examiners, and was a member at the time of his death.

Stood High in Public Opinion.

Recognizing his especial fitness for the position, he was appointed by the governor as one of the Pittsburgh representatives to the Universal Congress of Lawyers and Jurists at the World's fair, St. Louis, which held sessions September 28, 29 and 30, 1904. There he took a prominent part in the proceedings and his ability as a representative was again proven.

Mr. Scott was married to Miss Anna King, a daughter of Dr. James King of this city. They celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage in October, 1905. Three children were born to the union—King, John and William. The first is connected with the Westinghouse Machine Company; John is in the employ of the National Tube Company, and William Russell is a student at Haverford.

While a member of the board of trustees of Shadyside academy Mr. Scott's interest in the institution was more than official. He was a large contributor in a financial way and took personal interest in all that pertained to the school. Mr. Scott was a member of the Shadyside Presbyterian church and of its board of trustees. He belonged to the Pittsburgh, Duquesne, Union, University, Pittsburgh Golf and Oakmont Country clubs.

At the close of business in the county courts yesterday the death of Attorney Scott was announced, and all the courts took an adjournment out of respect to his memory. Common pleas court No. 3 will also adjourn on the day of the funeral.

AUDITORS SURCHARGE A BOROUGH SCHOOL BOARD

It Is Claimed Large Sums Have Been Unlawfully Paid from School Funds of West Washington.

WASHINGTON, PA., Feb. 27.—Auditors S. B. Hayes, M. L. White and William Hoss of West Washington have surcharged the school board of that borough $4,231, which they allege has been paid out of school funds unlawfully. Many items in excess are cited. Among them is one to the American Warming & Ventilating Company of Pittsburgh, which firm it is claimed received $2,690 in excess of the bid of another company for installing a heating apparatus in a new school building.

The board is surcharged with $700 excess paid on the premium of outstanding bonds. They also allege this issue of bonds was made without the consent of the citizens and that they were sold privately several weeks before the time of a public sale provided for.

Smaller amounts are surcharged against the board as well as against the borough solicitor, James P. Eagleson. The school board will take an appeal and fight the matter out in court.

FAMOUS ENGINEER NEEDY.

Man Who Gave Government Valuable Service Is to Be Brought to the Attention of Congress.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Friends of Brig.-Gen. Edward Wellman Serrell, one of the greatest of American military engineers, who, at the age of 88, is sick in a free ward of the Smith infirmary, Staten Island, are going to Washington to see if congress cannot be induced to do something for him.

Gen. Surrell was the constructor of the Hoosac tunnel. It was his genius that placed Swamp Angel battery before Charleston. He was the first engineer to survey the interoceanic canal routes and he built the batteries that reduced Forts Sumter and Wagner. Though he has been publicly thanked three times by congress, he draws only a service pension, barely enough to keep him in shoes.

MODERN BUILDINGS FOR WESTMINSTER

NEW WILMINGTON, PA., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—The Rev. R. M. Russell, D. D., president-elect of Westminster college; the Rev. M. M. Patterson, president of the board of trustees; Attorney Robert K. Aiken, the Rev. G. H. Letty and several other members of the board of trustees of Westminster college today looked over the land adjoining the college campus and will in the near future choose the tracts on which to erect the new buildings for the college. Dr. Russell said a modern gymnasium will be among the first buildings erected.

RECOVER SUIT CASE, BUT NOT THE BONDS

ALTOONA, PA., Feb. 27.—A suit case containing two bonds, numbers 157 and 158, of the Central Railroad of Pennsylvania each for $50,000 and belonging to ex-Congressman James Kerr, the Clearfield coal operator, was stolen recently from a train on the Tyrone and Clearfield division of the Pennsylvania railroad. Detectives today located the case minus the bonds at the boarding house of Charles Gatto, an Italian, at Retort. Gatto was arrested and held for court.

Reaffirm Steel Plate Prices.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the steel plate association it was decided to reaffirm the old price schedule of $1.60 per 100 pounds Pittsburgh. This is in line with the policy of the United States Steel Corporation and other steel concerns to keep steel prices at a reasonable level. One concern is still asking $2 a ton above the association's price. All the companies have booked sufficient business to keep their plants in operation for months.

Former Equitable Controller Found.

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Feb. 27.—Thomas D. Jordan, former controller of the Equitable Life Assurance society, wanted during the recent insurance investigation in New York, is stopping with his wife in Hot Springs, Ark. The testimony of a son that he did not know whether his father was alive or dead, Mrs. Jordan said, was true.

Burglars Crack Country Bank.

LINCOLN, ILL., Feb. 27.—Five burglars dynamited the Peoples bank at Kenny, Ill., today, securing $600 in coin, but failing to open the inside safe, containing $5,000. They were observed by servant girls in a hotel, who were too badly frightened to give the alarm.

COMMISSION DECIDES AGAINST STANDARD OIL

Discrimination Charged Against Railroads in the Movement of Petroleum.

[By Associated Press to The Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The interstate commerce commission today announced its decision in the cases of the Fred G. Clark Company against the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern Railway Company and others and the Waverly Oil works against the Pennsylvania railroad and others. In these cases the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company was the principal defendant.

The commission holds that the combination rates on petroleum and its products from Cleveland and Pittsburgh to points reached by the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company result in unreasonable and unjust rates; that the refusal of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company to consent to participate in through rates in that traffic is unjust and unreasonable and that the situation is such as to operate greatly to the advantage of the Standard Oil Company. The decision further says that there is no competitive relation between petroleum and its products on the one hand and other articles of traffic on the other, and that the failure of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company to provide joint rates on petroleum and its products while maintaining joint rates on other traffic does not constitute wrongful preference and advantage.

In its final conclusion the commission holds that the act to regulate commerce does not authorize the commission to compel the establishment of joint rates by connecting carriers nor to describe the divisions of joint rates or the conditions of interchange in case the connecting carriers fail to agree in respect thereto, and it therefore concludes that notwithstanding the combination rates complained of are unjust and unreasonable and the general shipping situation is such as to work a practical monopoly in favor of the Standard Oil Company, the commission is without authority to grant relief in these cases and the petitions therefore are dismissed.

CHAINED TO A CORPSE.

Doleful Punishment of the Ancients Duplicated in Our Modern Life.

The Romans used to punish a murderer by chaining to his body the corpse of his victim. Wherever he went he dragged behind him the debris of his crime, the sickly cadaver, revolting thing that was once a man.

Every day you see people dragging around with them the corpse of their sins. They can't get away from them. And many of them have become so intimate with these corpses that they become corpses themselves. The misery of these poor unfortunates has become constitutional with them. It fits them like an old shoe. They have become accustomed to it.

And there are thousands of humans who are walking the earth today with corpses attached to them—dyspeptic stomachs they can't get rid of. They have to get along the best they can with the stomachs they have. And the owners of said dyspeptic stomachs are to be found in every walk in life, suffering from some form of indigestion, first cousin to dyspepsia.

They wear that forlorn appearance, their energy is at zero, nothing interests them, and they interest no one, their faces are shrunk, their nerves are wilted and their shoulders sag. Are you one of the myriads who dandle and gratify their palates at the sacrifice of their stomachs? Are you one of those who allow their senses to run riot, eating too much, drinking too much, eating at the wrong time, eating the half-cooked, the queer and the impossible?

Are you bloated after eating, and imagine that it is your food that fills you? Do you have nausea when you look upon this or that, rebel at one thing and be hungry for it, too, at the same time? And have you got a whole lot of other things the matter with your stomach that you know about but nobody else does, and can't explain? If so, you have dyspepsia, real dyspepsia. And the chances are you have had it a long time.

Your stomach is overworked, abused, fagged out. The gastric and digestive juices are weak, the muscles of the stomach are jaded, and the whole business needs new life. It needs something which will take hold of the food as it comes in and do the digesting, and let your stomach take a rest.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets do that very thing. They contain a most powerful ingredient which helps the stomach in the process of digestion, cures dyspepsia, sour stomach, indigestion, heart-burn, eructations, acidity or fermentation. They invigorate the stomach, increase the flow of gastric juice, and do two-thirds of what the stomach would have to do without them. That gives the stomach some rest and a chance to get right again.

You will feel the change first in your mind and heart and then over your whole body. You'll feel rosy and sweet. That's the object. You can get these effective little tablets almost anywhere on earth for 50c a package.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the name

STRONGEST IN THE WORLD

The Most Practical Provision

you can make for anyone dependent upon you is adequate Life Assurance. This is not a mere assertion, but a solid truth unquestioned by the greatest economic students of the present age—

Other forms of investment may fluctuate—your loved ones may or may not receive the sum you intended—But a Life Assurance Policy calls for the payment of a definite amount—there is no uncertainty—The provision and protection for your family is absolute—

If you had a policy in the Equitable Life, say, for $5,000, and were to die tonight, the full amount would be paid to your beneficiary within 24 hours after proofs of death were received—

What other form of investment would bring such immediate, practical returns, providing ready cash just when it is likely to be most needed?

imported trimmings

Dainty Swiss and French Trimmings of every sort, style and description.

Color combinations, solid colors on Batiste and Silk, and Colored Applique Lace Combinations—fancy Braids and Novelty Trimmings, 75c to $6.00 a yard.

Color combinations on Batiste are principally cotton and are especially desirable for shirtwaist suits.

Embroidered Silk Trimmings—dainty and fine enough to win the admiration of the most skeptical—so also are the colored Applique and Lace Combinations.

new ribbons

Taffetas—much softer and finer than ordinary—specially suitable to be used with P. T. Suits.

Checks or Bars—Black, Blue, Cardinal, Navy, Green or Brown on White grounds.

Also fine selection of rich dark Plaids, 4 to 5½ inches wide, 25c to 60c a yard.

Gros de Londres is the name given to a beautiful new Twilled Ribbon—just right for sashes, girdles and trimming millinery.

5½ inches wide—all new and wanted shades, 35c a yard.

belts

1906 already a great Belt year—selling an unusual number.

Anticipating this we bought a much larger, finer and more diversified stock of Women's, Misses' and Children's Belts than usual.

About fifteen different styles and colors Women's Belts—all wanted colors and Black—also complete selection of fancy Japanese Leathers—Gilt, Nickel or Gun Metal Buckles, 50c.

Women's Heyl Enamel Leather Belts—all colors and Black, 75c.

Heyl Enamel has the beautiful finish of Patent Leather, but is much softer and more pliable—will not crack.

Women's and Misses' Belts in Patent, Heyl Enamel, Calf, Kid, Morocco or Suede Leathers—all colors—25c to $9.00—all styles.

Importer's sample line of fifty Hand and Vanity Bags—exceptionally fine lot, 50c to $10.00.

Worth $1.00 to $20.00.

new mattings

Our 1906 Importations are in—direct from China and Japan.

When we took stock the end of January we didn't have a single roll or yard of Matting—not as much as a straw left over.

Mattings suffer when they stay in stock too long—life dies out of them.

We offer several thousand rolls extra choice Matting—unusually desirable patterns, all "live" straw, at small profit prices on a basis of first cost at the seat of production, $8.50 to $22.00 per 40-yard roll.

Extra choice Jap Mattings, $10.00 a roll.

Extra fine Plain White Matting, $10.00 a roll.

Fine China Matting—close weave—neat effects—various colors—$12.00 a roll.

Mattings came good this year.

This $12.00 Matting is so fine, firm, neat and pretty you'll be delighted with it.

Over a hundred choicest styles finest yard wide Silkalines, 10c a yard.

Interesting Things Are Found in the Returns of the Three Mayoralty Contests.

OFFICIAL VOTE FOR COUNCILS

The official return of the vote in the three cities has been computed. The correct results of the mayoralty contests follow:

PITTSBURGH.

Alexander M. Jenkinson—
Republican	29,090
American Polish	1,076
No water meter	313—30,479
George W. Guthrie—
Democratic	21,635
Prohibition	372
Citizens	4,055
Civic	5,595
Roosevelt	131
Union Labor	1,210
United Voters' league	232—33,329
Walter G. Fox—
Socialist	346
John Kenney—
Socialist Labor	114
Thomas Grundy, Sr.	1
Total	64,260
Guthrie's plurality	2,841

ALLEGHENY.

Charles F. Kirschler—
Republican	12,329
Democratic	1,599
Independent	853
Roosevelt	122—14,784
George B. Logan—
Good Government	3,815
Jefferson	378—2,193
Charles A. Juhuke	170—170
Total	24,147
Kirschler's plurality	5,991

M'KEESPORT.

William H. Coleman—
Republican	4,132—4,132
Michael Gross—
Democratic	1,364
Hinkle	373—1,617
Oscar E. Persam	6
J. D. O'Neil	1
P. Zern	3
Total	5,819
Coleman's plurality	2,455

For treasurer of McKeesport, Samuel Mishkin, Republican, had 4,070 votes, and W. J. Roseborough, Citizen-Civic, had 1,-163 votes, and J. Kern had five votes.

For controller of McKeesport, C. E. Soles, Republican, had 4,572 votes, R. K. Batkin two votes, and Joseph Norton seven votes.

For assessor of McKeesport, August Anderson, Republican, had 4,251 votes, N. Pollard one vote, and A. Headman five votes.

Citizens in Third Place.

The returns from Pittsburgh are especially interesting. They show that the Democrats polled a couple of hundred more votes than they did for President in 1904. The Citizens surrender second place to the Civic party, having polled about 1,-600 less votes than the new party. By adding the poll of the Citizens and Civic party to the Jenkinson vote the total cast for Roosevelt is about duplicated. In another column will be found a table giving the vote of Pittsburgh by election districts. In some precincts the boards failed to separate the various parties in making the return.

In the Twenty-sixth ward the ticket for select council by mistake bore the name of David J. "McGarvey" for select council instead of "McGarey." New tickets were sent out with instructions to use them, but little was only done in the Fourth district. The result is that "McGarvey" got 661 votes and "McGarey" 83. This really means 744 votes for McGarey, but it will take a contest to prove that the 661 cast for McGarvey were meant for McGarey.

The following are the official returns of the election of Pittsburgh select councilmen:

Select Councilmen.

Second ward—Edward J. Edwards, R.-C.-U. L., 258; Joseph M. Dixon, D.-Civ., 59.

PROF. S. P. LANGLEY TAKEN BY DEATH

SAMUEL PIERPONT LANGLEY.

Famous Scientist and Founder of Allegheny Observatory Dies from Paralysis.

HIS DISCOVERIES IMPORTANT

Samuel Pierpont Langley, secretary of the Smithsonian Institute, founder of the Allegheny observatory, and a scientist famed throughout the world, died in Aiken, S. C., at noon yesterday, as the result of a stroke of paralysis which he sustained while at work in the Smithsonian institute on November 22, and which effected his right side. He was ordered south several weeks ago, and at the time of his death was accompanied by a niece and an attendant.

Prof. Langley was 72 years old and had devoted his entire life to scientific work and accomplished many important discoveries. Though by profession a civil engineer and architect, he devoted most of his time to astronomy. The title of D. C. L. was conferred upon him by Oxford university; D. Sc. by Cambridge, Eng.; LL. D. by Harvard, Princeton, Yale, University of Wisconsin, and University of Michigan, and Ph. D. by the Stevens Institute of Technology.

Aided by a Pittsburgher.

Prof. John A. Brashear, who succeeded Prof. Langley as director of the Allegheny observatory and who for 20 years was his friend and associate in scientific research, paid him the following tribute last night:

I was associated with Prof. Langley for 20 years and worked with him in making the glasses for his Mt. Whitney expedition. It was at this time I first met William Thaw, through whose kindness Prof. Langley was enabled to give the world the benefit of his researches. Mr. Thaw contributed at least $50,000 in making possible Prof. Langley's expeditions, and in all of his published works he concludes by stating that "this investigation was made possible through the gift of a Pittsburgh gentleman who wishes his name withheld."

All of his flying machine experiments were made in our works, and while the world has unjustly condemned him, I know he made hundreds of thousands of measurements to determine the mathematical problem of flight and that Maxim practically agreed with him. In his flying machine ventures William Thaw was also greatly interested, and the world may yet learn that Prof. Langley was not so far wrong as it now supposes.

He made over 10,000 observations on Infrared of the spectrum, in which he proved that the energy that comes from the sun is not what we see, but what is felt by the delicate instruments he invented. He was very fond of everything that was old. He always kept and loved the first telescope made by him out of two spectacle glasses. He often came to visit the old observatory and would go into the old damp, moldy cellar and hug the rusty transit instrument he used in his great observations. It was one of the most pathetic scenes in man I ever witnessed.

Founded Local Observatory.

Prof. Langley was born in Roxbury, Mass., in August, 1834, and after graduating from the Boston High school became an assistant at the Harvard observatory in 1865, and later assistant professor of mathematics of the U. S. Naval academy. In 1867 he founded and became director of the Allegheny observatory, where he made many important discoveries and conducted profitable expeditions which brought fame to himself and to the observatory. It was in the Allegheny observatory, in 1869, that he founded the system of railway time service from observatories, which has become general, and it was here that he devised the bolometer and other valuable apparatus. In 1881 he organized the expedition to Mt. Whitney, where he re-established the solar constant and discovered an entirely unsuspected extension of the invisible solar spectrum. He established the Astrophysical observatory and the National Zoological park, Washington, in 1887. Prof. Langley severed his connection with the Allegheny observatory to accept the secretaryship of the Smithsonian institute.

Received Many Honors.

Several years ago Prof. Langley conducted a series of experiments with a flying machine at Widewater, Pa., on the Potomac river, which were watched with widespread interest, but which failed.

During his career he was awarded the Janssen medal by the Institute of France, Rumford medal by the Royal Society of London and the American Academy of Arts and Science, Henry Draper medal by the National Academy of Sciences, and many others. He was the author of more than 100 works and was recognized as an authority at home and abroad.

The remains will be brought from Aiken to Washington, D. C., tomorrow and will be interred in Boston, where his parents are buried. Prof. Langley was unmarried.

RICHARD STILL HIMSELF.

Well-Known Actor Emphatically Denies He Has Been Seized With an Incurable Disease.

The journalistic fakir who always pounces upon Richard Mansfield as fair game, inspired by the report that Mr. Mansfield would leave the stage, has spread the news that the actor is afflicted with an incurable disease. Naturally Mr. Mansfield resents this effort to make his retirement final, and has sent the following telegram to Pittsburgh friends: "The statement that I am suffering from an incurable disease is without vestige of truth. I am, thank God, in perfect health and condition. Richard Mansfield." Those who met Mr. Mansfield during his recent engagement in Pittsburgh are able to corroborate this, as the only symptoms shown were those of an incurable buoyancy of spirit and ineradicable good humor. But the latter is likely to leave him if the inventory of pews do not curb their incurable propensity for prevarication.

School Board President Re-Elected.

The McKeesport school board last night elected Duane P. Smith president to succeed himself. He was opposed by Dewitt Haber. The vote stood 12 to 7, with two blank votes. William Morton, who was chosen secretary four weeks ago to fill the place made vacant by the death of Charles T. Fiddler, was re-elected.

ASH WEDNESDAY MARKS USHERING IN OF LENT

Season of Fasting and Prayer Observed by Roman Catholics and Episcopalians.

Today is Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent, a season of fasting and prayer, observed by Roman Catholics and less rigorously by the Episcopalians. In the Catholic church there will be no festivals or marriages until Easter Monday; attendance at theaters is disapproved, and there are special regulations concerning fasting and abstinence from meat.

The application of the ashes to the forehead will be a ceremony observed in all the Catholic churches, to signify the opening of the season of sorrow and in commemoration of the ancient custom of throwing ashes upon the head when mourning. The ceremony impresses the duty of humility upon the faithful.

In the parish churches of the Catholic diocese masses will be read later than usual on week days and all through Lent there will be additional services appropriate to the season, of religious sadness, culminating in the solemn ceremonies with which Holy Week is filled. During Lent Catholics are expected to pray much, attend the sacrifice of the mass frequently and be very diligent in the giving of alms and in deeds of charity.

The usual Ash Wednesday services at the Trinity Episcopal church will usher in Lent. At 8 a. m. there will be the sacrament of the Lord's supper. At 10:30 a. m. there will be services at which the rector, the Rev. Dr. A. W. Arundel, will preach, his subject being "The Influence of Thought on Character." At 4 p. m. services will be held, when Dr. Arundel will again preach, the title of his theme being entitled, "Jointing the Church."

The first of this year's noonday meetings at Trinity under the auspices of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will begin today at 12:20 p. m., and continue through Lent. Bishop Whitehead will speak. The services last only twenty minutes, the talk taking up fifteen minutes or less, and the opening and closing the remaining few minutes. During the whole season of Lent there will be services at Trinity every week day, beginning at 11:35 a. m. and at 4 p. m.

Full services will be held today at the Church of the Ascension, Shadyside, beginning at 10:30 a. m. and at 8 p. m. There will be daily week-day services at 4:45 p. m., except on Wednesdays, when they will be held at 8 p. m.

SALARY OF BARNSLEY RAISED $1,200 A YEAR

County Road Engineer Will Receive $4,800—Major Hay Appointed Solicitor.

George T. Barnsley, county road engineer, has had his salary increased from $3,600 to $4,800 a year. When he was appointed it was understood the position was to be made pay more money. The commissioners have voted the increase.

Maj. A. B. Hay of Allegheny has been appointed county solicitor by the commissioners to succeed Thomas B. Alcorn, Democrat. The selection was made yesterday. There will be a number of other changes made at the court house today.

A. J. Edwards, president of the Pennsylvania State League of Republican clubs, has called a meeting of the executive committee to be held at 11:15 o'clock on the morning of St. Patrick's day in the assembly room of the Young Men's Republican Tariff club. After the meeting, which will fix the time and place for the state convention, the committeemen will be the guests of the president at luncheon. In the afternoon Mr. Edwards will show his guests the points of interest in Pittsburgh.

In the evening the league officers and committeemen will be entertained at a musicale and smoker at the Americus Republican club. Addresses will be delivered by J. Hampton Moore, president of the National league, and Representative J. O. Sheatz of Philadelphia. President Edwards and Former Judge Elliott Rodgers. There are two committeemen from each county in the state. The local men who will attend the executive committee meeting are A. J. Edwards, president; Robert H. Lindsay, secretary; William McCaig, assistant secretary; Archibald Mackrell, former president; Congressman Barchfeld, Judge Rodgers, William Arbogast, John M. Morin and F. J. Klumpp.

Pittsburgh Orchestra Season Closing.

But three more sets of concerts remain to be given this season by the Pittsburgh orchestra. This week Friday evening and Saturday afternoon the orchestra will be heard for the first time in four weeks, and after its return from the most important tour in its history. Conductor Paur has prepared a beautiful program and two soloists of the highest rank will cooperate—Mr. Campanari, baritone, and Rudolph Ganz, pianist. Mr. Campanari sings three numbers with orchestra, among them the Toreador song from "Carmen." Mr. Ganz plays the Chopin E minor concerto.

THOUSANDS HAVE KIDNEY TROUBLE AND DON'T KNOW IT

Weak and unhealthy kidneys are responsible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, therefore when through neglect or other causes, kidney trouble is permited to continue, many fatal results are sure to follow.

Your other organs may need attention—but your kidneys most, because they do most and should have attention first.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because as soon as your kidneys begin to get better they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

The mild and immediate effect of Swamp-Root, the great kidney and bladder remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. Swamp-Root will set your whole system right, and the best proof of this is a trial.

53 Cottage St., Melrose, Mass.

Dear Sir:

"Ever since I was in the army, I had more or less kidney trouble, and within the past year it became so severe and complicated that I suffered everything and was much alarmed—my strength and power was fast leaving me. I saw an advertisement of Swamp-Root and wrote asking for advice. I began the use of the medicine and noted a decided improvement after taking Swamp-Root only a short time.

I continued its use and am thankful to say that I am entirely cured and strong. In order to be very sure about this, I had a doctor examine some of my water today and he pronounced it all right and in splendid condition.

I know that your Swamp-Root is purely vegetable and does not contain any harmful drugs. Thanking you for my complete recovery and recommending Swamp-Root to all sufferers, I am,"

Very truly yours,
I. C. RICHARDSON.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything, but it promptly cures kidney, liver and bladder troubles, the symptoms of which are—obliged to pass your water frequently night and day, smarting or irritation in passing, brickdust or sediment in the urine, headache, backache, lame back, dizziness, poor digestion, sleeplessness, nervousness, heart disturbance due to bad kidney trouble, skin eruptions from bad blood, neuralgia, rheumatism, diabetes, bloating, irritability, wornout feeling, lack of ambition, loss of flesh, sallow complexion, or Bright's disease.

If your water, when allowed to remain undisturbed in a glass or bottle for twenty-four hours, forms a sediment or settling or has a cloudy appearance, it is also evidence that your kidneys and bladder need immediate attention.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is for sale at drug stores the world over in bottles of two sizes and two prices—fifty cents and one dollar. Remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

EDITORIAL NOTE.—In order to prove the wonderful merits of Swamp-Root you may have a sample bottle and a book of valuable information, both sent absolutely free by mail. The book contains many of the thousands upon thousands of testimonial letters received from men and women cured. The value and success of Swamp-Root are so well known that our readers are advised to send for a sample bottle. In sending your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure to say you read this generous offer in The Pittsburgh Daily Gazette. The genuineness of this offer is guaranteed.

IN PERIL OF HIS LIFE

BY EMILE GABORIAU

Author of "THE MYSTERY OF ORCIVAL," "FILE NO. 113," Etc.

Exhausted and out of breath, Jacques de Boiscoran paused here, pressing both of his hands against his chest, as if to check the irregular beating of his heart. He was approaching the catastrophe. And yet he looked in vain for a word or a sign of encouragement from the advocate. M. Magloire remained impenetrable; his face was as impassive as an iron mask.

At last, with a great effort, Jacques resumed: "Yes, this calm frightened me more than a storm would have done. To win Denise's love was too great a piece of happiness. I expected a catastrophe, something terrible. I expected it with such absolute certainty, that I had actually made up my mind to confess everything to M. de Chandore. You know him, Magloire. The old gentleman is a pure type of honor and loyalty. I could intrust my secret to him with as perfect safety as I formerly intrusted Genevieve's name to the breezes of the night. Alas! why did I hesitate? Why did I delay? One word might have saved me; and I should not be here, charged with an atrocious crime, innocent, and yet forced to see how plainly you doubt the truth of my words. But fate was against me.

"After every day postponing my confession until the morrow, during an entire week, I went home one evening, saying: 'Within four-and-twenty hours it shall be done.' But the next morning, while out of doors in the neighborhood of Boiscoran, I met the cure of Brechy, who is a friend of mine. He asked me to accompany him a short distance, and in reality we walked together as far as the cross-road which passes by Valpinson and the forest of Rochepommier. I was retracing my steps through the wood, when, all on a sudden, some 20 yards off, I saw the Countess de Claudieuse coming toward me. Despite of my emotion, I kept on my way, determined to bow to her, but to pass without speaking. I did so, and had gone on a little distance, when I heard her call after me. I stopped, or rather, I was nailed to the spot by that voice which for a long time had so entirely controlled my heart. She walked toward me, looking even more excited than I was. Her lips trembled, and her eyes wandered to and fro. 'Well,' she said, 'it is no longer a fancy; this time you are going to marry Mademoiselle de Chandore.' The time for half measures had gone by. I answered 'Yes.' 'Then it is really true,' she said again. 'It is all over now. I suppose it would be in vain to remind you of those vows of eternal love which you used to repeat over and over again. Look at those old oaks. They are the same trees, this is the same landscape, and I am still the same woman; but your heart has changed.' I made no reply. 'You love her very much, do you?' she asked me. I kept obstinately silent. 'I understand,' she said, 'I understand you but too well. And Denise? She loves you so much she cannot keep it to herself. She stops her friends to tell them all about her marriage, and to assure them of her happiness. Oh, yes, indeed, very happy! The love which was my disgrace is her honor. I was forced to conceal it like a crime; she can display it as a virtue. Social forms are, after all, very absurd and unjust; but he is a fool who tries to defy them.' Tears, the very first tears I had ever seen her shed, glittered in her long silky eyelashes."

The recollection seemed to move Jacques even now. His speech faltered, but after a moment he resumed again: "'And you,' she said after a short pause, 'are you happy?' I answered that I could not be completely happy as long as I knew that she was unhappy; still there is no sorrow which time does not heal. You will forget—'Never,' she cried. And, lowering her voice, she added—'Can I forget you? Alas! my crime is fearful; but the punishment is still more so.' After a moment she said again 'Well, and when is the wedding?' I hesitated. She herself insisted upon an explanation. 'No day has yet been fixed,' I replied: 'had I not to see you first? You uttered some grave threats once upon a time.' 'And you were afraid?' she asked. I told her 'no,' adding that I believed I knew her too well to fancy she would punish me for having loved her. 'Besides,' said I, 'so many things have happened since the day when you made those threats!' 'Yes,' she replied, 'many things indeed! My poor father is incorrigible. Once more he has committed himself fearfully; and once more my husband has been compelled to sacrifice a large sum to save him. Ah, the Count de Claudieuse has a noble heart; and it is a great pity I should be the only one toward whom he has failed to show generosity. Such kindness as he shows me is a fresh grievance for me; and yet, by my tacit acceptance of his affection, I have forfeited the right to strike him, as I intended to do. You may marry Denise, Jacques; you have nothing to fear from me.'"

At this point of his recital M. de Boiscoran took two or three hasty strides up and down his cell. "Ah! I had not hoped for so much, Magloire," he said. "Overcome with joy, I seized her hand, and raising it to my lips, I exclaimed, 'You are the kindest of friends!' But promptly, as if my lips had burnt her hand, she drew it back, and replied, turning very pale, 'No, don't do that!' Then, overcoming her emotion to a certain degree, she added, 'But we must meet once more. You have my letters, I dare say.' 'I have them all,' answered. 'Well,' she said, 'you must bring them to me. But where? and how? I can hardly absent myself at this time. My youngest daughter—our daughter, Jacques—is very ill. Still, an end must be made. Let us, on Thursday—are you free then? Yes? Very well, then, come on Thursday evening to Valpinson at about 9 o'clock. You will find me at the edge of the wood, near the towers of the old castle.' I asked her if she thought this prudent; she replied that there was no danger. We then parted, and I returned to Sauveterre. It had now become useless for me to confide my secret to M. de Chandore. I felt so happy, and my face bore such evident signs of relief, that Denise exclaimed, 'Something very pleasant must have happened to you, Jacques.' 'Oh, yes, very pleasant!' I answered. For the first time I breathed freely as I sat by her side. I could love her now, without fear of my love proving fatal to her. But this security did not last long. On consideration, I thought it very singular that the countess should have chosen such a place for our meeting. 'Can it be a trap?' I asked myself; and all day long on Thursday I had the most painful presentiments. If I had known how to warn the countess I should certainly not have gone. But I had no means to send her word; and I knew her well enough to be sure that if I broke my word I should expose myself to her vengeance. I dined at the usual hour; and, when I had finished, I went up to my room and wrote to Denise not to expect me that evening, as I should be detained by a matter of the utmost importance. This note was taken to Sauveterre by Michael, one of my tenant's sons, and then I tied all of the countess' letters together, put them in my pocket, took my gun and went out. It might have been 8 o'clock; but it was still light."

Whether M. Magloire accepted everything that the prisoner said as truth, or not, he was evidently deeply interested. He had drawn up his chair, and uttered some fresh exclamations at every statement.

"Under any other circumstances," said Jacques, "I should have taken one of the two public roads in going to Valpinson. But troubled, as I was, by vague suspicions, I thought only of concealing myself, and cut across the marshes. They had partly overflowed; but I counted upon my intimate familiarity with the ground and my agility. I thought, moreover, that by taking this route I should certainly not be seen. In this I was mistaken. When I reached the Sellie canal, and was just about to cross it, I found myself face to face with young Ribot, the son of a Brechy farmer. He looked so surprised at seeing me in such a place, that I thought I ought to give him some explanation; and, rendered stupid by troubles, I told him I had business at Brechy, and was crossing the marshes to shoot some birds. 'If that is so,' he replied, laughing, 'we are not after the same kind of game.' He went his way. But this accident annoyed me seriously. I continued on my way, swearing, I fear, at young Ribot, and found that the path became more and more dangerous. It was long past 9 when at last I reached Valpinson. The spot which the countess had chosen for our meeting was about 200 yards from the chateau and the farm-buildings, and quite close to the wood through which I approached it. Hidden among the trees, I was examining the ground, when I noticed the countess standing near one of the old towers; she wore a simple costume of light muslin, which could be seen at a distance. Finding everything quiet, I went up to her. She told me that she had been waiting for me nearly an hour; whereupon I explained the difficulty I had had in coming, and asked after her husband. She told me that he was laid up with rheumatism, but that he would not wonder at her absence, presuming that she was sitting up with her youngest child. She added that she had left the house by the laundry door, and then at once asked me for her letters. She counted them, remarking that there ought to be 84. Such conduct was insulting on her part, but she did not seem to notice it. When she had ascertained that all her notes were there she drew a packet from her bosom. This packet comprised the letters I had written to her. I expected her to give them to me, but to my surprise, she proposed that we should burn both packages together. I urged that this would be most imprudent, as a fire might be seen. She still persisted in her idea, and asked me if I had any matches. I found I had none, whereupon she stamped her foot vehemently. 'Since that is the case,' she said, 'I'll go indoors and get some.' This would have delayed us, and might have proved an additional imprudence. I saw that I must do what she wanted, and accordingly I took a cartridge out of my gun and emptied it of its shot, which I replaced with a piece of paper. Then, resting my gun on the ground, so as to prevent a loud report, I made the powder flash. We had fire at once; and the letters were immediately ignited. A few minutes later and nothing was left of them but a few blackened fragments, which I crumbled in my hands and scattered to the winds. Immovable, like a statue, the countess had watched my operations. 'And those ashes are all,' she said, 'that remain of five years of our life, of our love, and of your vows.' I replied by a commonplace remark; for I was in a hurry to be gone—a circumstance which she noticed, for she suddenly exclaimed, with great vehemence, 'Ah, I inspire you with horror.' The scene which followed was distressing in the extreme. She overloaded me with reproaches, and at last, in a spasm of agony, she cried 'Confess that you never really loved me.' I replied that she knew the contrary. 'And Denise?' she asked. 'You are married,' said I; 'you cannot be my wife.' 'But supposing I was free,' she resumed; 'if I had been a widow?' Ah, Genovieve,' I cried, 'then you would have been my wife.' At these words she raised her arms to heaven, and in a voice which I thought could be heard in the house, cried, 'His wife! If I were a widow I should be his wife! O God! Luckily, that thought, that terrible thought, never occurred to me before.'"

All of a sudden, as Jacques repeated these words, M. Magloire rose from his chair, and placing himself in front of the prisoner, on whom he darted one of those glances which pierce a man's innermost soul, he asked, "And then?"

LUDWIG FULDA ON TRANSLATION

Famous German Poet Tells How Foreign Masterpieces Should Be Annexed.

GERMAN POET SHAKESPEARE

One of the most accomplished of modern translators, the poet Ludwig Fulda, spoke on "Translation As An Art" before the Germanic society yesterday evening in the rooms of the Twentieth Century club. Dr. Fulda was introduced by Richard A. Skalweit, secretary of the society, and proved himself a fascinating speaker, not only by the wealth of thought compressed into his utterances, but also by his sonorous intonation and charm of delivery.

He said that Germany comes nearer than any other country to possessing a real world-literature such as Goethe dreamed of. This is due partly to the richness and flexibility of the German language and partly to the cosmopolitan spirit of the German people, which sends them roving to the ends of the earth to annex the literary treasures of other nations. Notwithstanding this, however, and the many excellent translations of foreign masterpieces furnished by such geniuses as Voss, Schlegel, Freiligrath and others, there is a great mass of wretched translations being turned out by people whose sole qualification for the work appears to be that they know as little of one language as of the other.

Herr Fulda then proceeded to enumerate the difficulties that lie in the way of the translator, who combined in one the functions of the creative and of the reproductive artist. The chief qualification of the translator, he said, should be a knowledge of his own language. Schiller had made masterly translations from the Greek without knowing a word of that language, while great linguists had failed because they did not know German as well as Schiller. Herr Fulda, who has himself translated Moliere, Beaumarchais and Rostand with all the felicity of the originals, confessed that his own knowledge of French does not rise above the mediocre.

As the translator's chief aim he held up the acclimatization of the foreign author rather than the colonization of the native readers in the foreign author's land. In this way August Wilhelm Schlegel had given to German literature one of the greatest of German poets, the one whose name is William Shakespeare and whose monument has rightly been placed in Weimar with those of Goethe and Schiller. Schlegel's version of Shakespeare is truly a masterpiece of German literature, and this every rendering from a foreign author should be—it should not merely interpret the letter of the work translated, but should transport the writer across the chasm of time and language to naturalize him as a citizen of his new country.

The lecture was attentively listened to by a large audience and was received with warm applause. Dr. Fulda was afterward the guest of honor at a supper in the Union club. He leaves today for Columbus, O.

Dr. Fulda is perhaps the most distinguished German author that has visited our city since Friedrich Bodenstedt was here many years ago. He is the author of nearly a dozen dramas—including "The Talisman," on account of which Kaiser Wilhelm vetoed the Schiller prize awarded to him; "The Lost Paradise," a labor play that has been seen on the American stage in an adaptation; and "The Twin Sister," played by Mrs. Pat Campbell. He has also written lyrics and tales, and must be ranked after Hauptmann and Sudermann as the most prominent figure of the younger generation in German literature.

Ludwig Fulda.

POLICE SEARCHING FOR ENGLISH MILITARY MAN

Leaves His Satchel in an East End Store and Mysteriously Drops Out of Sight.

A mystery covering two continents is now being worked out by the police of the East End. Philip C. Patman, a military instructor of the British army at Woolwich on the night before Christmas went into a grocery in Murtland avenue, and asked permission to leave his satchel until morning, which was granted. The man, who was well dressed, took a car for the city. That was the last seen of him.

A few nights ago Special Officers David Forbett and Herman Wessel were called to the store in Murtland avenue and the satchel turned over to them. In it was Patman's discharge certificate of education, in which he was rated in the first class of the Royal artillery, and giving his attainments in mathematics and military tactics. The discharge was dated from the Horse Guards office, and signed by Col. Douglas Jones, director of military education. There was also a battery schoolmaster's certificate, and a letter recommending Patman to a firm in Chicago. This was written on the letterhead of Robert R. Meroy & Co. of 170 Duane street, New York. Among the other papers found in the satchel was one stating that Patman was a monitor in the Castle street new school, and a recommendation from J. C. Mills, teacher in the school. This letter bears the date of Ballymena, Ireland. There was also found a certificate of Patman's swimming victories in the Royal Artillery Swimming school, signed by Col. W. S. Blayney.

To Follow Up Delinquent Tax Ordinance With Bill to Revise City Payroll.

ATTACK ON THE NEW BUREAU

"Many city salaries are too high, and I am getting ready to introduce an ordinance in councils to reduce some of them in the departments," said Select Councilman L. H. Frederick yesterday.

Mr. Frederick introduced the ordinance on Monday to abolish the delinquent tax office and to annex it to the office of city treasurer without extra compensation to that official.

"The city is paying too much money for many of the jobs, and I think there ought to be a revision of all salaries," said Mr. Frederick. "I am going over the entire list to see where changes ought to be made, and I expect to have an ordinance in councils before long. Take the city clerks, for instance. They each get $2,400 or $2,500 a year. You could get a good man to do the work of city clerk for $1,500 a year and an assistant for $1,200. Many a good man would be glad to have either job at those salaries. You can take almost any office in the city hall and you will find men getting almost twice as much money as they could make if they had to get out like other men and hustle. The system is not fair and ought to be revised."

Roenigk and Wightman Eligible.

Common Councilman A. G. Roenigk and President J. S. Wightman of select council are still discussed as candidates for the superintendency of the proposed new bureau of miscellaneous collections at a salary of $4,500 per year. The ordinance for the new bureau was introduced in select council on Monday by Mr. Wightman and carried with it a recommendation from the mayor.

Mayor Hays said yesterday the proposition was based on Councilman Roenigk's idea of having a city official to devote his time exclusively to the collection of "lost revenues," for which Mr. Roenigk secured the appointment of a special committee of councils some months ago. This committee, however, has not made the city treasury any richer. Mr. Roenigk and President Wightman are both eligible for the appointment of superintendent if the bureau is created. The new city charter states that if a councilman accept any public office during the term for which he was elected he shall forfeit his seat in councils, but both of the councilmen mentioned as possible candidates retire on April 1. Should the ordinance pass, either one of the two councilmen mentioned, it is believed, would be willing to give up the few remaining weeks of his term to get a $4,500 job.

Larkin Opposes New Bureau.

Controller Larkin and Assistant Controller Morrow are both strongly opposed to the new bureau. When Controller Larkin heard of the ordinance he at once issued a bulletin giving his auditor, E. A. Kimball, credit for increases in the collection of water rents on new buildings. At the suggestion of the controller $1,500 was added a few months ago to the salary of Mr. Kimball for the extra work which he was expected to do in the collection of "lost revenues." If the new bureau is created Mr. Kimball would naturally lose this extra compensation.

The ordinance creating the new bureau is also attacked on the ground that it proposes a salary for the superintendent $500 higher than the salary of any other bureau superintendent of the city government. The highest salary now paid the head of a bureau is $4,000, which is the compensation of the superintendents of water, construction, surveys and highways and sewers bureaus. The other bureau chiefs get much less than that amount. The superintendent of the bureau of miscellaneous collections is also to have an assistant at $1,500 a year and a stenographer at $1,200. Five other new jobs are created in the department of public works by an ordinance introduced on Monday.

It is stated that the present administration proposes to fill every vacant position before quitting office, and to create some new ones, with the expectation that few, if any, removals will be made by Mayor Guthrie.

PREPARING FOR A STRIKE.

Piling Up Mountains of Coal in the Yards of the Big Industrial Plants in the Allegheny Valley.

Fear of a coal strike is shown by the enormous quantities of coal being purchased by mills in the Allegheny valley and the record-breaking business being done by the coal dealers. Mountains of coal have grown up in the last few days at Moorehead Brothers and the Spang-Chalfant Companys' rolling mills and the Isabella furnace.

Armies of men are being employed removing the fuel from the strings of cars that fill every siding and space is at a premium as coal is being piled up on every foot of space ground.

CONNECTING UP ITS LINE.

Pittsburgh Railways Company Will Soon Run Cars to Washington, Pa.

Engineers in the employ of the Pittsburgh Railways Company yesterday completed surveying a line to connect its Washington & Canonsburg system with the Pittsburgh system at Castle Shannon, and work will be commenced within a few days. The connecting link will be 15 miles in length.

Several farms along the route have recently been sold to Pittsburgh people and other tracts are under option.

Alfred Henry Rogers Dead.

Alfred Henry Rogers, who was born in Worcestershire, England, 54 years ago, died at his home, 423 Shetland avenue, yesterday afternoon. For a number of years he was an engineer, and later appointed assistant superintendent of machinery of the bureau of fire. Three years ago he went to Ashtabula, O., to live on his farm. A year ago he returned to Pittsburgh, his health not permitting him to live in the vicinity of the lake. He is survived by his widow, one son and four daughters. His son is Clarence Rogers, and his daughters, Mrs. William Jenkins, Pittsburgh; Mrs. J. B. West, Sharon; Mrs. Frank Montgomery and Miss Anna Rogers of Pittsburgh.

Hill Stops Filtration Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 27.—Further delay in the construction of the municipal filtration plant, the work upon which was stopped last summer, is likely to result from action taken by John W. Hill, former chief engineer of the filtration bureau. Mr. Hill has taken out patents on the material features of the filtration plant.

Policeman Sill Is Retired.

The board of directors of the Police Pension association at their monthly meeting yesterday retired Policeman Conrad Sill on half pay, to take effect March 6. There is a balance of $123,088 84 in the treasury.

TOBACCO IS A NECESSITY, DECIDES JUDGE SHAFER

Tobacco has been judicially established as a necessity of life in the appeal of George S. Merriman of West View from a decision of a justice of the peace in fining him $25 and costs in two cases in which he was charged with selling tobacco and ice-cream on Sunday. Attorney James K. Wallace, who represented Merriman, contended that the justice had no authority in imposing the fine under the act of 1885. Judge Shafer, while not entirely agreeing with this view, stated it was a well-established fact that tobacco was a necessity of life. His honor stated he was not so sure about ice-cream, although prominent physicians say that in many fever cases only ice-cream can be eaten. Judge Shafer said he would consider the matter and give his decision later.

PORTAGE LAKE IS DEFEATED, 4 TO 3

Pittsburgh Makes Sensational Finishes, Tieing and Then Winning Great Hockey Game.

EXTRA PERIOD IS PLAYED

With but two seconds to play and the score 3 to 2 in favor of Portage Lake, Hod Stuart, Pittsburgh's great cover-point, went through the Houghton players, spread-eagle fashion, and passed the puck over in front of the cage. Riley Hern stopped it, but Campbell shoved it into the cage just as the whistle was blowing. Tumultuous cheering followed this work of Stuart. The game was tied up and an extra period of 15 minutes was called to determine the issue.

The teams fought for 14½ minutes in the given time when Baird secured the puck and with up the rink and passed to Roberts, who shot goal, winning the game, 4 to 3.

This contest was one of the best of the year and kept the crowd, which packed the garden, on the anxious seat throughout. Bruce Stuart, captain of Portage Lake, has a fast team and one worthy of battle with the best in the business. And Bruce is somewhat of a high class artist himself.

For a while Portage Lake outplayed the locals, securing two goals right off the reel, but the excellent defense work of Hod Stuart and Baird prevented more scoring. Leon Campbell played a fine game for Pittsburgh, too, shooting three goals and being with the rubber and in all the plays from the start to the finish.

The crowd anticipated a bloody encounter, but it was disappointed. Joe Hall, who had been painted as a demon on skates, appeared to be just the opposite last night. He showed no rowdy proclivities, but rather looked the part of a hockey player.

Referee Elliott had a comparatively easy game as referee. He sent but few players to the bench and then for tripping. Hall received a bloody nose in the second half by having it come in contact with Baird's club in a scrimmage. Hod Stuart had to leave the ice for several minutes in the extra session because of a badly cut ankle. He gamely continued playing, however, going back to point.

Once Lake got away from the field and came up towards the Pittsburgh cage. It looked as though he might shoot the necessary goal, but Stuart jumped out and got the puck away and took it up the field. When he skated down to the crowd cheered him lustily, an unusual thing for a player during a game to be accorded.

The players were late getting on the ice. Baird, who jumped the team because Kent was released, it was alleged, joined the club yesterday morning, being accompanied by Kent. When these men appeared on the ice the band played "The Whole Gang Is Here."

Portage Lake got the jump on Pittsburgh at the start, shooting two goals. Bright secured the first, getting the puck from Lake and then Lake shot one from a scrimmage. The crowd did some yelling when Garnet Sixsmith passed to Campbell for goal. The good work of Hern prevented more goals for Pittsburgh during the remainder of the half.

Early in the second half Hod Stuart went through the field and passed to Campbell, who shot goal. This was the last scoring in the half. Early in the extra session Hern stopped line drives from Hod Stuart and Baird before Stuart had his ankle cut.

Arthur Sixsmith, captain of the Pittsburgh team, was unable to play because of an injured hand, which was broken in the last game with Calumet. The lineup:

Pittsburgh.		Portage Lake.
Winchester	G	Hern
Baird	P	Forrester
H. Stuart	C. P.	Holder
G. Sixsmith	F.	Bright
Campbell	C.	B. Stuart
Kent	R. W.	Hall
Roberts	L. W.	Lake

Goals—Campbell 2, Bright, Lake, Hall, Roberts, Elliott. Referee—Elliott.

Chris Clune, the trainer of the Pittsburgh team, last night signed a contract to train the Toledo American association baseball team this season. Clune is a competent trainer and his services were sought by other clubs. He was also negotiating with the Philadelphia National league club.

CALUMET, MICH., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Portage Lake's chances for winning the pennant in the International Hockey league were brightened tonight. Calumet defeated Sault Ste. Marie, its nearest opponent, 2 to 1. Lineup:

TEMPLE WINS EASILY OVER GRANT NICKENS

The snicker and boxing show given in East Pittsburgh last evening by the Business Men's club was the most successful held so far, being attended by a crowd, attracted by the Larry Temple-Grant Nickens of Cleveland proposed six-round bout. Temple showed his class by knocking Nickens into dreamland, in the fourth round with a terrific left hook to the jaw. Temple was the aggressor, and fought on the offensive from the start. Nickens fought gamely on the defensive and landed several stiff blows, but was outclassed in hitting ability.

Frank and Hugh Madole of East Pittsburgh, middents, boxed a four-round draw. Clark of East Pittsburgh and Frank Walton of Braddock, 125-pound men, went six rounds, Walton having a shade better of it.

The last preliminary between Frank Klaus of East Pittsburgh and Micky Ward of Braddock resulted in a draw. George Engle refereed the bouts.

George Cole was to have met Larry Temple, but telegraphed that he had sprained his ankle. Temple left this morning for Boston, where he will meet Sam Langford tomorrow.

ALBANY, N. Y., Feb. 27.—The court of appeals today handed down a decision upholding the constitutionality of the law which prohibits the possession within this state of imported birds during the state's closed season for similar game. The cases were those of a hotelkeeper in Brooklyn charged with having served game out of season to his guests and of a game dealer in the same city.

AMONG THE BOXERS.

Frank Morgan, one of the cleverest of local boxers, will meet Dick Fitzpatrick of Chicago, in the armory next Monday. Fitzpatrick is one of the best mitt mixers in the country and his record is well known to every follower of the fighting game, so that it would be a waste of time to sing his praises here. This will be the first time Morgan will be called upon to face a boxer of national repute, but his friends are confident that he will give a good account of himself. Egan, who had been selected for the bout is one of the top-notchers, but Fitzpatrick is considered several shades better. Morgan says he is glad the change has been made as a victory over such a man as the Chicagoan will mean much to him. Patsy Brannigan, Kid Sullivan, Mike Madden and the other local exponents of the manly art, who are to appear at next Monday's show, have started to train, as each is anxious to make a good showing for the reason that the crowd promises to be the largest in the history of boxing exhibitions in this city.

Kid Tyler will meet Bat Mackey on March 19 or 20.

Joe Tyler (Young Fitzsimmons) would like to meet Joe Alton at 128 pounds.

The 25th round of the Allegheny County Pool league was played last night, and there were many games for blood. The Friendships, the tail enders, were the surprise of the day, putting it on the crack Olympias, the leaders in the race. They certainly deserve great credit for pulling this game home. Frankhauser and Moorehead played a nice, safe and heady game.

The Garfield and Crescent game was one of the hottest battles of the season and the rivalry between them was at fever heat, the playing on both sides was fast, and Brown pulled the game out of the fire by a run of 15 balls near the end, and was given fine support by his teammates, Baker and Ramsey. The playing of Rampanelli and Yahriling of Garfield, although on the losing team, was equally as well as the winners, Rampanelli making many hard and difficult shots and had high score of 46 balls. Yahriling played nice pool and made the score close at all times.

The Federal and Demmel game was very close, the Federals finally winning out by 100 to 84. The playing of Ritchie, with 41 balls and Clipper with 48, was the feature of the game.

Union stepped off at Glenwood and pocketed the game easily, coming out the winner by the score of 100 to 81. The stars were Black with 43 and Tomlison with 46 for Union, and Meehan with 44 for Glenwood.

Arlington was very easy for the champion Vorwercks, and came out the loser by the one-sided score of 100 to 56. Vorwerck had high score with 45 balls and was well assisted by his pals, Ernest and Elson.

The Swissvale team for the second time since joining the league forfeited its game, this time to Primrose, and was very sorry to do so. One of its players failed to show up and therefore had to give Primrose the game. The scores are as follows:

At Primrose—Swissvale forfeited to Primrose on account of only two players being present. Plays, formerly of the Demmel team, will join the Vorwercks and will take the place of Montgomery, but will not be eligible to take part in any games until after the next meeting of the league, which will be held next Thursday afternoon at this office. At the last meeting of the managers it was agreed that no new players were to take part in any games until after the meeting called for Tuesday next.

DIOCESAN POOL LEAGUE.

St. Anthony and St. Joseph Teams Come Out Ahead in the Regular Games.

In the Diocesan pool league last night the St. Anthony team of Millvale defeated the St. Aloysius team of the South Side by the score of 100 to 96. The features were many but specially the strong shooting of Scherer, who ran a total of 52 balls, yet failed to win. Geiger playing in hard luck, breaking at least seven times out of 14 frames. Otherwise he shot a brilliant game. Leib shot his usual game. Score:

CLEAN SWEEPS ARE THE RULE

North Braddock Takes All Three from Duquesne, and Federals All Three from the Royals.

TON DUS CAPTURE TWO

In the Monongahela section last night on the Duquesne alleys the North Braddocks won all three games from the Duquesnes, and thereby puts them safely in the lead for the championship of that section. North Braddock was never in danger after the first game, and increased its scores in each game, winding up with the creditable score of 831. McCabé was the star, with high score and best average of 189. Callahan, A. Seng and Harnish also did good bowling for their respective teams. Scores:

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL NEWS

Shadyside and Pittsburgh High school will meet this afternoon in a championship Interscholastic Hockey league game, at Duquesne garden. Clarence Overend will be the referee.

Ellis Ward, coach of the University of Pennsylvania crews, will take his men on the river today for the first time this season. Both the varsity and freshmen crews will go out and Coach Ward expects to have at least nine crews out during the course of the day. The following is the list of varsity candidates: D. Shoemaker, Emig, Drayton, Keiley, D. Hendrie, Dodge, Dean, Doerin, Atkin, Herman, Stevenson, Brown, Roberts, Philler, Bogardus, L. Shoemaker, Cortwright, Galey, J. Hendrie, Schelling, Lavery, Lamberton, Johnson, Baldwin, Allen, Allers, Swartz, Morgan, Beal, Eaton, Simpson, Keith, Reilljen, Newmiller, Sonderman, Ehlers, Wodruff, Foster, Bryans, Emery, F. Smith, Ryan, Fiske, Illyen, Kennon and Townsend.

Among the most promising men of the Princeton freshmen are Reinicker, a pitcher and outfielder of some reputation, and of infielders, Myers of Mercersburg, Sides of Boys' High school, Brooklyn, and Vaughn of Exeter.

Hugo Friend will spring an innovation in his training of the Chicago team this season. The novelty will be early outdoor practice. He is planning to put his men to work at Marshall field at least a week earlier than usual, and expects to have them well on to the curves of the cinder path by the time the spring quarter of school opens, April 1. According to the present plans every one of the maroon athletes will start outdoor work before th spring vacation. The team examinations will break into the training somewhat, and most of the men have promised to give up their vacations in order to get into shape before the April opening. A full team will be entered in the big charity meet of the New Illinois Athletic club at the Coliseum March 27 and 28, and the special training will be largely in preparation for this event.

STATE COLLEGE, PA., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—At a meeting here tonight of the Students' Athletic association it was voted to organize a lacrosse team and money voted for equipment, also toward the preparation of a suitable playing ground. There are several good lacrosse players here at State, among them, Evans, '07, from Johns Hopkins; Fletcher, '06, Lehigh, and Weisenberg, '07, Virginia.

Baseball practice work is moving along at a rapid rate under the care of Coaches Golden, Sebring and Atherton, and the varsity squad has been reduced to 30 men in order that the final selections may soon be made.

JACK HAYDEN TO PLAY WITH WASHINGTON CLUB

Manager Seamon After First-Class Men---East Liverpool Gives Its Line-Up.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Manager William B. Seaman of the Washington team of the P., O. and W. Va. league left tonight for Cleveland in an endeavor to land two players he has been dickering with. He says that if he secures these men Washington's fist with the players already under contract will be the strongest in the circuit.

It was learned today that Cariss, the former Pennsylvania player under contract to play the infield for Washington, had been approached by the manager of the Bradford team of the Interstate league and offered a big increase to play there. Cariss, who is now coaching the Pennsylvania freshmen, decided to remain in Washington.

It was announced from local baseball headquarters today that negotiations were on with Jack Hayden, the crack outfielder of the York Tri-State league team, to come here. Affairs have progressed to such an extent that it is almost certin that Hayden will sign here.

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Manager Joe Wall of the East Liverpool baseball team, after a tour of eastern cities, has forwarded a batch of contracts here for the approval of President Travis of the local team. Wall has signed 11 players and will have 20 before the season opens. From this number 14 regulars will be selected.

Wall's recruits are: Catcher, Frank Sprague of Westfield, N. J.; Pitcher William Anderberg of Plainfield, N. J.; Richard Green, who played third for New Haven; Catcher Charles Anderberg, last year with Wilmington; Pitcher George Needham of the Lancaster team; Outfielders Frank Nealon and John Burton of Cleveland; Ed Himes, who twirled for the Pomeroy Independents last year. He is also angling for Cavanaugh and Shottali of Buffalo.

DRILLERS ARE VERY ACTIVE IN WASHINGTON COUNTY

The development near Burgettstown, Washington county, is the stellar attraction in the local fields. The indications for an increase in production are quite favorable. There is more new work starting than at any time since early last year. The late completions have been far above the average productiveness of the wells completed last year.

South of the development and in advance almost a half mile to H. Jennings & Bros. have completed their test on the Kerr farm and the indications are that it will make a 100-barrel or better producer after it has been shot.

In the same district, the Chartiers Oil Company is due in the sand at a test on the Johnson farm and is drilling No. 2 on the same farm. The Imperial Oil Company is drilling a second test on the A. Pry farm. In all there are 10 rigs up and wells drilling in the Burgettstown field.

The Georgetown district, Beaver county, shows a little increase in new work and some of it is of an experimental nature. Thomas C. Dawson & Co. have the rig completed for a test on the Laughlin Elliott farm and Clever Bros. & Co. are starting a test on the John Nelson farm.

In the Turkey Foot extension, in the same county, the Tecumseh Oil and Gas Company has taken up a large block of leases and is starting considerable farms. The Mopewell Oil Company is drilling a test on the Rebecca Ramsey farm and the Crown Petroleum Company has the rig completed for a test on the D. Carson heirs' farm.

In the Wallace district, Harrison county, the South Penn has given its No. 5 on the Henry Talkington farm a shot in the Gordon, and while cleaning out, the well produced 75 barrels. In the same district the same company has drilled its test on the Elmore Hall farm No. 1 into the Gordon and has a light show of oil.

In the Smithfield district, Wetzel county, the South Penn has completed and shot No. 75 on the H. W. Peterson farm and the hole has filled up 400 feet with fluid. It will make a very light producer from the Gordon. On Long Drain run, in the same county, the Philadelphia Company's No. 1 on the William Tomarsden farm is holding up at 75 barrels a day.

On the Little Kanawha river, southwest of the old Yellow Creek district, Calhoun county, the South Penn Oil Company has drilled its second test on the L. N. McConaughey farm into the salt sand and has a show for a 10-barrel producer from that formation. It will not be drilled deeper till after it has been tested. This is three-fourths of a mile southwest of the Carter Oil Company's salt sand producer on the Hardman tract.

On the Ohio side, in the Payne district, Washington county, Ellsworth, Davis & Co. have completed a second test on the P. Berlan farm and have a show for a light pumper in the Cow Run sand. In the Blacksburg field George White has completed a test on the George Matz farm and has a three-barrel pumper in the Bush Run sand. In the same district, the Consolidated Oil and Mining Company has drilled its test on the Lewis Flickner farm through the Big Injun and has a duster. In the Wolf Creek district, in the same county, the Pure Oil Producing Company has completed its No. 1 on the J. C. Stalter farm and has a duster.

A report was current that the Butler Oil and Gas Company had shot its test on the Mengert farm, near Butler, Richland county, southeast of Mansfield, and that the well had produced 50 barrels on last Friday and Saturday. This is the sensational white oil producer that was drilled in about two months ago and started at 300 barrels a day. An effort was made to verify the report, but nothing that could confirm it was obtainable.

Big Crowd at Motor Show.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—(Special.)—Another big crowd turned out tonight to the automobile show, although the weather was intensely cold. During the day there was a record-breaking attendance and the demonstration cars were kept busy until a snow storm rendered the streets very slippery. A large number of sales were reported today, nearly every exhibitor reporting from one to a dozen, despite the fact that they cannot promise the delivery of the machines for weeks or months.

Children in "The Prince Chap."

"The Prince Chap," the Belasco's attraction for next week, was for many months the talk of Broadway. This was caused from the fact that no less than three different girls play the part of the heroine. Her age increases in each act of "The Prince Chap" and thus the necessity for the appearance of little Helen Pullman, five years old; Edith Speare, 10 years of age, and Miss Ethel Clifton, 18 years of age. There will be matinees Wednesday and Saturday, the Wednesday matinee being offered at 25 cents to $1.

"Clarice" at the Nixon.

It is perhaps in its heart interest that William Gillette's new play, "Clarice," a comedy drama in four acts, in which he will be presented at the Nixon theater on Monday night, excels. A particularly engaging love story runs throughout the play, and it concerns Dr. Carrington, the character assumed by Mr. Gillette, and his young ward, Clarice. The comedy element is delightful, and there are moments of intense dramatic interest.

THE THREE RIVERS

The stage of water at Davis Island dam at 9 o'clock last night was 6.5 feet and the river was falling.

CINCINNATI, O., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—At 8 p. m. the stage of the Ohio river was 14.5 feet and falling. Today's departures of packets were: Virginia, for Pittsburgh, Tacoma for Pittsburgh, Courier for Maysville, city of Louisville for Louisville. Several of the towboats of the Kanawha fleet arrived today. The Courier arrived tonight from Memphis and the lower rivers with a good cargo of freight and passengers. The weather is windy and colder.

MARIETTA—River 8.6 feet and falling. Snow. Keystone State up at 6 a. m.; Ben Hur up at 8 p. m.; Queen City down at 11 p. m.

MORGANTOWN—River 8 feet 6 inches and falling. Cloudy and cool.

GREENSBORO—River 2 feet 3 inches and falling. Fair and colder.

POINT PLEASANT—River 10 feet 2 inches and rising. Cloudy and cold. Down—Sea Lion, Winifrede.

WARREN—River 1 foot and stationary. Fair and cold.

STEUBENVILLE—River 8 feet 3 inches and rising. Cloudy and cold. Down—Queen City.

WHEELING—River 8 feet 2 inches and falling. Cloudy and colder. Departed—Ben Hur, Parkersburg, 10 a. m.; Bedford, Parkersburg, noon; Queen City, Cincinnati, 3:30 p. m.; Keystone State, Pittsburgh, 2:30 p. m.

PARKERSBURG—River 10.5 feet and stationary. Clear and cold. Three inches of snow. The French left for Creston, the Ben Hur for Pittsburgh, the Queen City is due down tonight for Cincinnati, the Bessie Smith broke a shaft and is laid up at Marietta and the Valley Belle is laid up at Middleport.

OIL CITY—River 1 foot 10 inches and falling. Clear and cold.

GALLIPOLIS—River 13 feet and rising. Cloudy and cold.

LOUISVILLE—River rising. In canal, 6.3 feet; on falls, 4.1 feet; below locks, 12.7 feet. Clear and cold.

RIVERS ABOUT STATIONARY.

Steamer Kanawha, With Good Trip, Only Packet to Leave.

While the rivers were about stationary last evening, there was a slight fall during the day, but it is not thought the rivers will go much lower than the present stage.

The only departing packet yesterday was the Kanawha, which left for Charleston with a good trip of freight and passengers. The Kanawha has been tied up here for three weeks and this is her first trip out.

The steamboats belonging to the Pittsburgh and Morgantown packet line will be disposed of at auction sale this afternoon by the United States marshal.

The steamer Liberty, belonging to the Rieh line, carried a large party of Eagles from McKeesport to McKees Rocks yesterday afternoon. There is a convention of Eagles at McKees Rocks.

The Keystone State will arrive this morning from Cincinnati and she will depart this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Masters and pilots have been notified that the Silas Island tow-head light will be discontinued after March 1 until further notice.

The Wonders of Spiritualism

Distinguished scientists in America, Europe, France and Germany are giving much thought and close study to ghosts and other psychic phenomena.

A dangerous study indeed. It has cost many a man his reason; but the folly of today may be the wisdom of tomorrow.

ANNOUNCE CONDITIONS OF THE BIG YACHT RACE

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—The conditions which will govern the contest for the Roosevelt cup at Marblehead next September between small German and American yachts were issued today by the Kaiser Yacht club of Kiel and the Eastern Yacht club of this city, under whose joint auspicies the races will be held. Three yachts from each country will compete and the entries trial races for the American boats will close on July 15, while the trial races will be held in August.

Each yacht must be designed, built and all sails and fittings made in the country to which she belongs.

The yachts are limited in dimensions to 52 feet in length on water line, beam and draught and there will be no time allowance.

There is no restriction as to rig, but the sail area is limited to 550 square feet. Each yacht will be required to carry a crew of not more than three, who must be native born citizens of the country in which the yacht is built, while the helmsman must be an amateur member of a recognized yacht club.

The racing will begin some time in September, but the final details regarding both the dates and courses will be arranged by the two managing clubs.

The Eastern Yacht club will give prizes in each race.

The races will be sailed according to the rules of the German Yacht Racing association, and there will be five races.

The Roosevelt cup will go to the owner of the yacht which first wins three races or wins the fifth race of the series.

In case the deciding race is the third the winner will not be allowed to compete in further races. Should the first four races not have resulted in a decision, only the winners of these four races can take part in the fifth race, while if the fifth race is not decisive owing to two yachts each having won two races, then a sixth and deciding race will be sailed between these two yachts.

The courses will be alternately triangular and windward and leeward.

The yachts are limited in construction to cedar, mahogany or heavier wood, copper fastened, while double planking is barred.

LACKAYE REVIVES "TRILBY."

Very Small Audience Sees Drama of the Latin Quarter at the Nixon Matinee.

Only a corporal's guard was assembled in the Nixon theater yesterday afternoon to witness the revival of "Trilby." Paul Potter's dramatization of DuMaurier's once-famous novel presents some opportunities for effective characterization and emotional work, which the cast took fair advantage of. Mr. Lackaye's Svengali, of course, with his hideous make-up and uncanny business, was the chief feature of the performance. Jane Oakes played Trilby very acceptably, with none of the mannerisms that marred her acting in "The Pit," and those who had not seen Virginia Harned in the original production could not have thought of Trilby as other than Miss Oakes portrayed her. A. H. Stuart as the Laird did finely, but Walter Pennington's Taffy seemed artificial and ineffective even to those who had not seen Burr McIntosh in the original production. George Spink made a splendid Zouzou, and the rest of the cast all did well.

Although the only performance of "Trilby," it was staged with careful attention to detail, and though a very small audience, it was as enthusiastic as any the Nixon has ever held.

HUNTER WILL RETIRE.

Barney Cauley Candidate for the Position of Assistant City Engineer of Fire Bureau.

The firemen's disability board was to have met yesterday, but failed to get a quorum and will meet today. Davison Hunter, assistant chief engineer downtown, has made application to be placed on the retired list and his request will be approved.

Barney Cauley, captain of chemical company No. 1, is an applicant for his place and will probably be appointed. He has been a fireman in the department for 19 years and has excellent letters of recommendation from dozens of business men testifying to his ability. There are other applicants for the vacancy, who have endorsements from various political organizations, but none has an assurance of getting the appointment.

JAPAN GIVES LESSON TO AMERICAN SOLDIERS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—President Roosevelt has addressed to the secretary of war, who has promulgated the same in a general order, a letter reciting the achievements of the Japanese admiral, Togo, during the war between Japan and Russia, and repeating for the benefit of American soldiers and sailors the address issued by that admiral upon the conclusion of the war. The point of the President's letter is the necessity of keeping the personnel of the army and navy at the highest pitch in time of peace.

JEWELS OF SENATOR'S DAUGHTER ARE FOUND

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Two trunks owned by Mrs. W. C. Weidersen of 2023 Delancey street, Philadelphia, daughter of Senator Elkins of West Virginia, which contained clothing and jewelry valued at $6,500 when they were stolen from a truck of the New York Transfer Company, were recovered today. Some of the valuables had been pawned. The police arrested Leslie Sadel, a negro.

Recommended as Postmaster.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(Special.)—William E. Brown has been recommended for reappointment as postmaster at Lyonsville, Crawford county. Representative A. L. Bates indorsed Mr. Brown for a third term at the request of the postoffice department.

MISS CHARITY ALMA BLAIR and Eugene Herbert Brock were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Lide Packer Blair, in Castleman street, Shadyside. The wedding was an interesting one, marked by beautiful appointments. The bride was given away by her uncle, Gibson D. Packer. She had but one attendant, Miss Sara Greeno of Cincinnati. Mr. Brock had as best man George L. Reed of Carlisle, and the ushers were Thomas J. Towers of New York and Charles P. Blair, a brother of the bride. The Rev. Dr. J. Kinsey Smith, pastor of the Shadyside Presbyterian church, solemnized the marriage at 8:30 o'clock. The bride wore an exquisite creation of white messaline satin. The gown was fashioned en princesse and trimmed with rose point lace, the lace being inset with fluted satin around the bottom of the skirt, which was trimmed with ruffles of the fluted material. The sleeves, cut to the elbow, were treated in the same manner, and across the back were arranged tiny satin bows. For the "something borrowed," which all brides must wear, Miss Blair had a tulle veil beautifully appliqued in point lace, which was worn in cap fashion and fastened with natural orange blossoms, a box of which was sent by a relative from Florida. Sprays of the blossoms were also draped gracefully over the gown. The bride's bouquet was a shower of white lilacs and her only jewel was the bridegroom's gift, a magnificent pearl and diamond necklace. Miss Greeno, as honor maid, wore pink embroidered mull and carried pink roses. Mrs. Blair appeared in an empire costume of green chiffon cloth elaborately trimmed in silver embroidery.

A color scheme of pink and white was carried out in the decorations for the wedding. All the lights were capped with pink blossom shades and the chandeliers were adorned with asparagus springeril. The mantel in the library was effectively banked with fairleyense and maidenhair fern, with a base of Boston ferns. Drooping cibodium ferns surmounted the others and tall palms flanked each side, while in the depths of the greenery was a dash of pink and white given by roses and lilacs. Each small supper table had a centerpiece of pink roses and white lilacs from which rose two-branched crystal candelabra shaded in pink. A center cluster of fairleyense ferns banked the drawing room mantel and a vase of pink roses stood on a small side table. Masses of smilax and wisteria blossoms were arranged over the frame of the bay window at the head of the stairs, and through the pink and green shone tiny electric bulbs. The arch at the foot of the stairs was also draped in smilax and smilax was run vine-like above the bay window in the dining room.

One room on the second floor was devoted to the gifts, which made a gorgeous display. Among them was a handsome chest of flat silver and a Steinway grand piano, Mr. Packer's gift to his niece, and a bed room and two dining room suites of furniture from the mother and brothers of the bride. A mahogany chest of drawers, which had been her great-grandmother's bridal linen chest, was also a gift to the bride.

The out-of-town guests at the wedding were Mrs. Horace Fredericks of Lock Haven, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Brock, parents of the bridegroom, and Mrs. McMurray, Miss McMurray and Warren Conrad, all of Olean; Dr. G. E. Reed, president of Dickinson college, from which the bridegroom was graduated with honors; Mrs. Reed and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Reynolds of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Brock began their wedding trip last evening, and will be at home in New York city after April 9.

Lang-Seifert.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Seifert will sail for Europe on Saturday, and returning, will be at home in McKeesport after July 1. They were married last evening at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. William F. Lang, in Termon avenue, Allegheny, the Rev. Dr. D. H. Geissinger, pastor of the First English Lutheran church, officiating. The bride, Miss Edith E. Lang, was attended by Miss Marie Wacheb as maid of honor, Miss Agnes Lyons of Arcola, as bridesmaid, and little Miss Katherine Jane Black as flower girl. She was given away by her brother, William Lang of Richmond, Va., while another brother, Laird Lang, was best man. Oliver Knight Eaton acted as groomsman. Red and white were the colors chosen for the wedding and carried out in the decorations. White roses were used in the centerpiece on the bride's table. Only relatives and most intimate friends of the bridal couple were present at the wedding. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Seifert left for New York, from whence they will sail on Saturday.

Pleasing Recital Next Week.

A recital will be given at the Pittsburgh Conservatory of Music next Monday evening, March 5, by Miss Cornelia Friebertshauser, Miss Grace Walker, Miss Acsa Ellis, Miss Jennie Evans, Miss Elizabeth Connell and Charles Whitesell, pianists; Miss Grace Summers, Miss Katherine McConnell and Miss Elsie Jaxheimer, violinists; Mrs. A. B. Sviter, soprano; Miss Bessie Graham, contralto, and Miss Frances Leech, accompanist. Misses Summers and Ellis will play the Grieg sonata in F, for violin and piano. Mrs. Sviter will sing songs by Mozart and Haydn, and Sen a's ballade from the "Flying Dutchman;" Miss Graham will sing two Brahms songs. Admission is by invitation and cards may be obtained upon request at the conservatory office.

Afternoon and Evening at Cards.

Mrs. Franklin P. Iams, Mrs. W. H. McManus, Mrs. George DuBarry, Mrs. Reinhart Mayer, Miss Marion Kirk, Miss Jennie O'Brien, Mrs. Roger Aiken and Mrs. R. H. Burgess won the prizes at Mrs. Andrew Fyssler Leggate's card party yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Leggate entertained at her home in Callowhill street, with no special guest of honor. The affair in the afternoon was followed by similar entertainment in the evening, when Mr. Leggate received with his wife. Twenty tables were in use on each occasion. The decorations were of red roses in the reception halls and pink and white roses in the drawing room and daffodils in the dining room. During the afternoon the hostess was assisted by Mrs. George W. Gray, Mrs. William McMartin, Mrs. A. H. Eames, Miss Janet Leggate, Miss Ruth McAbee, and Miss Beatrice Billington.

Two Hostesses Give Two Affairs.

Mrs. James A. Twitchell and her daughter, Mrs. Malcolm W. Everson, gave a luncheon from 1 until 3 o'clock and a tea from 4 until 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Mrs. Twitchell's home in Ellsworth avenue, East End. Mrs. Twitchell in a gown of gray velvet and her daughter in a lace robe received together and were assisted by Mrs. Wilbur Jack, Mrs. C. M. Williams, Mrs. Emery Meyer, Mrs. Charles Johnston, Mrs. George M. Rowland, Mrs. William Keller and Mrs. W. W. West. Cut flowers formed the decorations, pink roses making a pleasing appearance in the drawing room where the chandeliers were entwined with asparagus. A color scheme of pink and yellow was carried out in the dining-room, roses being used on the luncheon and tea tables. White roses and lilies were placed in vases about the hall.

Mrs. Martin's Aids.

Mrs. George Wilmer Martin will have several assistants at her tea on Friday afternoon. They will include Mrs. A. S. Bogner, Mrs. John Albert Aull, Mrs. J. A. Phillips of Greensburg; Mrs. M. Roy Jackson, Mrs. J. Grant Anderson, Mrs. J. M. Anderson, Mrs. Edward Martin, Mrs. William T. Waston, Miss Reese and Miss Louise McLain. The honors of the occasion will be shared by Mrs. Paul Arthur Sorg and Mrs. Frank Shepard, both of whom are recent brides; and Mrs. Charles W. Hotchkiss and Mrs. Nathaniel Keith who are visiting Mrs. J. A. Aull. The tea at 4 o'clock will be supplemented by a dinner for the aids and an informal dance in the evening, all to be given at the Country club in Squirrel Hill.

Householder-Sinnhuber.

Miss Loretta Mae Householder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Householder of Fifth street, Braddock, and Herman F. Sinnhuber of North Braddock were married last evening at the home of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Bucker, pastor of the First English Lutheran church, in the presence of 40 relatives and friends. Following the ceremony there was a wedding dinner, and Mr. and Mrs. Sinnhuber left on their wedding tour.

Luncheon at the Schenley.

Covers were laid for 12 at the luncheon given yesterday at the Hotel Schenley by Mrs. William Eldon Reed. Her cousin, Mrs. Richard Lee Snyder, a recent bride, was the guest of honor and the others present were Mrs. Willis F. McCook, Mrs. Holmes Allen Machesney, Mrs. James Henry Beckhart, Mrs. George Hamilton Flinn, Mrs. William Larimer Jones, Mrs. Francis Xavier Barr, Mrs. Ralph Alfred, Mrs. William White, Jr., Mrs. John P. Culgan and Mrs. Charles Phillips Hill. Yellow tulips, daffodils and white lilacs formed a high centerpiece and the favors, which carried out the predominant colors, were dainty little baskets filled with yellow calsies.

Farewell for Cincinnati Guest.

Mrs. Robert Pogue of Cincinnati, will leave for her home this evening after having visited Mrs. John Jennings Brooks for a week. Mrs. George L. McCoy has invited a few friends to take tea with her this afternoon as a farewell to Mrs. Pogue who has made many warm friends since coming here. The affair will be very informal, the invitations having been issued verbally. Mrs. A. A. Coles of Detroit, who is also visiting Mrs. Brooks, will be present. She and Mrs. Pogue shared honors yesterday afternoon at the informal little bridge party at which Mrs. Howard M. Hooker was hostess. Only four tables were in play.

Dance Given for Visitor.

The Bellefield club in North Craig street was gay last evening on the occasion of the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. George Dwight Breck in honor of their visiting friend, Mrs. Frank Edgar Williams of Cleveland. About 100 guests were present and the dancing throughout the evening was general. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barrows, Jr., of Sharpsville, came to Pittsburgh for the dance and received with the host and hostess. Mrs Williams wore a robe of white lace over pink, while Mrs. Breck was gowned in gray crepe de chine. Only palms were used in the decorations of the hall room. The supper table had a centerpiece of daffodils and white lilacs.

Mrs. Heasley Is Hostess.

Mrs. Pitt Osborne Heasley of Westminster street, Shadyside, was hostess at a small and informal card party yesterday afternoon. The affair was conducted at her home, with bridge as the diversion. The guests included Mrs. Heasley's older friends. The younger ones will be entertained at bridge next Friday afternoon.

Cover Are Laid for Six.

Mrs. Samuel McClay was hostess at a luncheon of six covers yesterday at her home in Stanton avenue, East End. The guests were Mrs. Jacob Jay Miller, Mrs. Samuel A. McClung, Mrs. Edmund Kiernan, Mrs. George Shaw and Mrs. William Seibert. The luncheon had been planned in honor of Mrs. James Hay Reed, but, owing to the death of William Scott, Mrs. Reed was not present.

Notes of Society.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Miss Katheryn A. Parcell and William J. Krause, the wedding to take place on June 6. It will be a quiet affair at the home of the bride's sister, Miss Annie M. Parcell in Patterson street, South Side.

Miss Alice Jackson and A. A. McKain were quietly married yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. McKain in Margaretta street. The bridal couple will live in St. Clair street.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vining Davis of Oakmont will sail March 1 for a two months' tour of Europe.

THE GAZETTE PATTERN.

No. 5237.

Girls' Box-Pleated Dress.

The box-pleated modes are always popular for girls, the long lines being particularly becoming. A charming design is here pictured in light brown French flannel. The body and skirt are in one, box-pleats being arranged in front and back. The closing is effected invisibly under the center box-pleat. A patent leather belt adds greatly to the smart appearance of the dress, although a belt of the material could be used. Mohair, cashmere or any of the fashionable plaids would develop well by this pattern. The medium size requires 3⅝ yards of 44-inch material.

Girls' box-pleated dress, No. 5237: Sizes for 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11 and 12 years.

SMART CLOTH COSTUMES TO LOOK WELL TRAVELING

Rough Cloths Better Than Smooth That Show Dust More—Dark Gray and Brown Good—Waists of Same Tones.

It is never so difficult to look well dressed as when traveling, whether by land or sea, and the woman who can appear neatly gowned at the end of a long journey, deserves the highest praise. If taking an extended land trip across the continent or embarking upon the ocean voyage which may be anywhere from five days to two weeks, depending upon whether the direct or the southern route is planned, there must be due time and consideration given to the selecting of traveling costumes.

The material of the suit must depend largely upon whether the south or west is to be visited, but for traveling the same shades are generally used, no matter what the weather encountered.

Dark colors are always best, whether on the car or on board a steamer, and such shades as do not readily show the dust should be chosen. For this season the separate waist should be of the same color as the skirt rather than white. Dark blue is always an excellent shade for traveling, but there are many women to whom brown is more becoming, and this is equally good. A black suit is best of some rough cloth, as broadcloth shows at once on its smooth surface all dust and dirt. Dark gray is another serviceable shade. Tan is not so good, but there are some tones in brown as well as in all other colors which are more becoming that the deep shades, and that will stand quite as much wear and tear. In all colors the rough cloths have proved most useful. Cheviot is always good and serge in the finer qualities is to be worn considerably this spring. For a very light suit mohair is excellent for traveling as it sheds all dust readily and does not show every spot and stain.

There is no question but that the simpler a traveling costume is the better. These are always being advertised as smart for traveling, elaborate coat and skirt costumes last trimmed and embroidered, but the plainer garments are in infinitely better taste. Indeed, it is hard to get a smarter model than the severe fitted three-quarter tailor coat with full skirt just clearing the ground.

In France long skirts are now being worn on all occasions, but so far American women have kept to the comfort of a short walking skirt.

Skirt models are not materially different from those of last spring. Plaids are more clustered, perhaps, but the same effect is sought, that is well fitted about the waist and hips and then wide flaring below the knees. There should always be provided a thin silk or crepe de chine waist of the same color as the suit, for it is impossible to keep a white bodice fresh for any length of time in a train. This waist need not be expensive, the elaborate models being considered in rather poor taste for the cars. There may be lace at the throat and wrists, but fine linen collars and suffs, hemstitched or embroidered are exceedingly attractive and are being worn once more with all dark silk waists. The silk bodice need not be lined, for a boned and well fitted lawn or silk slip can always be worn if desired.

While the majority of waist models still button in the back, there are a few of the simpler silk bodice which fasten in front, the buttons hidden by a wide flap unless jewel studs are worn. With a black suit there should be some color on the waist as else it would look too much like a mourning costume.

Avoiding Appearance.

There is a popular tradition that persons in large cities do not gossip as much as those in small places. There is also another tradition that persons in a city like Pittsburgh are not as much interested in the doings of their neighbors as in smaller cities. As a consequence girls who come here to study or to work during the winter are wont to conduct themselves in a way that at home they would never think of doing, and wonder to find themselves severely criticised later. For what these newcomers do not realize is that Pittsburgh or any other large city is merely a series of little villages close together; that the flat dweller above is interested in the affairs of the neighbor below; that she knows the neighbor's name, even if she has not the pleasure of a personal acquaintance. In the real country gossip quite frequently returns to the subject of it; in the city quite frequently the person talked about does not know that her neighbor has the slightest knowledge of her existence. But persons here who have not met the girl get strange ideas as to what she is from what they have seen or heard of her, and many a girl quite unknown to herself, is dubbed "a sport" in Pittsburgh simply because she was not only inexperienced but indiscreet.

Conventions that hold in other places are pretty good to hold by here, even if this is a large city, and things that would bring down the village gossip are quite as likely to do it here, only in a more limited way.

It isn't enough merely to know one's self to be all right; it is imperative to avoid the appearance of anything else, no matter how innocent the actions may be in fact. People judge by appearances far more than by facts, of which frequently they cannot know. But the effect the action has they can always see.

The experience of a young girl recently has been bitter enough to have taught her a lesson she will never forget. Having a small income she took a studio in a building in the city. Coming from a small town and having many friends here the lights and allurements of Pittsburgh appealed to her irresistibly and having no time to play during the day, she played every evening and far into the night. It was pleasant to have her own place to go to after dinner, and the novelty of living alone and playing hostess was fascinating. The girl was as morally straight as any one who ever lived, but it wasn't long before she began to be a person of suspicion in the building. Knowing herself to be all right and having a clear conscience, she thought everyone else would know it too, and that it was all right to have men stay in her studio until midnight and later, night after night. As long as she knew that the man she saw the most often was an old friend of the family it didn't dawn on her ignorant mind that she was placing herself in a compromising position with him by some of the things she did. Other people didn't know that he was an old friend, they simply saw that he was a very devoted one, and certainly the girl was not discreet to say the least, they remarked.

At the end of six months she discovered that something was wrong in the way some people were treating her. Sensitive and hurt, she had character enough to go to a woman and ask what was the matter, and the woman was a good enough friend to tell the girl that her actions were such as to occasion unpleasant gossip. It was a pretty bitter thing for her who had been acting honestly and openly to hear, but she had nerve enough to accept the information and set about reinstating herself.

She had found through experience that a girl who lives alone is anything but independent. The mere fact that she is alone makes her every action open to discussion and to something more among the evil minded, and to avoid gossip one must avoid giving cause for it. The girl still lives alone and she is no longer gossiped about. Instead she goes out a great deal, is invited among both the conservative and artistic set; but she lives a most conventional life as far as the habits and customs of her home are concerned, and she defers to Mrs. Grundy, for whose stringent rules she has seen reason.

It's another case of being impossible to touch pitch and not be defiled. A girl can't live a gay, "whoop-it-up" sort of life without being taken for one of that kind. If she is willing to be thought that, then there is nothing to say; but if one isn't, she must avoid any suggestion, no matter how honest she may know herself to be in fact.

THE CLUBS

Contributions to this department must bear the name and address of the writer to insure attention.

Ignored By the President.

One of the most pathetic pictures drawn by delegates returning from the annual convention of women suffragists held recently in Baltimore, is that of the white-haired leader, Miss Susan B. Anthony, who asked President Roosevelt to be the liberator of the women as Abraham Lincoln was of the black man, and whose petition was ignored. "One word to congress in favor of woman's suffrage," she said at the public celebration of her 86th birthday anniversary in Washington 16 days ago, "would do me more good than all the congratulatory letters he could write." Miss Anthony spoke after the reading of a letter from the President in which he congratulated her on her birthday anniversary and tendered the wish that she might round out her century, while calling her one of the best women of the age and honored among American women.

Glowing reports of the convention were given yesterday afternoon by the three local delegates before the Woman's Civic club of Wilkinsburg. The delegates were Mrs. M. F. Phillis, Mrs. H. E. Friston and Mrs. R. C. Gray. They told of the hearing before the senate committee in the marble room, when the Rev. Anna Shaw and other distinguished women presented the petition for women's suffrage, the same petition which has been presented to congress for 40 years. Miss Huxley of Australia was one of the prominent speakers and spoke of the advantages which the granting of full suffrage has brought to the women of that continent, claiming that a larger percentage of good women vote than is the case among the men. The women from the western states which have been granted woman suffrage declare that the best women go to the polls in large numbers and feel the weight of their responsibility. The delegates to the convention from the western states stated that in states such as Colorado, where women vote, girls doing the same work as men receive the same wages, and school teachers there, both men and women, receive the same salary. The remedy for low wages for women doing equal work with men, these delegates declared, was to give women the privilege of voting.

The meeting yesterday afternoon was conducted in the home of Mrs. F. R. Haas, Stratton Lane.

Travelers Will Do Settlement Work.

The Travelers' club will open a sewing school on Saturday afternoon in the Good Hope Mission of the United Presbyterian church in Penn avenue, near the O'Hara school. The school will be under the care of the civic committee of the club, Mrs. William Macrum being chairman. Associated with her are the president, Mrs. W. P. White, and Mrs. James Drill, Mrs. John D. Hamilton, Mrs. Ella Fraser, Mrs. Black, Miss Margaret Nelson and Miss Rena Wills. Music will be made a feature of the school work, which at present will be carried on only on Saturday afternoons, commencing at 2 o'clock. Soon it is expected that mothers' meetings will be held. The church and club women will co-operate in their work in that district, which is regarded as one of the worst in the city. Miss Wishart, the district visitor for the mission, reports that there are hardly any children in the public schools in that section who are over 12 years of age, both girls and boys being sent to work. For several years the Travelers' club has been interested in the summer playground carried on in the O'Hara school, members of the club composing the committee in charge there.

The club yesterday elected Mrs. Henry J. Bailey as its delegate to the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs in St. Paul in May. Mrs. Alfred E. Clark will be the alternate. The program for the meeting consisted of only one paper, "The Characteristics of the Japanese," prepared and read by Mrs. Bailey, who gave her own impressions of the people after a visit of several months last summer in the land of the mikado. A general discussion of the "Health Resorts of America" was participated in by many of the women present, who described places they had visited. Among them were Mrs. Edward A. Jones, who spoke of Colorado Springs and of Denver, where she visited the consumptives' home; Mrs. William Macrum, who described the sanatorium at Mt. Aito, Pa., and Mrs. James Drill, who had been a guest at the camp for consumptives in the Adirondacks.

Reviews "The Bonnie Briar Bush."

The Rev. Dr. W. R. Wedderspoon, pastor of the Emory Methodist Episcopal church, gave a most interesting review of Maclaren's delightful story, "Beside the Bonnie Briar Bush," yesterday afternoon before the Woman's club of Wilkinsburg. Dr. Wedderspoon is a Scotchman and his tongue has not lost the brogue in this country. The quaint, rich humor and pathos of the story retained their full beauty at the hands of the reader. The lecture was one of the most enjoyable the club has yet had. The music also fitted into the program to an unusual degree, as Mrs. John A. Wood, Jr., played Ethelbert Nevin's conception of a Scotch melody and also Beethoven's "Last Waltz." The club met in the rooms of the Pennwood club, where it will probably hold only two more meetings, then moving with the Pennwood club into the handsome new club house in Rose avenue, where a specially attractive assembly room will be the new scene of the gatherings of the Woman's club.

Still Discussing Japan.

The Women's club of Ben Avon met yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. J. H. Watt in Laural avenue, Ben Avon. "Japan" was the subject discussed. Mrs. F. A. Schumucker read a paper on "Arts and Crafts in Japan," and the hostess read one on "The Japanese Royal Family." Miss Mary Brownson of the faculty of the Pennsylvania College for Women, who was the guest of the club, spoke in the interest of the college.

Will Elect a Delegate.

A delegate and alternate to the biennial meeting of the General Federation of Women's clubs in St. Paul, Minn., in May and June, will be elected at the regular meeting of the Women's Press club of Pittsburgh next Monday afternoon in McCreery's. The meeting of the board of directors will be held at 2 o'clock, followed at 2:30 by the meeting of the club.

Arrange for Annual Exhibit.

The election of officers and final arrangements for the annual reception and exhibition of the Duquesne Ceramic club will be the important business to be taken up at the quarterly meeting of the club next Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Will Sing Canata for Hospital.

The cantata "Joseph" will be presented in the near future under the auspices of the Bellevue Hospital club for the benefit of the hospital. The cast will be made up of some of the best local singers, who are giving their services for this charity. The cantata will be produced under the direction of J. L. McKain.

Miss Susan Blow in Pittsburgh.

Miss Susan Blow, who will deliver a course of lectures under the auspices of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Free Kindergarten association in the Allinda Preparatory school, Fifth avenue, Bellefield, on Thursdays in March, her subject being, "Moral Education," arrived in Pittsburgh on Monday evening.

Condition of the Working Girl.

"The Condition of the Working Girl and How We Can Better It" will be the subject for discussion at the next meeting of the Woman's Civic club of Wilkinsburg nex. Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Edward Stehl, 400 East End avenue.

Evening in Holland.

The Monday club of Carnegie met yesterday in the home of Mrs. S. L. M. McCullough. Arrangements were made for the social to be given by the club at the home of Mrs. George Z. Hosack on March 9. This will be an "Evening with the Dutch," and the members will wear Dutch costumes.

Pictures for the School Room.

Miss Mary Fergusson, chairman of the art department of the Woman's club of Wilkinsburg, has purchased four large pictures to be given by the club to the public schools of Wilkinsburg, the subjects being "Stratford on Avon," "Aurora," "A Reading From Homer" and "The Capitol."

Country Week Society Meets.

The Country Week society of the Sewickley valley, will meet tomorrow in the Edgeworth club house to elect officers and discuss plans for the coming year. In the absence of the president Mrs. Harton McKnight will preside at the meeting.

Court-Martial Not Finished.

The court-martial of Capt. Howard B. Oursler of Company I, Fourteenth regiment, N. G. P., was continued from yesterday to this morning. Capt. Oursler is defending himself on the charge of having substituted three men not members of his company on the floor during inspection last spring. The court-martial is being held in the Fourteenth Regiment armory, Old City hall. Maj. Edward B. McCormick of Greensburg is presiding.

COD LIVER OIL.

It almost makes you sick to think of it, but it isn't nearly as bad as it used to be. The improved method of refining it makes it much easier to take, and when made into Scott's Emulsion almost every one can take it. Most children like it and all children that are not robust are benefited by it. When the doctor says "Take cod liver oil," he generally means Scott's Emulsion; ask him if he doesn't. They know it is more easily digested and better than the plain oil.

Woman's Health

Every woman may be attractive. Bright eyes, pink cheeks and red lips are her nature-given right. A sallow skin, lack of animation, low spirits and weak nerves may be avoided by the use of Beecham's Pills, a remedy that well deserves the confidence of every woman. Again and again they have proved to be invaluable at those recurring times when so many women feel debilitated and suffer from nervousness, headache and depression. It is wonderful the way these pills assist Nature and relieve the suffering.

Every woman who values health and good looks should become a user of

It's a good thing to get acquainted. It's a good time to get acquainted, while the warm spring sunshine sort of thaws out one's bad feelings. There are no two classes of people in the city to whom pleasant acquaintance is more important and more valuable than the real estate fraternity on the one hand and the buying and renting public on the other. It's partly to facilitate this getting acquainted and partly to bring to modest notice the men who are largely responsible for Greater Pittsburgh's growth and prosperity that The Gazette will show in its real estate news columns daily for a few months the likenesses of the realty brokers of this great community, which has but very few equals as a real estate mart in the country.

TO LET—POSSESSION AT ONCE.

STOCKS CLOSED WEAK AND LOWER ALL AROUND

New York Public Service Stocks and the Shares of the High-Grade Railroads Led the Decline. Local Mining Stocks Continue Active.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

The New York stock market yesterday, after opening firm in response to the higher London quotations, ruled dull for an hour or so and then turned weak, closing lower all around.

The public service corporation stocks and the high-grade railroads led the decline. Liquidation continued in Consolidated Gas and the price broke to 156½, but recovered to 158¾ at the close. The weakness was even more pronounced in the tractions. Metropolitan broke from 116 to 111. Metropolitan Securities from 68½ to 65¼, and Brooklyn Rapid Transit from 83¼ to 80⅛. These stocks closed at or near the lowest prices of the day. The weakness in Metropolitan was based upon the visit of representatives of the Municipal Ownership league to Albany to protest against the proposed merger of the traction interests. The reputable press of the metropolis has been protesting against the proposed merger ever since it was announced, on the grounds that it was a financial outrage to inject so much more water into an enterprise which is already overloaded, but Wall street has paid little attention to the protests. As indicating the character of the financiering, it has been calculated that the merger proposes an exchange of $117,000,000 old stock for $225,000,000 new securities to be issued, of which $76,000,000 is bonds. Adding the underlying stocks and bonds which are not disturbed by the plan, there is a total capitalization of something like $425,000,000 in stocks and bonds issued on 600 miles of lines. That the former capitalization made a large call upon the future is suggested by the statement contained in a circular issued yesterday by the committee which made a financial examination in the condition of the various properties, which favors the merger plan, and which advises Metropolitan Street Railway stockholders to deposit their shares under the merger agreement, because "there is no doubt that if the surface lines continue to be operated independently there will be a considerable annual deficit for several years to come."

Great Northern preferred led the decline in the railroad list, selling off from 327 to 314¼ and closing at 316½, a loss for the day of 10 per cent. The decline was based upon a rather positive report that the ore land deal was off. United States Steel closed ¾ lower for the common and 1 per cent lower for the preferred. It is rumored that the point on which the negotiations split was that Great Northern insisted upon the immediate development of the ore lands, while the United States Steel Corporation proposed to use its discretion in this matter. Northern Pacific broke from 223¼ to 216 and closed at 218, a net loss of 2¼ per cent. Northwestern closed 3 per cent lower and Union Pacific, St. Paul, Canadian Pacific and New York Central closed 1 to 1¾ per cent lower than on Monday.

The announcement that both the coal operators and miners in the bituminous fields would again confer on a new scale of wages in deference to the request of President Roosevelt did not have any stimulating effect upon the coal stocks, although with the exception of Reading, which closed 2 per cent lower, the net changes were insignificant. The Wabash issues were strong, and Wabash preferred closed 1½ per cent higher. There were two rumors in connection with this movement. One was that a plan was being considered for the retirement of the debenture Bs by the issue of a 4 per cent bond, and the other was that minority interests were buying Wabash common and preferred for the purpose of giving them a better standing in future controversies over financial policy.

The copper stocks joined the rest of the market in its declining tendency and closed lower. Smelting common lost 2¾ per cent and National Lead the same amount. The minor iron and steel stocks were all lower. Time loans were fractionally higher and call loans firmer, but the latter closed unchanged.

The features of the local stock market were the continued activity in mining shares, both on the exchange and in the curb market, and the rather heavy selling movement which appeared in Manufacturers Light and Heat just before the close. The dealings in Ohio Tonopah reached nearly 27,000 shares. The stock broke from 70 cents a share to 58, and closed at 62 cents. The decline was based upon the receipt of the annual report, which, read between the lines, indicated that much development work must yet be done before the property could be classed as a mine. Tonopah Extension was steady at 11⅜ to 11¾, and Lustre advanced to 36. United Copper was lower at 72, following the decline in this class of stocks in New York. In the curb market Cable Lease almost doubled in price, advancing to $18 a share, and Cable Consolidated sold as high as $1.60. Denver Bullfrog advanced to $1.50. 2,700 shares changing hands at that price. Red Rock on sales of about 7,000 shares declined from 76 to 73 cents. Manufacturers Light and Heat opened unchanged at 28⅜, but during the closing minutes of the session 1,000 shares were marketed at 32 and the stock closed offered at that price. The other natural gas shares were dull and unchanged. Pittsburgh Coal common sold unchanged at 15, while the preferred declined from 58 to 57. River Coal preferred was unchanged at 23½. Crucible Steel common and preferred each closed ¼ higher on light business. The Westinghouse stocks were dull but firmer.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

In the local stock market yesterday the trading was again dominated by the activity in mining shares. Transactions in listed stocks foot up 27,650 shares, while curb sales of unlisted stocks reached about 20,000 shares, not including any that sold for less than 35 cents on the dollar. On the exchange the break in Ohio Tonopah from 70 to 58 cents was the feature. The annual report which was received by stockholders during the day showed that receipts for 1905 exclusive of the amount derived from the sale of treasury stock were less than $5,000. The decline in the stock, however, was probably based upon the supplementary report dated February 7, in which it was stated that the vein struck since the date of the annual report has been "cut off to the east by a fault and we have not been able as yet to pick it up." In the curb market there was a sensational rise in Cable Lease to $18 a share, as compared with $8 on Monday, and an advance in Cable Consolidated to $1.60, the highest yet quoted.

The speculative craze for mining stocks is by no means confined to Pittsburgh. It was reported from Boston yesterday that of the 136,000 shares issued by the Green Consolidated Copper Company, and underwritten without commission at $20 a share, 90 per cent of the total was taken by stockholders, leaving only 10 per cent for the syndicate. From New York it was reported that subscribers for the Bainklava Copper stock would be allotted only 50 per cent on account of the large over subscription. A member of a prominent New York stock exchange house wired a local correspondent yesterday that every man, woman and child from Maine to California seemed to be carrying copper shares on margin or was trying to subscribe for some of the new copper propositions, and he thought it a bad sign.

Campbell Bros. and Childs and Childs were the largest sellers of Manufacturers' Light & Heat on the decline. McClure and Way, Kuhn Bros. and C. L. McCutcheon were buyers.

The course of affairs in the New York money market offered substantial basis for the announcement of the movement to revive speculation in stocks. Sub-treasury absorptions for the week rose to $3,626,000, and the government institution again showed a credit balance at the clearing house. Some of the interior cities are said to be withdrawing funds from New York and the continued advance in silver makes shipments of gold to Mexico for the purchase of silver coins a profitable operation. Time loans were reported firm and quotably higher but the foreign exchange market yielded.

In the Boston market sales of Butte Coalition during the opening hour reached 2,150 shares at 41⅝@43. Sales of North Butte for the day foot up 1,025 shares.

The continued liquidation of Kaffir stocks in the London market had a disturbing effect in various foreign markets, which was aggravated by the continued anxiety over the outcome of the Algeciras conference.

United States 2s and 4s declined ¼ per cent on call in New York and the new 4s declined ¼ per cent.

The American Sugar Refining Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the preferred and 1¾ per cent on the common stock, both payable April 2.

The Wainwright bill, which was defeated in the New York assembly yesterday, legalized the bonds of the Chicago & Alton railroad and of the cities of Pittsburgh, Minneapolis, St. Paul and St. Louis as savings bank securities in New York state.

The Central Leather Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable April 2 to stockholders of record March 15.

The Railway Steel Spring Company has declared the regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on its preferred stock, payable March 20 to stock of record March 9.

The United States Leather Company declared the customary quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent on the outstanding preferred stock, payable April 2 to holders of record March 15.

Gross earnings of Jersey Central for January increased $238,839; net earnings increased $162,257.

Gross earnings of Hocking Valley for January increased $130,963; net increased $95,862.

United States Judge Landis of Chicago decided yesterday the interstate commerce commission has the power to compel witnesses to answer questions propounded during the investigation by that commission. Attorney Mahonald of the commission regards the decision as the most important and favorable to government regulation of railroad affairs that has been obtained for years.

The plan for the purchase of 220,000 shares of the common stock of the Philadelphia company by the United Railways Investment Company of San Francisco has been declared operative.

All grades of refined copper were again advanced ⅛c a pound.

Stockholders of the New York and Cleveland Gas Coal Company, at the annual election yesterday elected the following: Directors, John A. Bell, A. W. Mellon, George T. Oliver, M. H. Taylor, W. R. Woodford, J. B. Hornbeck, W. Hamilton Brunt, F. M. Wallace, George Z. Rosack; president, George Z. Hosack; vice president, W. R. Woodford; treasurer, W. Hamilton Brunt; assistant treasurer, J. M. Wallace; clerk, C. C. Kochendorfer.

EAST END FLATS SELL FOR $24,000

Charles Brucker Buys Property in Susquehanna Street, Brushton, for Investment.

FOURTH SALE OF PROPERTY

Through the agency of Cross & Formichella the store and apartment building at the northeast corner of Susquehanna street and Brushton avenue, Thirty-seventh ward, has been sold for $24,000. It belonged to E. H. Bossinger, the Wilkinsburg contractor, and the buyer is Charles Brucker of the East End. The property consists of a modern three-story brick building on 60x60 feet, which contains three large storerooms and six suites of four rooms each. The total rental from the building is $2,600 a year. In part payment for this property Mr. Bossinger tendered 200x120 feet of vacant frontage in Trevanion avenue, in the Wilkins addition to Swissvale. This ground was valued at $12,000 and on it Mr. Bossinger will build five brick houses to cost $5,000 each. The same contractor is now finishing the seven Heidsberg apartment house on Robinson & Bruckman on the east side of Braddock avenue, opposite the magnificent home of Francis T. P. Lovejoy.

The sale is reported of the property at 5521-5523 Penn avenue, which has already changed hands three times since the first of the year. George A. Brooks, manager of the Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, was out of the city yesterday, but it is reported on good authority that he disposed of the lot for about $36,000, on having paid $33,750 for it a month ago. It measures 37.5x145 feet, running back to Kirkwood street, so the present sale is at the rate of nearly $1,000 a front foot. The first price for the property was $25,000, this sale occurring early in January. A week later it was sold for $30,000 and a few days later for a profit of $2,750.

Many Rumors of Big Deals.

Probably more rumors were current on the street yesterday than have been afloat for months previous. Chief of these in point of interest was the story of a deal for downtown property valued at over $1,000,000, but the brokers in the deal positively denied that any papers had been signed for its purchase. Two other downtown transactions of six figure importance have been agreed to and their publication is delayed only by some minor technicalities which are important to their closing. Three good-sized deals for Penn avenue property between Highland and Negley avenues are reported closed, although no confirmation of the rumors could be secured last night. Several interesting announcements are due from another quarter of the city and a big South Side deal is shaping up, nearly ready for signing. The buying spirit is much stronger than at the first of the year, and the only disquieting thing about the market is that very few of the new owners are announcing improvements to be made this year. A large portion of the properties sold are for speculation and the owners hope to be able to take off some they profits in the next three months without extra outlay for buildings or other improvements.

New Company to Build Flats.

The Modern Apartment Company has been organized for the purpose of building flats on a large scale and of a sort that have been found in other cities to be most popular with the better class of workers, which is growing very rapidly in Greater Pittsburgh. The incorporators are Max W. Kurniker, Dr. H. B. Wilson and George W. Thompson. The company has several good sites in view and aims to erect its buildings in those sections of the city where the enhancement in property values is most rapid. Its capital is $65,000 and Architects Hodgens & Burns have plans for the buildings to be erected.

Architect Sidney Heckert has awarded to the New Kensington Lumber Company the contract for building the bungalow of John R. Brown at Logans Ferry, up the Allegheny river. The house will be one of the most unique dwellings around Pittsburgh and will be occupied by the owner as a summer home. Architects Nirdlinger & Simpson have let a contract to W. G. Wright for the erection of the $15,000 residence of W. E. McKelvey on Lent place, near Dublin street, Twenty-ninth ward.

Estimates taken by Architects Mueller & Orth on the buildings of the Homeopathic Hospital association to be erected in Center avenue, East End, were too high, and it is probable new bids will be taken.

41 Signatures to Deal.

After several months' of effort George T. McDonald has finally closed the sale of the who served several years in the rent department of the Real Estate Trust Company and is now a member of the firm of Keck & Helle, with offices in the Diamond National Bank building.

H. P. Harbison tract of 15 acres in Allegheny to the Brighton Heights Company for $144,000. Owing to the fact that the heirs were widely scattered, it took trips to Chicago, Florida and Canada to get the 41 signatures to the deed. The property will be known as the Brighton Heights Harbison addition, and will be plotted early in the spring.

Mrs. Georgia Baltzer has bought from Grace G. McMinn six brick-veneered houses on 59x85 feet at the northeast corner of Bennett street and Muriland avenue, Twenty-first ward, for $15,000.

Architect James T. Steen has purchased from Annie McCutcheon a residence property, 50x90 feet, on the east side of Dennison avenue, Twenty-second ward, for $13,000.

Horace A. Tompkins is the buyer of the Gellatly property, a reception-hall brick house on 50x180 feet, in South Rebecca street, near Harriett street, Twelfth ward, which was sold a few days ago for $17,500.

Annie B. Parkin has bought from R. B. Mellon and the estate of Alexander King 300x146.5 feet at North Negley avenue and Hampton street, Nineteenth ward, for $12,000.

Small Residence Sales.

PRODUCE IS INACTIVE, WITH BUT FEW CHANGES

Eggs Are Firmer and Storage Goods Advance—Celery and Apples Are Firm.

The general produce markets were inactive yesterday, and there were few changes in the quotations for the day. About the most important change was the advance in the quotation on storage eggs. The market is firmer now than it has been for some weeks. The supply is not quite so heavy, although a large amount of storage goods is still on hand which is not of the best quality, and no doubt may be hard to sell. The reports indicate there is not much goods in transit just now.

The market for apples is still strong and firm. While there has not been much activity for several days past, the late quotations are being easily sustained by the sales made. California box apples are finding a very good market.

Celery continues firm and active, with the supplies rather light for the demand. It is claimed there is a large amount of California stock in transit, but it is not thought the quotations will be affected in the least on the arrival of these shipments, as the demand is strong for all grades.

The butter market is about the same as on Monday. The demand for fresh creamery stock is strong, with a light supply. Imitation creamery brands are being disposed of in large quantities and a large amount of storage stock is also making its appearance.

There is no change in the grocery market except a rather weak market for flour.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Receipts bulletined yesterday were: Pennsylvania, 2 cars hay, 7 cars corn, 7 cars oats, 3 cars feed and 1 car straw. Baltimore & Ohio, 11 cars hay, 3 cars oats, 2 cars corn and 1 car straw. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie, 6 cars corn, 5 cars hay and 4 cars oats.

There was a reduction in the quotations of mixed hay yesterday and there is not much of a demand for any kind of hay, with the exception of No. 1 timothy.

NEWS FROM THE MINES.

Ohio Tonopah stockholders yesterday received copies of the annual report, together with a supplementary report dated February 7. The latter says: "Since the above report was made, the cross-cut has been driven 226 feet from the drift and at 209 feet cut a well defined vein on the foot wall of the silicified zone, which carries from eight to 10 inches of ore and, unfortunately, this vein is cut off to the east by a fault, and we have not been able as yet to pick it up. The cross-cut is still being driven to the south and the formation that it is now in looks more favorable for ore." On January 1, 1906, the company reported a cash balance on hand of $27,977.

It is reported that the Mexican government will soon rescind its order prohibiting American and other foreigners from locating mines in the state of Sonora. P. Cassey, one of the leading American mining men in Western Mexico, is of the opinion that the government took action expelling Americans because dishonest American mining men were operating in this part of Mexico.

Mr. F. C. Skadan, the vice president of the Will Smelting Company, is at present in Pittsburgh in the interest of his company and reports that a 50-ton smelter is rapidly nearing completion. The entire plant will be in operation not later than ten days from this date. A large amount of the stock of the Will Smelting Company is held by Pittsburghers.

Assays from three samples of ore from the Resting Springs Mining Company shows the following results: No. 7—Gold per ton, $129.19; silver, $42.92, and lead, none, a total of $172.12. No. 8—Gold, trace; silver, $29.28, and lead, 76 per cent, or $84, a total of $114.50. No. 9—Gold, $20.67; silver, $7.21, and lead, $69.84, a total of $97.72. A. Lawrence is president of the company. The property is located in California, near the Nevada line, and 40 miles from Bullfrog. The contract for building a railroad connecting with the property calls for its completion by June.

The Rhode Island Copper Company reports for the year ended December 31 a surplus after all charges of $21,952, against a surplus of $44,254 in the previous year.

Butte Amalgamated is making a record run at its smelter this month. It is receiving between 500 and 600 tons of ore a day from the Clark mines and expects these deliveries until the concentrator at the Clark plant is rebuilt.

The Metal Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—The London tin market was unchanged to 5s higher, with spot closing at £183 and futures at £183 10s. Locally the market was a shade higher at $36 20@36 35. Copper was irregular in London, with spot quoted at £78 17s 6d and futures at £78 15s 6d. Locally the market showed continued firmness with lake quoted at $18 12½@18 50; electrolytic, $18 00@18 50; casting, $17 87½@18 00. Lead was unchanged at $5 35@5 40 in the local market and at £15 16s in London. Spelter was 5s higher at £25 5s in London, but remained quiet at $6 00@6 10 locally. Iron closed at 47s 3d for standard foundry, and at 48s for Cleveland warrants in the English market. Locally no change was reported. No. 1 northern foundry is quoted at $18 25@19 25; No. 2 foundry northern, $17 75@18 75; No. 1 foundry southern, $18 25@18 75; No. 2 foundry southern, $17 75@18 25.

BOSTON, Feb. 27.—The market showed a little more activity all through the list. Good buying of Copper Range appeared this morning and the stock showed a sharp advance of 2 points. The only fact of interest in regard to the stock is the near approach of another dividend which will probably be $1.25. A. C. P. was well bought during the morning, but was allowed to break to 110 near the close. The market is still a trading affair and should be bought on all declines.

The Cotton Market.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Cotton futures closed quiet and steady, closing bids: February, 10.23c; March, 10.24c; April, 10.37c; May, 10.46c; June, 10.56c; July, 10.63c; August, 10.60c; September, 10.20c; October, 10.20c; November, 10.13c; December, 10.12c. Spot closed quiet and 5 points higher; middling uplands, 10.85c; middling gulf, 11.10c; sales, 600 bales. The market opened steady at an advance of 2@3 points on fairly steady cables and reports of a big demand for spot cotton at all points named for the day. There was no sign of general support, however, and the market eased off shortly after the opening under room pressure and scattering liquidation. March declined to 10.18c and May to about 10.40c, but rallied later in the morning to a net gain of 5@7 points on reports of additional spot sales in Liverpool and buying by trade interests. Business was moderately active at the advance, and the tone was steady to firm. The market at midday was very steady, with prices about 5@7 points not higher in spite of free selling by some of the local professionals. Spot continued quiet; middling uplands, 10.85c; middling gulf, 11.10c. Total receipts at all ports today, 17,000 bales, against 28,800 bales last week and 58,382 bales last year. For the week, 129,000 bales, against 143,700 bales last week and 160,067 bales last year. Today's receipts at Houston, 7,810 bales, against 13,119 bales last year. New Orleans not received.

BULL NEWS OFFSET BY HEAVY SELLING

Wheat Prices Show Greater Firmness Than During Previous Days—Less Visible Supply.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Sandstorms in Oklahoma and Indian territory were the principal features causing a firm close today in the local wheat market. Final quotations on the May were showed a gain of ¾c. Corn and oats closed each up ¼c. Provisions were 7½ to 10c higher. During the early part of the session the wheat market was barely steady because of lower cables, large northwest receipts, and an extremely slack demand for flour at Minneapolis. The market rallied several times during the first half of the session because of a fairly active demand by commission houses, but on these selling by local longs forced the price down again. During the last half of the session, however, the market became firm on reports from the southwest of damage to fall wheat by severe wind and sandstorms. In addition, primary receipts were less than for the corresponding day one year ago, the arrivals being 556,000 bushels, against 855,000 bushels, last year, and receipts at Kansas City and St. Louis also showed a considerable falling off. The market closed firm with prices about at the highest point of the day. The May option opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 1@1 3-16c, sold between 87¼c and 87½@87¾c, closed at 87¾c. Clearances of wheat and flour were equal to 18,000 bushels. The world's visible supply as shown by Bradstreet's decreased 360,000 bushels. Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago reported receipts of 538 cars against 847 cars last week and 406 cars one year ago.

The corn market was a trifle easier at the start, because of selling but pit traders were influenced by lower cables and the decline in wheat. The market became firmer because of covering by shorts, small country acceptances and considerable buying by cash interests and commission houses. The market closed steady. May opened unchanged to ¼c lower at 43¾c, sold up to 43¾@43¾c, closed at 43¾@43½c. Local receipts were 1,000 cars with 2 cars of contract grade.

A steady tone prevailed in the oats market today. Shorts were fair buyers, and there was a moderate demand by commission houses. Selling was scattered and this with small local receipts helped to create a steady feeling. The opening unchanged at 29½c, advanced to 29¾c, and closed at 29½@29¾c. Local receipts were 165 cars.

Provisions were easy early in the day, on profit-taking by local holders. Later, however, the market became firm and at the close prices showed fair gains. Commission houses and packers were the principal buyers. Some sales of lard to English houses were reported. Hogs have advan

VAUGHN LEAVES THE P. & L. E. OFFICE

Will Engage in Other Business. High Record of Road's Freight Traffic.

WEEK-END RATES UNSETTLED

B. C. Vaughn has resigned from the office of assistant to the vice president of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad and will retire entirely from railroading. He had not definitely decided on his future plans when he left yesterday for a month's sojourn in Florida. One of his immediate concerns, however, will be to care for his private interests.

In the reorganization of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie a month ago the duties of general manager, which has devolved upon Col. Schoonmaker in connection with his office as vice president, were given to J. H. Yohe, then general superintendent. The office of vice president in direct local charge of the departments was continued under Col. Schoonmaker, but, owing to the lessening of his work by the general managership being given to Mr. Yohe, the duties of the vice president's office were lightened and Col. Schoonmaker was able to care for the office alone. The office of assistant to the vice president will be abolished March 1, when Mr. Vaughn's resignation is effective. Mr. Vaughn's resignation was entirely voluntarily, he would have been cared for had he desired to remain in railroading.

Mr. Vaughn leaves entirely of his own will and not because the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie or New York Central lines are forcing him out," said Col. Schoonmaker. "He could have retained his identity with the company, for he is a very valuable man. I have no hesitancy in saying this, for he has proved himself entirely worthy of the best by his work in the company's service. He retires from the company with the best wishes of every officer and employe who knows him and to my own personal regret."

The duties of the office of assistant to the vice president will be assumed by Col. Schoonmaker and his chief clerk, W. F. Brunner.

Mr. Vaughn has been in the service of roads of the New York Central lines' interests for a quarter century. He started as a telegraph operator on the Lake Shore & Michigan Southern and was a dispatcher on that road at Ashtabula, O., when he was brought to Pittsburgh as traveling passenger agent of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. He remained in this office until about 10 years ago, when he was appointed to the office that he now leaves.

Among Railroaders on the Go.

General Manager Peck, Chief Engineer Maintenance of Way Trimble and Superintendent Thornton of the Pennsylvania lines west, inspected the Cleveland & Pittsburgh division and looked into track elevation work at Cleveland. Freight Traffic Manager McCabe is expecting home this morning from a business visit of several days in New York. General Freight Agent Hill of the Panhandle route was in Columbus.

General Freight Agent Brockenbrough of the Baltimore & Ohio is in Chicago. William Graham, assistant engineer of bridges and buildings, conferred with Engineer Maintenance of Way Temple and Division Engineer Rossiter. Assistant General Passenger Agent Taggart conferred with Traveling Passenger Agent Burke at Wheeling. T. E. Newman, road foreman of engines of the Pittsburgh division, was at Foxburg looking after conditions on the narrow gauge branch.

Central Passenger Agent John R. James of the Missouri Pacific is in St. Louis conferring with General Passenger Agent H. C. Townsend.

District Passenger Agent John R. Pott of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul came to Pittsburgh yesterday and will spend a few days at his headquarters.

Commercial Agent R. N. Smith of the New Haven road's freight department was here from Buffalo conferring with traffic men and shippers.

Handling 8,000 Cars Daily.

An average of more than 8,000 cars each week day, with about that many on Sundays, when there is no loading, is the status of freight traffic on the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad at present. This average is approximately that for the entire winter. The highest record in the history of the road was last Saturday, when 8,646 cars were in movement in trains on the company's 170 miles of main-line trackage. On Sunday the movement contained 6,581 cars, bringing the total for the 48 hours to 15,230 cars. On Monday morning the road was cleared of all but 673 cars, which had been held from Sunday for movement to Youngstown, so that the engines would not have to run deadhead to that city to return with empties.

An interesting view of the enormous movement of the Pittsburgh & Lake Erie on Saturday may be seen from the fact that an average of 51 cars per mile were in the trains. This made slightly less than half of each mile of road covered with moving trains, or a continuous train almost 75 miles long—practically half of the company's entire mileage. The "Little Giant's" rails are not allowed to rust.

Many Will Attend Marsh Funeral.

The funeral of David K. Marsh, the Baltimore & Ohio passenger conductor who died at his home at 5638 Second avenue, Glenwood, Sunday, will be attended by a large number of his former associates today. The services will be at 12:30 o'clock at the home, conducted by the Rev. Herbert Hedley, pastor of the Hazelwood Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Marsh was a member. The services will be in charge of the Masonic order, assisted by Division No. 28, Order of Railway Conductors. Interment will be at the Mt. Vernon cemetery at Boston, Pa. Mr. Marsh entered the railroad service in 1886 as a brakeman. He was promoted to freight conductor two years later and to passenger conductor about a year ago.

Traffic Men are Honored.

George D. Ogden and Vernon C. Williams, the two Pennsylvania system traffic men who will leave for Philadelphia to take up advanced positions tomorrow, were tendered a banquet by traffic managers of the big industrial concerns of Pittsburgh Monday night at the Duquesne club. The other honor guests were S. L. Seymour, J. E. Weller, H. A. Jaggard and R. C. Clevenger. Each of the departing men was presented with a handsome pair of diamond cuff buttons. Mr. Ogden was presented Monday with an oil painting by his direct office associates, while Mr. Williams was presented with a diamond scarf pin. About 30 men were at the banquet.

B. & O. and Ft. Wayne Promotions.

W. W. Hook has been appointed general dairy freight agent of the Baltimore & Ohio, with headquarters at Chicago. He was formerly assistant to Page Cherry, who held this position. On account of failing health Mr. Cherry has been assigned to less onerous duties.

S. Bland of the engineering corps of the Ft. Wayne route's western division has been promoted to assistant engineer maintenance of way on that division to succeed A. W. Greavenor, who retires from railroading to engage in contracting. Mr. Bland is a son of J. C. Bland, engineer of bridges and buildings of the Pennsylvania lines west.

Worthington Denies Report.

Vice President Worthington last evening denied a report from Cleveland that the Wabash interests will build a line from Wellington Cleveland and will erect a new passenger station in Cleveland. "We intend to improve our passenger facilities there," said Mr. Worthington, "but we have no definite plans. It has been said that there is a proposition among some of the roads in the south portion of the city to have a union station, and we are simply biding our time until this proposition assumes shape. We should be pleased to consider such a plan."

B. & O. Ready to Install Machinery.

The new sawmill building at the Glenwood shop plant of the Baltimore & Ohio was turned over to Master Mechanic J. P. Prendergast of the mechanical department by Division Engineer L. P. Rossiter of the maintenance department. The building is a frame structure with ample window space and occupies 60x205 feet near the Glenwood station. Mr. Prendergast will begin the installation of the machinery next Monday and the mill will be ready for service in a couple of weeks.

Week-End Rates Not Settled.

The regular meeting of the Pittsburgh Passenger committee at the Hotel Duquesne yesterday was taken up with a consideration of rates to resorts and for events during the summer. The subject of week-end tickets to Erie, Ashtabula, North East, Conneaut Lake and Chautauqua was taken up, but no decision was reached. These rates will be settled at the March meeting.

Railroad Notes.

Trainmaster C. B. Gorsuch of the Baltimore & Ohio is on the sick list.

Traffic Manager W. R. Orr of the National Fireproofing Company returned from a week's business visit in New York.

Allegheny Valley railway stockholders will meet in Philadelphia March 14 to vote on the merger with the Pennsylvania.

Commercial Agent T. C. Beal of the Michigan Central will remove on April 1 from the Bessemer building to room No. 1571 in the Frick annex.

The Pennsylvania awarded to H. E. Ahrens & Bro. of Reading the contract for an 18-foot tunnel walkway under the main line tracks at the East Pittsburgh station.

THE COURT REVERSES A POLICE JUDGE

Men Arrested Before Election Day Have Their Sentences Remitted Upon Appeal.

MILLINER'S LARGE ESTATE

Judge Shafer in criminal court reversed Police Magistrate J. J. Kirby in two cases in which he had fined prisoners $50 and costs as suspicious persons. He also reduced the fine of another prisoner and held the cases of two others under advisement. The prisoners who took the appeals were Thomas Walsh, John Robinson, Alex and Julius Moten and George Jaffey. The men had been arrested a few days preceding the election by the police, it being claimed they never worked, frequented gambling and disorderly houses and were suspicious persons. The testimony of the police during the hearing of the appeals did not bear out these allegations in many particulars. Judge Shafer ordered the fines of Walsh and Robinson to be returned. Alexander Moten's fine was reduced to $10 and costs and reserved his decision in the cases of Julius Moten and Jaffey. All the men had been fined $50 and costs.

Mrs. Emma J. Irwin, a former milliner of Penn avenue, disposed of an estate estimated at $75,000 by her will. She directs that the business be continued until it can be sold to the best advantage, preference to be given to her employes. She leaves her father, John F. Martin, $5,000, and her sister Clara, $10,000, for the care of the daughter of the testatrix. Mrs. Irwin provides for a liberal education of her daughter, and leaves the residue of her estate to her when 21. Trust Officer Brooks of the Colonial Trust Company, filed the will, and the Fidelity Title and Trust Company is appointed guardian of the daughter.

Tillie and Max Freedman have answered Bennett Levy's equity suit against them and others, an action over property. The Freedmans say Mrs. Freedman bought the property in good faith without knowledge that Levy had any interest in it.

Because she refused to always make a living for him, Ida Shenkman says her husband, Jacob Shenkman, left her and went back to New York, where they formerly lived. The libellant says she asked him to stay here and act as a husband should, but she says he started to quarrel and tried to shoot her when he was arrested. She says she paid his fine. She says he then told her he would stay here if she would support him. She says she refused to do so, and he went back to New York.

In the divorce suit of Mary E. Miller against Howard S. Miller, the commissioner filed his report. The libellant says her husband was kind to her when sober, but she says he drank and gambled, and when drinking she says was ugly in his treatment of her. She says he struck her once and choked her on another occasion.

The Philadelphia Company has answered E. T. Wright's bill in equity, alleging that the advance payment required of him was reasonable and was not an unjust discrimination, but in accord with the contract. The company says the plaintiff was notified twice that his gas would be shut off, but it is claimed he took no steps to avoid this.

On an appeal to quarter sessions court, Hixon & Co., fined for working an alleged crippled horse, secured the remission of the fine, but the court allowed the costs to stand. A number of veterinary surgeons gave testimony in the case on the hearing of the appeal.

Harry L. Parks of Allegheny filed a voluntary petition of bankruptcy. His liabilities are $1,805 and assets $226. Most of Parks' liabilities are debts ranging from $50 to $100.

MR. PAUR'S ORCHESTRA RETURNS SUCCESSFUL

Conductor Pessimistic on Local Conditions, but Manager Wilson Cheers Him Up.

The Pittsburgh orchestra, with Emil Paur, the conductor, and George H. Wilson, the manager, returned yesterday from a successful three weeks' tour through Canada and the middle west. Mr. Paur and Mr. Wilson were very enthusiastic over the reception accorded the orchestra wherever it went. Mr. Paur was so much pleased that he was inclined to be pessimistic regarding the kind of support accorded the orchestra hitherto in Pittsburgh.

However, in conversation, Mr. Paur admitted the support of the orchestra was better later in this season than at the beginning, and he said the condition of the building had much to do with the comparatively poor attendance, and he looked forward to much larger audiences when the building is finished.

"Oh," said Mr. Wilson, when Mr. Paur's discouragement was told him, "that is not Mr. Paur's permanent mood. He is absolutely happy in Pittsburgh, because he is left entirely free to work out his own ideals.

"We must remember that symphony orchestras never have been self-supporting and can hardly be expected to be. Mr. Paur regrets the absence of a large hall in which concerts can be given at prices from $1 down. So do we all regret it, for in eight years' experience we have learned that the people down town will not come to Carnegie Music hall, although the concerts are intended for all the people. Mr. Paur's concert in Old City hall was splendidly successful, and no doubt the next one he was to give there would have been equally successful, had not the hall burned down. The people went to the concert, and Mr. Paur did not lower the tone the slightest, showing that the people will pay to hear good music when they can afford to pay the price. When we have a big hall capable of seating an audience large enough to make the concerts pay, at popular prices, then we will have achieved a condition that all lovers of the orchestra desire. We want the people to enjoy good music. The orchestra is not for the rich or the well-to-do only; it is for everybody.

"Now, as for the three weeks' season outside Pittsburgh. It was splendid. It was artistically and financially a success, beyond words to express, greater than any other orchestra in this country ever had in the middle of its regular season."

German Interest Not Controlling.

Reports from New York announcing that the German Steel Kartel, which controls the steel industry in Germany, has secured control of one-sixth of the issue of the United States Steel common stock, and was in position to influence the corporation, is not credited among local bankers. While it is generally admitted that the Germans are large holders of the stock, it is firmly denied that they are in any portion to dictate, much less control.

IMPAIRED HEARING

With very few exceptions, roaring, hissing and other noises in the head, the forerunners of impaired hearing and deafness, are caused by catarrhal inflammation of the middle ear and unless this cause is removed, total deafness, first in one and then in the other ear, is certain to follow. But if sufferers will send a two-cent stamp to pay postage, Pretzinger Bros., Chemists, Dayton, O., will send a free sample of Pretzinger's Catarrh Balm which will prove that every form of catarrh and catarrhal deafness can be positively cured. The first application gives relief. Read what grateful people who have used this remedy say about it.

"The use of the sample box of catarrh balm which you sent me stopped the ringing noises in my head and also stopped the awful headaches which I had before using it. I bought a jar of your balm at Baum's drug store."

J. P. Hannon,
Soldiers' Home, Danville, Ill.

"I lost many a night's sleep before I got your catarrh balm, but since its use, I sleep soundly every night. I used it for catarrh and its effect was so quick and it helped my head so much that it surprised me greatly."

Ivydale, W. Va.

Why You Should Buy Walker's Goods

DO you know the extraordinary value you can get for your money when you buy goods on the Walker plan? Take a $10.00 order for example. Do you know that if you went to the cheapest store in town it would be impossible to get the same quantity of goods, even of a lower quality, and the article you may select for your premium for less than $20.00? The same thing applies even to a greater extent on the premiums that are given with a larger quantity of goods.

You may ask how we can afford to give such extraordinary value. The reasons are simple. Perhaps you know that in every line of business, the customary way of placing goods in the hands of the customer is for the manufacturer to hire expensive salesmen to travel from city to city and town to town and sell the goods he makes to some jobber or wholesale dealer. Oftentimes he meets with indifferent success, but the expenses of the traveling man go on just the same. These expenses vary from 10 to 20 per cent. of the selling price of the article manufactured, and must be added to the cost of the goods before the jobber gets them. But this is not all. The manufacturer, in order to make it easier for his traveling representative to sell his goods in every town he visits, is obliged to spend enormous sums of money in advertising his wares.

Have you any idea as to what this magazine or newspaper advertising costs? Do you know that a certain monthly publication charges as much as $6,000 for one page for one insertion? Think of it! This enormous sum of money for one insertion only, to be added to the cost of the article advertised without adding one iota to the quality or the value of the article advertised.

Yet this is not all. After all this money has been spent by the manufacturer to advertise his goods and to place them in the hands of the wholesaler or jobber, it becomes necessary for the wholesaler or jobber to engage another lot of traveling salesmen to sell the manufacturer's goods to the retail dealer. Then Mr. Retailer, in order to be successful, must also advertise so as to get your patronage.

Now let us see what expenses have been added to the cost of the manufacturer's goods before the consumer gets them. There is the

Manufacturer's Traveling Salesmen,
Manufacturer's Advertising Expenses,

Then there is the Wholesaler's General Expenses.

Wholesaler's Advertising Expenses,
Wholesaler's Traveling Men's Expenses,
Wholesaler's Bad Debts,
Wholesaler's Profits.

Then the

Retailer's Expenses,
Retailer's Advertising Expenses,
Retailer's Bad Debts,
Retailer's Profits—

—eleven different items of expense which must be added to the cost of every article manufactured before it gets into the hands of the consumer when sold in the ordinary way.

In selling our goods direct to you, the consumer, we cut out all these unnecessary expenses of the manufacturer, jobber, wholesaler and retail dealer, which you can readily see do not add anything to the quality or value of the article.

We are satisfied with a single profit—the manufacturer's—and this is the reason you can get more and better value for your money by buying your goods on the Walker Plan than it is possible for you to get in any other way. And this is the reason why all housekeepers should become interested in our manner of doing business, and tell their friends and neighbors about it.
